Auburn.

Sunday last the feast of St. Alphonsus was observed by the members of St. Alphonsus' Church and services appropriate to the occasion were conducted by the pastor, Rev. Joseph Netzel. The altars were tastefully decorated with potted plants and a profusion of cut flowers and brilliantly illuminated with countless wax tapers. In the morning high mass was sung by the pastor and the choir, under the direction of Miss Mary Ohlbeiser, rendered an excellent musical programme. Father Netzel delivered an address in German on the life and influence of the patron saint.

St. Alphonsus' parish was started as a mission by the Redemptorist fathers, and when the parish was formed the church was placed under the patronage of St. Alphonsus, the founder of the order of Redemptorists. The saint was a member of an old patrician family of high birth, and was born at Naples, Italy, in 1696. He studied law and gave promise of a brilliant career as a statesman. His father was anxious that his son, who had marked talent and inherited much wealth, marry into another noble family. Arrangements were made for the union, but the saint entered the service of the church. He was ordained to the priesthood and was soon made a bishop. He devoted his money and influence to establish poor missions and to spread his faith to the ignorant and neglected, and out of this humble beginning grew the noted order of Redemptorists which has grown to be one of the most important orders of missionaries in the Catholic church. The order was duly approved by Pope Benedict XIV in 1749, and Alphonsus was duly canonized a saint by Pope Gregory XVI in 1837.

The Knights of St. Alphonsus attended high mass in uniform. In the evening special vespers were held, which was also largely attended.

ST. MARY'S CARNIVAL CLOSES.

Fifteen Hundred Persons Witness the Awarding of Prizes—Names of Winners.

The event of greatest interest at St. Mary's Fair Saturday night was the closing of the contest between Detective "Jack" McDonald and Capt. Edward Colbert of Hose 1, and when the final result was announced, McDonald had a showing of 6,742 votes and Colbert had to his credit 5,740.

As soon as the result was made known Father Stewart presented to the winner the gold watch amidst deafening applause. Father Stewart had not forgotten that some one must lose, and as soon as Detective McDonald had dismounted from the platform, he called Colbert forward and presented him a handsome diamond stud with his blessing.

The doll contest also closed last evening, Miss Kennedy receiving 430 votes and Miss Paisley 150 votes.

Monday night's attendance at the carnival was the largest since the opening night. Fully 1,500 persons were present to witness the closing contest. The crowd was so dense that a number of policemen had to make a passage large enough to allow one person at a time to approach the platform, and cast his or her vote.

The contest which created the greatest amount of enthusiasm and which netted the largest amount of money was the men's bicycle contest between "Don" O'Brien and David Hibbard. Mr. O'Brien won the bicycle, having received 3,088 1-10 votes to 1,036 9-10 cast for Mr. Hibbard. Mr. O'Brien briefly thanked his friends for the interest showed in the contest. The amount netted in this contest was $413.

The next event was for a suit of clothes, by Thomas Mooney and Joseph Toomey. Mr. Toomey won, receiving 398 7-10 votes to Mr. Mooney's 278 5-10 votes. The amount netted by this contest was $77.75.

The diamond ring contest between Misses M. Conolly and May Rehberg was won by Miss Conolly who received 1,745 2-10 votes. Miss Rehberg received 982 1-10 votes. This contest netted $371.75.

Miss Gertie Hartnett won the girl's bicycle, receiving 659 8-10 votes. Misses F. Egan and Colla Meyer 840 and 152 9-10 votes respectively. The amount of this contest was $114.95.

Wednesday night the young ladies who had faithfully attended upon the booths all through St. Mary's Fair, while the others were dancing and making merry, received their reward in the shape of a reception and dance which was given at St. Mary's Hall especially for their benefit. Each of those who were in attendance upon a booth was invited, and given the privilege of bringing her best friend. About one hundred couples were present, and a very pleasant evening was spent in dancing square dances and in general social intercourse. The decorations all remained and the booths continued to dispense their drinkables to warm and thirsty drinkers.

During the evening the following prize winners were made known: The Madonna donated by Miss Ryan was won by John Haug; the chair donated by Grant & Co. by Miss T. the memorial, which will be placed in the Black Bay area, will be marked as an example of genius in war the Millmore monument at Mount Hills, Boston.

The O'Reilly monument will be placed in the June part at the intersection of Boylston street. The grounds about it and the granite costs are already completed, and the foundation of the monument is laid. The architectural portion of the design consists of a base of granite, four feet high; approached by three steps. From this base rises a column nearly nine feet in height, seven feet in width, and two feet six inches in thickness, which forms a background for the sculpture.

The two faces of the monument, one of which faces on Boylston street and the other on the opposite side, will be carved with O'Reilly's features, upon which as a background is placed on the side toward the Black Bay area a portrait of John Boyle O'Reilly, upon a pedestal.

Upon the side toward the park, there is a group which will represent the consideration of the monument as a sculpture in Boston. It contains three figures, the center of which personifies the spirit of liberty, either side of which are the figures of poetry and valor, and a winged boy, the other of which youth, who beneath the lifted arms of the statue, stands upon the leaves of the laurel wreath.
