NEWS DOTS FROM IRELAND

Interesting Paragraphs Concerning the Doings of Our Friends Across the Ocean.

Gathered from All Parts of the Emerald Isle for Our Readers.

CONNAUGHT.

GALWAY.
There are at present nearly one thousand patients in Ballinasloe Lunatic Asylum, collected from all parts of the Western Province.

It is rumored that the Salisbury Government are about to appoint a prominent Catholic Tory-Unionist to the Presidency of the Galway Queen's College.

At the last Town Pre-emption Session, Colonel Nolan, in the chair, a case of malicious injury arising out of the election in North Galway, at the recent general election, was heard and decided. Matthew Sisk, a blacksmith, who resides in the Curranville District, in the neighborhood of Headford, had a branch shop at Ballybane. He took a prominent part in the election, and in a few days afterward his forge was broken open and his bellows cut in several places. After hearing evidence, the majority of the Bench decided to award £2 10s. compensation.

LEITRIM.
The death is announced of Sir Gilbert King, at his residence, Charlestown, Drumsna, at the age of eighty-three years. Deceased, who was second son of Sir Robert, the second baronet, was born in 1811, and succeeded his father in 1826. He was High Sheriff for Leitrim in 1876, a position filled by his son, Mr. Gilbert King, Jamestown, in 1882. Deceased had the reputation of being a sympathetic and considerate landlord, and lived, during his life, at home among his tenants.

MAYO.
Mr. J. B. Dillon, J. P., Ballina, has given an abatement of three shillings in the pound to the tenants of the Tassie estate, over which he is receiver.

The departure of Very Rev. W. Doran, Prior O. S. A., from Ballyhouna, has been the occasion for sincere regret among his numerous friends. For sixteen years he has had charge of the Augustinian Friary, and the improvements he effected during that time are many and great, among them being the erection of a beautiful residence, and the decoration of the church. Indeed to his indefatigable exertions may be attributed the existence of an Augustinian Friary in the town.

ROSCOMMON.
Recently a young man named Thomas Cox, aged 29 years, and belonging to Annaduff, died at his residence after a week's illness. On the Monday preceding, deceased had dug some potatoes in a field convenient to his residence, and proceeded to pick them up, notwithstanding that it was raining he received caused him to catch cold. An attack of pneumonia supervened and culminated in his death.

An awfully sudden death occurred recently at Castlerea. A man named Henry Saunders, aged about sixty-five years, went for a walk for the purpose of bringing home a can of water. Immediately after leaving the well he fell and was discovered by a man named Thomas Wynne. Medical assistance was at once procured, but life was found to be extinct. An inquest was held, and after hearing the evidence, a verdict was returned of death from heart disease.

SLIGO.
Mr. E. Foley, the present proprietor of the well-known Lough Gill Brewery, Sligo, seems determined to sustain the name of that old establishment. He has secured the services of Mr. P. Graham, a highly qualified and experienced brewer. That Mr. Graham is so proved by his when he was in charge of the County of Sligo.

LEINSTER.

DUBLIN.
The Tory Government has made up its mind not to appoint a Judge to fill the vacancy created by the death of Justice Harrison. It will be interesting to know what they are going to do with the salary of the office. The over-taxation of Ireland is defended by the Treasury on the ground that though the money is extracted from the country at present system of taxation, the excess is returned, in one form or another, to the country. The defense is a poor one, and the consolation it contains for the Irish tax-payers is even poorer. But, at all events, it earmarks all the money hitherto spent on Irish departments as Irish money, to be expended for Irish purposes. Where, then, is this money going? The £3,500 a year would be a welcome addition to the Congested Districts Fund.

KILKENNY.
At Thomastown Petty Sessions, James Mahoney, of Raheen, was brought up in custody charged with stealing fourteen sheep, the property of Luke Brennan, of Ballygub. He and his brother gave evidence that some time ago they had missed fourteen of their sheep bought by Kavanagh and Neill of the accused, a point as to identity arose, and after a long argument the case was adjourned to be considered before a special court.

KING'S.
A terrible occurrence took place recently, on the townland of Linnane, near Kinnitty, by which three children lost their lives. A laborer named John Russell lives at the place mentioned, and during his absence at work, his wife went to the village of Kinnitty, for groceries, leaving in the house her three young children. Before leaving she had filled a hanging lamp with oil, after which she placed the oil can under the table and went on her errand. On returning she was startled at seeing smoke issuing from the house, and on raising the latch of the door was horrified to find the three children dead inside. They had evidently thrown the oil into the fire, and had been suffocated by the fumes.

LOUTH.
Notice has been given that the Corporation of Drogheda intend to make application to Parliament, in the ensuing session, for an act enabling them to alter, define and extend the boundaries of the Borough of Drogheda, in the counties of Louth and Meath.

QUEEN'S.
Sergeant Falangan recently arrested a public carrier named James Dwyer, residing in Carlow-Grange, on a charge of having fatally assaulted a man named Henry Flanagan, at Gorey.

WESTMEATH.
A fire broke out recently in the shop attached to Mr. Corcoran's Hotel in Delvin. The alarm was given by some neighbors who happened to be out at the time, and the occupants of the house were aroused. Mrs. Corcoran, in escaping, jumped out from an upper window and sustained some serious injuries. All the other inhabitants of the house escaped uninjured. Mr. Corcoran kept a large supply of goods in every department, and some of the stock being of a highly inflammable nature, the fire made rapid headway, as there was no means of coping with the conflagration except to throw buckets of water on it, and in very quick time the splendid premises, which contained some of the finest hotels in the four walls. Fully £4,000 worth of property was destroyed.

WEXFORD.
Many will learn with regret the news of the death of Sir Frederick Hughes, which took place at his residence, Burntown House. Sir Frederick was close on eighty-two years of age, having been born in 1814. He was the only surviving son of Mr. Robert Hughes, Ely House, Wexford. He early commenced his military career under the old East India Company, and after some service there went into the Persian service. He spent a considerable portion of the latter period of his life in the county of Wexford, and had the reputation of being a good landlord. He had long been ailing, but his death was somewhat sudden.

WICKLOW.
During a dense fog in the English Channel, the bark G. L. Waters, of Arklow, drove ashore on the East Goodwin Sands, while on a voyage to Dublin from Antwerp, with silver sand. The crew were brought ashore by the life-boat, the captain, Mr. Breslin, being so exhausted that he had to be put to bed and medical aid summoned. One man was injured. The vessel was subsequently towed off the sands at high water, and taken into Ramsgate.

MUNSTER.

CLARE.
Among the presentments at the last Clare County-at-Large Presentment Sessions, at Ennis, was an application from the Receiver of Constabulary for £2,685 10s. 4d., half the expense of extra police in Clare, for the half-year ending September 30. The resolution of the last Grand Jury was adopted, declaring that, on the facts disclosed by its committee's report, the county of Clare was fairly entitled to a substantial increase in the "free force" of Constabulary, and that military should be again stationed in the county.

CORK.
Recently Andrew Quirke, a guard in the employment of the Great Southern and Western railway, slipped from a train, at Mallow, and received serious injuries. He was conveyed to the Glanmire station, and after being attended by a priest and doctor, was conveyed to the North Infirmary, Cork.

Mary Keating, belonging to the vicinity of Youghal, who had landed at Queenstown from the White Star steamer Majestic, was charged at the Petty Sessions Court with attempting to smuggle one pound of tobacco and a small quantity of spirits of American manufacture, on which duty had not been paid. The articles were found in her trunk after she had stated she had nothing liable to duty. She was fined 5s. 6d., being the single value and duty, and 1s. 2d. costs. The tobacco and spirits were forfeited.

KERRY.
A sad fatality is reported from the neighborhood of Lisleton, the victim being a young woman named Mary Dwyer, twenty-three years of age, who was found burnt almost to a cinder near her father's house at Causeway. The evidence showed that she had upset a paraffin oil lamp on her dress, and that her clothes got ignited while stooping over a pot which was hanging over the fire. Immediately the poor creature was enveloped in flames and rushed out into the fields, thereby only making matters worse. There was nobody present to give assistance, and the woman was literally burned alive.

LIMERICK.
James Harty, aged twenty-three years, a van driver, in the employment of Messrs. Can-Barrington's Hospital, recently, suffering from fractures to three of his ribs, and other injury. He was engaged carting some coals to the workrooms, when his horse stumbled, throwing him on the roadway, and one of the coals fell on his chest. His condition was considered critical.

TIPPERARY.
The Glenmalur Corporation recently endorsed the petition for the reprieve of the man Shortle, now under sentence of death in Canada.

The Carrick-on-Suir Saw Mills were recently sold by auction to Mr. George White, in sum for £1,200. Mr. Thomas Mottley was the purchaser.

Further, Castleknock, in the morning, when he got kicked by a horse on the leg, and sustained a compound fracture.

WATERFORD.
Dr. Stephenson, of Ballyduff, West Waterford, has been elected medical officer for the dispensary district of Woodstown, Dunmore, rendered vacant by the resignation of Dr. Jackman, who was appointed successor to the medical officership of the Waterford Union, held by the late Dr. Whitty.

Mr. John Slattery, the oldest magistrate in Waterford, who recently sustained injuries by a fall, while having a walk, which led to concussion of the brain, expired recently. He was at one time, one of the leading and wealthiest bacon merchants in Waterford, a most amiable, charitable and God-fearing citizen, and a member of nearly every public institution in Waterford. His death is deeply lamented.

ULSTER.

ANTRIM.
Belfast has now household municipal suffrage, and women are allowed to vote there as well as men. Six thousand of the Belfast voters are women and thirty-eight thousand men voters.

A determined suicide took place recently at Willow street, Belfast. A man named William Henry Magee, aged about forty years, employed as porter in the Bank of Ireland, blew out his brains with an old blunderbuss, at his residence.

ARMAGH.
Mr. William A. Simpson, one of the best known solicitors practicing in the North of Ireland, died recently at his residence, Melbourne terrace, Russell street, Armagh.

At the last Keady Petty Sessions, a farmer named George McGlinchey, was charged with having on his premises, at Craghobles, materials for the manufacture of "poten." The evidence was to the effect that the police made the seizure on a Sunday morning, about four o'clock. One hundred and forty barrels of "wash," besides other materials for the manufacture of "poten," were discovered. A penalty of £25 and costs was imposed.

DERRY.
At a meeting of the North-West Farmers' Association (composed almost exclusively of Protestants), held in Derry, Mr. A. Gilliland in the chair, a series of important resolutions on the land question was submitted and unanimously adopted. The meeting called on the Government to make the presumption as to improvements in the case of the Ulster Custom in favor of the holding tenant. It also protested against the practice of the sub-commissioners of ignoring the tenants' interest in fixing fair rents.

DOWN.
Intelligence has been received in Newry of an accident which happened aboard the steamer Kilkeel, of Newry, while on a trip from Rostrevor to Swansea during the recent storm. Along the Wicklow coast the vessel shipped a huge sea which swept the decks, and throwing a young seaman named Shillen against the deck house, broke his arms and legs.

MONAGHAN.
Dr. Kiseby, Medical Officer of one of the Dispensary Districts of Carrickmacross Union, was recently found dead about a mile from his residence, between Shercock and Carrickmacross. Dr. Kiseby was for some years Medical Officer of the Shercock Dispensary District, and was a man much respected in his profession. He was about fifty-five years of age, and leaves a family to mourn his loss.

TYRONE.
A fire was recently discovered on the premises of Mr. McKee, cooper-tinner, at the lower end of Scotch street, Dungannon. The fire had so far taken possession of the lower part of the house that it was with some difficulty the inmates were got out. Mr. McKee himself having to jump out of the first story window. The premises were completely gutted.

Belfast correspondent that he was waiting time if he delayed more than six months in any one of his longest wishes, he recently secured a novel in his own hand.
