After playing eight games time was called, and it was found Miss Mary Shey had won the king prize, Miss Ella Sheridan, the ladies' first; Dr. G. T. ### COOK OPERA HOUSE.

On Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, and Saturday matinee, Feb. 13, 14, 15, at the Cook we are to have one of the greatest successes known to the theatrical stage for years. It is a perfect production of the beautiful play "The Brooklyn Handicap." We clip the following from the Philadelphia Times of Sept. 11th:

"The fourth act, the 'Great Brooklyn Handicap' must be seen to be fully appreciated. The horses, the jockeys, the crowd in the grand stand, the excitement of the race, the thrilling finish, upon which so much depends are all so lifelike that they baffled description. Five times did the curtains ascend on the horses, and galleries sided with the lower part of the house in vociferous cheers. As a stirring, up-to-date play, the 'Brooklyn Handicap' has before it a winter of great success."

Merry, active, sprightly, graceful Emily Barker and a company of comedians known as the leading exponents of polished comedy play an engagement at the Cook next Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday evening, Monday and Wednesday matinees, presenting the great English musical comedy success, "Our Flat," a play by Mrs. Musgrave, which ran 780 consecutive nights at the Strand Theatre, London. It was produced in New York by Mr. Daniel Frohman, and made a hit on the first night that was decisive and emphatic. It is full of delightful bits of character acting, and the company producing it is credited with making more distinguished individual hits than any that has appeared in New York for some time.

ACADEMY.

Miss Florence Bindley and "The Pay Train" will be the attraction at this place next week. Miss Bindley has been seen here often, but on this visit will be supported by the strongest cast the play has had yet. The following clipping speaks of the star and play.

"The praise bestowed upon Miss Florence Bindley and her excellent company, in the comedy drama, 'The Pay Train,' was fully endorsed by the two very large houses that crowded Havlin's Theatre yesterday. It was a fitting compliment to Miss Bindley, to see the very large afternoon audience despite the counter attraction. The play is all that has been claimed for it, one of such interest that the attention of the audience is held from first to last. It is one that does not depend on the scenic effects for its success, and yet they are the most realistic seen here for years. Notably among which may be mentioned the railroad scene in which a full train of cars dashes across the stage at full speed. The pay car is uncoupled in full view of the audience, and lit up by electricity, showing dramatic action inside the car.

The change of play in the middle of this week will give the public the chance to see the clever star in her other play 'The Captain's Mate.'

WONDERLAND THEATRE.

Another strong bill has been prepared for the coming week at this house, in fact good shows seem to be the rule. There are eight strong specialty acts announced for next week as follows: the four Lassards in their extremely funny comedy sketch, "In a Country School." Carr and Jordan, prettier, high class vocalists and comedy artists. Kenneth Brocken, an eccentric duo of French comedians. Hand and Rollinson, English musical grotesques; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Sidman in a little bit of real life. Barry and Ella Gray with their ever amusing and intensely funny Marionette entertainment, and two other good acts not yet announced. The management of this house seem to think that they cannot give their patrons too much for their money.
