BRIDGE COLLAPSED.

Tramcar Loaded With People Hurled Into the Water.

VICTORIA, B. C., May 27. A terrible accident has occurred here. A tram car and trolley were taken to MacAulay's point, near Esquimalt, and crowds were making their way there by every route.

Two cars left Government street with upwards of 100 people. The first got over Point Ellice bridge, which crosses at Victoria arm, safely, but when the other was about half way over the middle span of the bridge about 100 feet in length, water way and the car plunged into the water some 100 feet below.

The car was completely submerged and all on board were drowned with the exception of some of those who were standing on the platform and who, escaping injury from the falling timbers, managed to save themselves by using the floating rungs of the bridge and thus got ashore.

Numbers of the bodies have already been got up and the work of identification is proceeding. It is a difficult matter, as a great many of the bodies are those of visitors.

A score of people are known to have drowned, while a number are missing and probably perished. Very few escaped and these are all more or less injured.

WRECKED BY CYCLONES

Many Villages Laid In Ruins by the Wind.

80000 OF PEOPLE KILLED.

Wide Path of Destruction and Death Left by the Storm—Lower Illinois and Michigan Towns Visited by the Great Wind Storm.

MARSHAL TOWNS, Ia., May 28.—The villages of Valeria, Mingo and Santiago, Jasper county, on the Chicago Great Western railway, between this city and Des Moines, were nearly wiped from the face of the earth by a cyclone, and adjacent counties were laid waste with considerable loss of life and great destruction of railway and other property.

Reports here say 14 persons were killed at Valeria, 5 at Mingo, 4 in the country a few miles west of Bon Durant and 8 at Santiago.

Five other persons in the same neighborhood were badly injured. At Sant ago the following persons are known to have been killed and a number of others were seriously injured: Mr and Mrs Bailebaugh and grandchild.

A terrible spectacle was presented in one demolished house in Valeria. Several members of a family named Fallows—father, mother and five children—were found lying dead among the wreckage in one room, except the mother, who is not expected to live. Two children named Alken were also killed outright and a large number of people in the village and the country severely injured.

The following buildings were wrecked in Valeria: Chicago Great Western depot, one drug store, two general stores, postoffice, Catholic church, one creamery, two blacksmith shops and 20 dwellings.

A witness of the storm says the approaching cloud looked like an inverted beer bottle and dipped down at Valeria with appalling suddenness and frightful effect, wrenching oak trees two feet in diameter or pulling them out by the roots as if they were weeds.

The track and right of way of the Chicago and Western, with a number of bridges and jacks, work between Im and Mingo, for a number of miles, were carried away and telegraph lines are down. Details of the destruction are only obtainable by telephonic connection.

The property loss in the track of the cyclone is estimated at over $100,000. Later reports say a man named Charles Cullin and his four children, Mike, Susie, Lillian and Charles Jr., were killed. His wife and two sons, Willie and Deol, are also badly injured, the former probably fatally.

Two women, each named Mrs. Dickey, one elderly, the other a younger woman, Mrs. Osborn and two children.

The storm occurred between 7 and 10 o'clock, accompanied by a deafening roar, a deluge of rain and hail. Its track was several miles in length and from a quarter to half mile in width. A great amount of live stock was killed and the crops in the path of the storm utterly destroyed.

It is not likely the railroad will be repaired so that traffic can be resumed for several days. The district travelled by the storm is very fertile. Timber and dead stock are strewn over the path of the storm in all directions. The death list will probably aggregate 25, as a number of persons are still missing in addition to those reported killed and injured. The Iowa river is still rising.

BROWN BUILDING DISASTER

Contractor Straub's Body Recovered. Dead Number Four.

BUFFALO, May 27.—The list of dead in the collapse of the Brown buildings on East Seneca street on Thursday remains at four.

There have been no additions to the list injured, and it does not seem likely that there will be any more bodies found in the ruins, although there is a possibility that there may be. None of those previously reported injured will die.

The last body to be recovered from the ruins was that of the contractor, William F. Straub, who had been caught and crushed in the collapse of his own handiwork. It lay in the exact place where it was supposed to be—the center of the vacant store which was being remodeled, 10 East Seneca street. This is the place where William M. Luther declared he had left Mr. Straub a few minutes before the catastrophe occurred.

The body was found about 12 feet from the front of the building, buried beneath a mass of brick, plaster and splintered timbers. One of the workmen espied a piece of cloth sticking out of the pile. He removed some more rubbish and found that it was part of a garment. It was quickly learned that there was a body under the pile, and as soon as possible the heap was cleared away. There were heavy beams across the body, pinning it to the mass of flooring on which it had fallen. A big iron girder lay across the legs of the corpse. The body was mangled and torn, and the face was crushed almost beyond recognition.

From the position and mutilation of the body when found, it was evident that death had been almost instantaneous.
