

O'REILLY MONUM'NT.

THE STATUE TO BE UNVEILED IN BOSTON TO-DAY.

The committee in charge of the exercises connected with the unveiling of the O'Reilly monument at Back Bay Fens, Boston, met on June 6th at the office of Gen. F. A. Walker, president of the Institute of Theology. Gen. Walker, the chairman, announced that the Art Commissioners had given their unanimous approval of the statue.

The monument will be unveiled this (Saturday) afternoon. Gen. Walker will preside, the Rev. Elmer H. Capen, president of Tufts College, will deliver the eulogy, and James Jeffrey Roche, editor of the Pilot, will read a poem. The music, which will be a complete orchestra and a large chorus will be under the conductors of R. J. Lang of the Handel and Haydn society. He has arranged for the singing of Mendelssohn's "O, Sons of Art," and will present an original composition dedicated to O'Reilly. Mrs. Louise Chandler Moulton will place wreath upon the brow of the bust.

Acting Gov. Roger Wolcott, Mayor Quincy and the speaker, and a delegation of members from the House of Representatives will be among the prominent people present at the unveiling of the statue, which will be performed by Blaud O'Reilly, the poet's youngest daughter.

The statue is the work of Mr. Daniel Chester French, the sculptor whose previous works have won general admiration. The work is novel in design and rich in symbolism. A flat granite obelisk fourteen feet high by six feet in breadth, richly embellished with certain Celtic designs, forms the central part of the monument. The front will be adorned with a bronze bust of the poet, one and a half times life size. The third part of the memorial, and the one most truly typical of the man it honors, is an allegorical group of three figures.

In the center sits Mother Erin weaving the patriot poet's wreath of oak and laurel, the leaves for which are offered respectively by the emblematic figures of Valor and Poetry seated at her right and left. Valor is represented in the heroic form of the Celtic chieftain, armed, alert and ready to fling aloft the flag he firmly holds, while Poetry is typified by a winged youth in pensive mood, turning affectionately from the lyre's touch to add another laurel leaf to the Mother's wreath. The entire conception is exquisitely artistic and, above all, true to the genius and life work of the leader and poet; it is so beautifully commensurate.

It was at Douth Castle, County Meath, Ireland, on June 23, 1844, that John Boyle O'Reilly first saw the light. His boyhood was passed amid surroundings which were well calculated to inspire in him those deep yearnings for liberty and devotion to country which neither time or persecution has been able to efface from the hearts of the Irish people.

His young manhood was spent in torture, amid the felons of the penal colony, for the land he loved. So deeply did the iron enter his soul that he never fully forgot for a moment the horrors of penal life. Branded as a felon he landed on our shores over twenty-five years ago, a stranger in a strange land, friendless and penniless. To-day the city of Boston rears a monument to his memory, and wherever men are free or seeking to be free he is loved, for his large heart went out to all in affliction and his soul was the soul of a free man.

Hammond Was Rich Here.

The large salary that John Hays Hammond, the American mining engineer who was convicted of treason against the Boer republic, received in South Africa has been frequently spoken of as his reason for remaining in that country, and the inference has been drawn that Mr. Hammond's prosperity began there. As a matter of fact, he was a very prosperous mining engineer on the Pacific coast in this country long before he thought of going to South Africa. A man who knew him well in San Francisco, in speaking of Mr. Hammond, said that, before he left, he was one of the best paid mining engineers in America.

"Mr. Hammond wouldn't look at a mining property without receiving a very large fee," he said, "and although I don't know what his income was, it must have been between $50,000 and $100,000 a year."—New York Sun.

AN A. P. A. DISPUTE.

A FORMER FISCAL OFFICER REFUSES TO SURRENDER A LEDGER.

A case in which a local council of the organization known as the A. P. A. is plaintiff and a former financial secretary is defendant, has been commenced in the Municipal court.

The action is entitled Oscar W. German, as president of Rochester Council, No. 10, of the American Protective Association, against Henry H. Foote, and is brought to compel the defendant to return a ledger, which he got possession of while acting as the financial secretary of the council. This ledger is of considerable importance to the council as it contains the names and financial standing of all its members.

On the 20th of December, 1895, Henry H. Foote's term as financial secretary of Protective Council, No. 10, expired, but, contrary to the usual custom of fiscal officers of similar organizations, Mr. Foote, it is claimed, refused to surrender possession of the ledger in which he kept his accounts. The reason for the action on the part of Foote is not known, as the only pleadings that have yet been filed are the summons and complaint. The latter alleges that Foote's reason for refusing to surrender possession of the chattel is that the council of the A. P. A. has not complied with the rules and regulation. In what particular respect is not known, as Foote refuses to talk on the subject.

The complaint demands the return of the ledger and $15 damages for its detention. Foote is a carpenter and lives at 6 Myrtle street.

The case has been adjourned to next Thursday.

Auburn.

Holy Family church was filled as 11 o'clock mass last Sunday, the occasion being the celebration of mass by Rev. John J. Bresnahan, a former Auburnian. The altar was beautifully decorated with flowers and was one of lighted candles. The music, both at mass and at solemn vespers, the evening was of a high order. Much credit is due to Miss Bennett, the organist, and to Mr. J. A. Hennessy for their skillful training of the choir. Solos were sung by Miss Mary Winters, soprano, and Mrs. M. S. Barry of Syracuse, contralto. In the afternoon a reception was held at the home of Hugh Bresnahan in Perrine street, in honor of Father Bresnahan.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Margaret Costello of Cayuga to Luke J. Lane of this city, which will be celebrated Wednesday morning, June 24, at St. Joseph's church, Cayuga.

A Woman Drummer.

Miss Alice Fleming is a New York drummer who handles notions. Speaking of her business she says: "There are many more women on the road this year than ever before. Of course the majority of them carry light lines of goods, and toilet articles, patent medicines, perfumeries and lines of ladies' wear have the preference, but a few carry heavier goods. There is a woman who has been traveling through Illinois for several years in the interest of a grocery company of St. Louis, a woman handles hardware, one sells shoes, carrying several heavy sample trunks, and it is now difficult to find a staple line that is not represented by women in some part of the country. It is a wearing life, but is greatly to be preferred to standing behind a counter all day selling goods."—Exchange.

CATHOLIC SOCIETIES.

What is Going on in the Various Societies. Calendar for Next Week.

To the Officers and Members of the Ancient Order of Hibernians of America:

Officers and Members Greeting:—Again it is our duty to summon the duly accredited representatives of the Order to meet in biennial session for its good and welfare, and for the transaction of such business as may properly come before them. By the vote of the last National convention the city of Detroit, Michigan, was selected as the place in which to hold the next National convention; therefore, as directed by the Convention and by Article XXIV of the Constitution and general laws of the Order we hereby summon the duly elected and constituted delegates of the Ancient Order of Hibernians of America, to assemble at the Fortieth National Convention (which is the seventh biennial meeting) in Detroit, Michigan, on Tuesday, the fourteenth day of July, A. D. 1896, at 12 o'clock, noon. The convention will hold its sessions in the Catholic Club building, corner of Wilcox and Farrar streets, and the headquarters will be at the Russell house.

The Detroit brotherhood report for the following programme:

Tuesday—Our beloved National Chaplain, Rt. Rev. Bishop Foley, will celebrate Pontifical High Mass at 10 o'clock at St. Peter and Paul's Cathedral, Adelaide street; he will also preach. Delegates are requested to be at the Catholic Club building at 9 o'clock (sharp), and proceed in a body to the church.

Tuesday evening—Reception to the delegates at the Catholic Club pastored by Rt. Rev. Bishop Foley, National Chaplain.

Wednesday evening—Grand banquet.

Thursday afternoon—Grand parade.

Friday afternoon—Grand sail on the Detroit river and on Lakes Erie and St. Clair, taking the delegates and their friends up and through the famous St. Clair Flats.

Hotels and Their Locations.

Russell house, Woodward avenue, rates $8 to $15 per day. Hotel Cadillac, corner Michigan and Washington avenues, $8 to $15 per day. Hotel St. Clair, corner Monroe and Randolph streets, $2.50 to $3.50 per day. Hotel Normandie, Congress street, $2.50 to $3.50 per day. Wayne hotel, corner Jefferson avenue and Third street, $2.50 to $3.50 per day. These rates are for one person to a room; for two or more persons proportionate rates.

RAILROADS AND RATES.

Special railroad rates have been secured. When purchasing tickets at starting point, full fare one way must be paid, and application should be made to the local ticket agent for a certificate, which will be endorsed at the convention by the National secretary in order to secure a return ticket for one-third the usual fare. If through tickets cannot be procured at the starting point, parties should pay fare only to the nearest point where such through ticket can be obtained, and there purchase through ticket to Detroit, requesting a certificate from the ticket agent at the point where such purchase is made.

The basis of representation to the National convention is fixed by section 1, Article VII of our Constitution, and it is most earnestly hoped and expected that every State, Territory, Province and County will send the full complement of delegates as provided by said articles, so that the needs and wants of the brotherhood in every section may be made known, and such wise legislation enacted as will best advance the interest of our beloved order. The report of the National officers and National directors will be submitted—a full and itemized statement of the past two years will be exhibited, together with the number of members and the amount they have paid for the University A. O. H. Chair fund—it is with pride and gratification that we point to the great work now nearly accomplished by the order in the endowment of an A. O. H. chair in the Catholic University at Washington.

The attention of the Brotherhood is called to Article XXXVIII, Section 1 of our Constitution, which provides that all amendments to the Constitution must be presented in
