CATHOLIC NEWS NOTES

Ha, penings Throughout the World of Especial Interest to Catholics.

Progress of the Church at Home and Abroad.

There is a tradition among the Maryland Jesuits that Washington died a Catholic.

Cardinal Segna has been appointed archbishop of the Holy See in succession to the late Cardinal Gattinon.

Right Rev. Bishop Grace of Sacramento will dedicate the new Catholic Church at Ferndale, Humboldt county, Cal., tomorrow.

Work on the new St. Patrick's Church, Williamstown, Mass., is progressing rapidly and the cornerstone will be laid soon.

The venerable Mr. Nugent has turned over to the management of Rev. Father Terry the London Catholic Times, which he founded thirty years ago.

St. Augustine's Benedictine priory at Ramsgate has been made an abbey by the Pope, being the first English abbey of black Benedictines since the Reformation.

Great preparations are made in all Redemptorist institutions to celebrate worthily, on September 27, the two-hundredth anniversary of the birth of St. Alphonsus Liguori.

All the rising poets in England seem to be Catholics. One of the latest additions to the list is Miss Probyn, who is attracting considerable attention in the London literary world.

Plans have been prepared for a new church in Sonoma, to replace the one recently destroyed by fire. The architecture is pure Gothic and the building will be slightly larger than the old one.

The statue of Cardinal Newman, which was offered to and refused by the University of Oxford, now stands on a plot of ground adjoining the priests' house at the Brompton Oratory of London. The Cardinal is represented seated.

The Duluth Cathedral was recently dedicated with very imposing services. Bishop Cotter of Wisconsin sang the Pontifical High Mass, at which Bishop Shanley of Jamestown spoke. The preacher of the evening was Archbishop Ireland.

The mayor of Sydney, Australia, has resigned his position and has joined the Camaldulose monks. The incident has created a sensation in that part of the country, as the young magistrate had a life of honor and distinction before him.

The Marquis of Butte, who joined the Catholic Church some years ago, and who owns an immense amount of land in Cardiff, Wales, is a man of great intellectual power. One of his latest undertakings was the translation of the Roman breviary.

Diplomatic relations are about to be established with Russia by the Holy See. Monsignor Tarnas, who formed part of Monsignor Agillard's embassy to Moscow during the late coronation, is at present at St. Petersburg and is continuing the negotiations.

Mgr. O'Connell, who has just returned to Rome from a journey in the East says that at old Cairo and at Maharyeh, Egypt, a few miles to the east, all the traditions of the Holy Family are found, and they are held in veneration by Catholics, Copts and Moslems.

The rebuilding of the Visitation Church, Brooklyn, will be commenced in a few weeks' time, or as soon as the insurance has been properly adjusted by the underwriters. It is understood that the building will be erected on the original plans drawn for the edifice, and it will be completely finished, and not only partly erected, as was its condition before the fire.

Pope Leo XIII. recently accepted a typewriter as a gift. It is described as a magnificent No. 2 Remington, constructed on the most elaborate scale. It was inlaid in pearl and silver, with the Pope's coat-of-arms blazoned on it in the most artistic manner, and it was probably the handsomest typewriter ever turned out. When the Pope received it he remarked that some one else would have to use it, as he was too old to learn.

Another advance for the Catholic faith in Norway may be seen in the ordination by Bishop Fallize, of the first Norwegian priest to attain orders since the day of the so-called Reformation. Bishop Fallize is a member of the congregation of the Holy Cross, and he was attached to the houses of that order in this country, before he was invested with the purple.

Dr. Ramon Manchaca, Bishop of Coria, Western Spain, brother of the proprietor of the Noticiero Universal has been honored by the Queen Regent with the royal decoration of the grand cross of Isabella the Catholic, for the unwearied labors which have singularly marked his episcopacy.

The archdiocese of Philadelphia would seem to be well supplied with ecclesiastical students, at present having 145, the largest number it has had for many years. The Philadelphia diocese leads the list with ecclesiastical students, and Boston comes second with 133. This is taking into account only students for the diocesan clergy. Of regular order students, Baltimore shows 340 and St. Louis, which holds second place, 305.

What is probably the largest repository vault in the world has just been completed at Calvary Cemetery, New York city. It is fifty feet square and provides accommodation for 200 bodies. The interior is handsomely finished in white marble and the floor is tiled. The vault is forty feet high. Three large bronze doors give admittance. At the base of the cross which surmounts it is a monogram with the initials "A. O."—Alpha, Omega. The total cost of the vault is estimated at $30,000.

At the suggestion of Rev. Father Abdullah Scraphin, superior of the Catholic Mission of Sandjak d'Amidit, a divine service was organized on the 5th of July for the repose of the soul of the great scientist, M. Pasteur. It was just at the silk worm season. After the Mass, several discourses were pronounced, exalting the benefits rendered to humanity in general, and more especially to the silk worm industry, by the immortal scientist, nor was the debt which sericulture owes to the Sultan forgotten.

The Very Rev. Father Quandel, who has been elected Lord Abbot of Monte Cassino by the Benedictine Chapter, formerly served as an officer in the Neapolitan army, and was created colonel in recognition of the personal bravery by the late King Francis II. of Naples, after the siege of Gaeta. After the disasters which succeeded that event, and the triumph of Victor Emmanuel, he resigned his sword and retired from the army, exchanging his military career for a life of religious seclusion in a Benedictine monastery.

Cardinal Gibbons will soon complete his twenty-eighth year in the purple, having been consecrated August 15, 1868. His Eminence is not an old man by any means, but twenty-eight years of episcopal work tells on the strongest constitution, and should the rumor prove true that Bishop Curtis is to assist the Cardinal in the discharge of his episcopal function hereafter, the verdict will be that the Baltimore prelate well merits each relief in the performance of his official duties. Cardinal Gibbons but recently celebrated his 62nd birthday.

The consecration of a bishop is an event familiar to all, but the formal blessing of an abbot is of rare occurrence. Hence when the Abbot of Beauchene in the Deux Seves was solemnly blessed, great was the crowd that gathered from all parts of the diocese to witness the ceremony. The Most Reverend Father Dom Prosper Rousseau of the order of the regular canons of Latras, formerly prior, then visitor general of the provinces of the order, from France, Belgium and Spain, having been appointed Abbot of Beauchene. Monsignor Pelge, Bishop of Pottiers, it was who solemnly consecrated the new abbot.

Archbishop Colgan of Madras is making a tour of Ireland. The venerable prelate, who is now in his seventy-fourth year, was born in the parish of Horseleap, and went to the East Indies as a student in 1844. He was subsequently ordained a priest, and returned to his native land for a short time in 1867. Since then he has been constantly engaged in missionary work among the Hindus, and some ten years ago was appointed Vicar-Apostolic of Madras. The hierarchy was subsequently restored, when Dr. Colgan was elevated to the dignity of Archbishop. Despite his arduous labors in the tropical climate of India, he is in excellent health.

The papal medal, which was struck this year in honor of the feast of the Prince of the Apostles, bears on its obverse the portrait of Leo XIII. On the reverse is seen an artistic group symbolical of the union of the churches. The central figure represents Our Lord, holding in his left hand a standard which rests upon the globe, while with his right hand he points to a document (the papal encyclical on the union of the churches) which a Coptic priest holds in his hand. Beside the latter a second priest prostrates himself. Two palms form the background for these two figures, recalling the East. A shipper standing thoughtfully on the left hand of the Savior and a ship in the background are emblems of Protestantism. The inscription runs, "There shall be one Fold and one Shepherd, 1896."

His Holiness, Leo XIII., placing great importance upon the correct and vigorous translation of his recently published encyclical into French, gave the mission of doing this and superintending the publication in Paris to Pere Gaudreau, of the Society of Jesus. Pere Gaudreau is a doctor of letters and he was at one time professor of fundamental theology at the Roman College.

The Royal Seminary of New York is the name by which the new Bapstian college near Yonkers is to be known and the faculty is being now recruited from the best theologians, philosophers and doctors of canon law of the order both in the United States and Canada. The Seminary, which is under the patronage of St. Joseph, has been open for the inspection of visitors for some weeks past and almost every parish in the city of New York, accompanied by its pastor, has availed itself of the privilege to inspect an institution which is destined to take a leading part in the progress of Catholic education.

The Ave Maria pays a beautiful tribute to the memory of the late Frank Hurd when it says: "A few years ago the name of the late Frank Hurd would have been placed on any list of the ten most prominent Americans. He was a man of commanding ability—a statesman of great power, a leader in the legal profession and an eloquent speaker. It is impossible to say how high he might have risen in the politics of the nation had he not been a conscientious Catholic, but Mr. Hurd had been received into the Church about thirty years ago, and party interests were never permitted to interfere with the practice of his religious duties."

The Rev. Michael Murray, of St. Malachy's Church, East New York, was drowned while bathing at Rock away Beach. There have been several accidents on this part of the coast. The beach shelves rapidly, and there is a strong current running eastward. The tide was flowing out at the time Father Murray went into the water. Father Murray was young and in vigorous health. He was a native of county Mayo, Ireland, and studied at the Irish College in Paris. He came to this country seven years ago, and settled at once in Brooklyn. As far as is known, his only relative in this country is a sister, whose address is at present unknown.

FATHER MARTINELLI

Rumors Regarding Cardinal Sallati's Successor as Papal Delegate to the United States.

The Matter Still Very Much in Doubt.

Speculation is still rife regarding the probable successor to Cardinal Sallati as Papal Delegate to the United States. A cablegram from Rome stated that Most Rev. Sebastian Martinelli, General of the Order of St. Augustine, had been selected, and another followed stating that when first informed that he had been elected to succeed Mgr. Sallati, Father Martinelli refused to accept the appointment, but after being summoned into the presence of the Pope and being informed by His Holiness that he personally desired him to go to America, Father Martinelli accepted the mission.

Inquiry at the Catholic Legation, Washington, showed that no advice whatever on the subject had been received there and that the report was not believed.

One of the Argentine Fathers in Philadelphia received a letter from an intimate friend in Rome, also an Augustinian, who, writing several days before the cablegram was published, said: "As I write the Most Rev. Father General is at the Pontifical Seminary, and he has been called by the Holy Father. What can he want of him? Ah! how much I fear that His Holiness will deprive us of our Father General's services in the government of the order and place him in another position! Who knows but that the old world is about to lose him and the new world to gain him. This change, for our order's sake, would occasion much regret, but we must bow to the dispensations of Providence."

It will be remembered that it was reported previously that Mgr. De-mede Filicchio had been appointed. Both reports have been denied and it is still claimed that Mgr. Lavanelli has been selected for the post.

THE LATEST RUMOR.

The Rome representative of the United Associated Press reports that the Rev. Sebastian Martinelli, Prior General of the Augustinians, who was recently appointed as the successor of Cardinal Sallati as Papal Delegate to the United States, will be consecrated as an Archbishop on August 22 by Cardinal Rampella, the Papal Secretary of State. The ceremony will take place in the Church of St. Augustine. Mgr. Martinelli will go to America at the end of September. Cardinal Sallati will return to Rome in November and will attend the Papal conclave, which is to be held in December.

The Church's Paper.

Good reasons for having a Church paper in your household:

1. Because it contains information which you, as a man or woman, ought to know.
2. Because your simple duty calls on you to work for Christ, and you can not work efficiently unless you are constantly informed of the needs of the work.
3. Because of the transmuting of voices of the doctrine known to be in conformity with the pure teaching of the Word of God.
4. Because you want to know what is being accomplished with the money contributed by the Church.
5. Because, if you are a Christian, and you ought to be, and pray, "Thy kingdom come," you want to know what progress the kingdom is making.
6. Because you cannot be an intelligent and efficient worker in your Church without the information that the paper gives you.

Feed the Nerves.

Upon pure, rich blood, and you need not fear nervous prostration. Nerves are weak when they are impoverished and insufficiently nourished. Pure blood is their proper food, and pure blood comes by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which is the greatest and best nerve tonic. It also builds up the whole system.
