BOYS IN BLUE PARADE.

Turnout of the Grand Army of the Republic.

A GREAT DAY AT ST. PAUL.

Thousands Viewed the Imposing Spectacle From Along the Line of March. Notable War Generals and Other Officers In Line.

ST. PAUL, Sept. 3.—Nearly 40,000 veterans tramped the streets of St Paul for several hours, renewing the associations of their youth and feeling in their veins the martial spirit that animated them in the old days. The day was an ideal one for marching, the warm rays of the sun being behind the clouds nearly all day and a slight breeze making the tramp much easier for those in line

Seldom has so large a parade come so near moving on time. Departments were directed to form at 9 30 o'clock and to be prepared to move one hour later. Not to exceed 15 minutes later the commander-in-chief and staff moved south on Western avenue and the various divisions fell into line rapidly It was 11 30 when the head of the parade reached the grand reviewing stand at Smith park and General Walker took his place on the platform and the first division, headed by the Veterans' corps, passed in review.

It was 2.25 when the last post in the big eighth division, containing Minnesota's veterans, had passed, and there was scarcely a noticeable break in the line, post following post and department coming after department in almost endless succession The enlivening music and the stirring martial sound of the veteran drum corps signalled the approach of each new department and the crowds shouted prompt appreciation of the appearance of various favorites. Waves of applause went up and down the crowded streets, and at times veterans themselves took up the refrain, one of the favorite shouts:

"What is the matter with St. Paul? She's all right."

Nothing was thought too good for the marching men As they were lined up on the side streets awaiting the signal to start, the residents served ice water and otherwise looked after their comfort. Taken altogether the parade was an unqualified success and the leading features of it have touched the soldier heart as it has seldom been touched before

Down through the white columns that lined Lower Sixth street, the marching thousands kept on till they reached Smith park at the lower end of the street, where the grand reviewing stand had been erected, and here General Walker and staff mounted the stand and the various departments passed in formal review, dipped colors and rolling drums saluting the commander-in-chief responding with a bow.

On the stand were a number of past commanders-in-chief and others of national reputation, many of whom were recognized and applauded by the veterans as they passed

The broad sweep of Summit avenue gave many chances for the marching qualities of the veterans to show, and many a post drew cheer after cheer as it turned a corner in perfect alignment and with a soldierly step moved on down the wide avenue

A number of states to Wisconsin represented the [illegible] line Iowa, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York, the Dakotas, Missouri, Kansas and Indiana had about the largest representation

General Sickles of New York and Department Commander William Shakespeare of Michigan were allowed to appear in carriages and both were cheered as they were recognized General Russell A Alger past commander-in-chief, and many other individuals who marched with the rank and file were singled out for applause.

Altogether the parade was a grand success. It has been in the thoughts of old soldiers to such an extent that the politics of the encampment must take a back seat and wait for the business sessions to open today

The candidates are still being urged by their friends, the leaders being Rear Admiral Meade, Major F S Clarkson and New Hampshire's candidate, Comrade Linehan,

It seems to be dividing between the East and the West and the fact that Buffalo will surely get the next encampment may affect the result, as the sections are somewhat jealous of the honors There are other candidates who will have strong support, but those mentioned are the leaders.

The other officers will depend to a considerable extent on the result for commander-in-chief, so that while the electioneering is going on at a fairly lively rate, it is a minor affair to most of the delegates.

PARDON FOR BARDSLEY.

Defaulting City Treasurer of Philadelphia to Be Given His Freedom.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept 8.—The board of pardons has practically decided to recommend that a pardon be granted to John Bardsley, but final action will not be taken until tomorrow, when another conference will be held. At the close of the session members of the board said that there was no doubt of the pardon being granted, but they want to hear from Governor Hastings before finally announcing action.

On July 2, 1891, Bardsley was sentenced to 15 years in the Eastern penitentiary for appropriating over a half million dollars of city and state moneys while acting as city treasurer of Philadelphia. Bardsley's downfall was directly brought about by the failure of the Keystone bank in which the moneys in his charge were deposited, and the flight of its president, Gideon W. Marsh, but it was primarily caused by Bardsley's unfortunate stock speculations. His pardon will be granted because of his failing health.

Millionaire Brewer Commits Suicide.

LONDON, Sept. 2.—A dispatch from Vienna says that Mouthner Von Markow, the millionaire brewer, committed suicide by shooting himself with a revolver. He left a letter attributing his self murder to the attacks of the anti-Semite newspapers, which have accused him of defrauding the authorities in the matters of payments of octrol taxes.

GOLD STANDARD DEMOCRATS

Opening of the National Convention at Indianapolis.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept 8.—Forty-one states and three territories, represented by 824 delegates, met in Tomlinson hall as the climax of a six weeks campaign to repudiate the action of the Chicago convention and put forth a declaration of principles and name a presidential ticket.

Senator Palmer, who called the body to order, termed it the first convention in 1896 of the National Democratic party while others referred to it as the Democracy which held its last convention in 1892.

Admission to the hall was confined strictly to ticket holders As a result many people were denied admittance Inside every seat in the space reserved on the floor for the delegates and alternates was taken and the galleries, except on the upper balcony in the rear of the hall where the band was located, was comfortably well filled without being crowded, while the chairs in the rear of the platform reserved for the distinguished guests were nearly all occupied.

Perhaps the most important action taken by the convention was the adoption of a recommendation to make the organization permanent and to empower the national committee appointed to call future conventions This indicates a contest four years from now on the regularity of the two organizations, and may prove far reaching in its effects The platform will be adopted and the candidates nominated today

There seems to be almost unanimous sentiment in favor of General Buckner of Kentucky for vice president, but the contest for president is still open Although General Bragg has been seemingly in the lead all the day powerful influences are at work to defeat him His reception in the convention was a disappointment to his friends It was not as enthusiastic as they thought it should be

A strong effort is being made to bring out Senator Palmer or General John J Black of Illinois and Secretary Morton of Nebraska and David Lawler of Minnesota are enjoying incipient honors. Senator Palmer does not desire the nomination and there is said to be a letter from Secretary Morton declining to permit the use of his name

Were General Bragg not in the way Mr. Vilas might be named, but he absolutely refuses to consider the question as long as General Bragg is in the field Watterson's boom does not grow

VICTORY FOR REPUBLICANS.

Josiah Grout Elected Governor of the Green Mountain State.

WHITE RIVER JUNCTION Vt Sept 9 — The Green Mountain state has declared for Josiah Grout, Republican of Derby for governor and for the Republican state ticket entire by a majority that equaled the prediction of the most confident Republican manager

Returns from the distant towns are, as usual rather slow in coming in, but the counties in all sections of the state show substantial Republican gains and indicating that the majority for the Republican state ticket will be over 30 00 This is the largest majority ever given for governor in the state.

It was claimed that there would be accessions to the Democratic ranks in the farming districts, but these changes were not considerable and did not materially affect the result The Populist and Prohibition vote was practically the same as four years ago. The Republican managers claim that the result is sufficient and shows opposition from all sides to the Democratic currency principle, but the Democrats maintain that the increased Republican majority was expected and it would have been very surprising if it had failed to develop

CURRENT MISCELLANY.

Henrietta Swan's life seems to have been a willing slavery for her family, but chiefly for this brother, whom she idolized For his sake, to provide him with the education his back and mind and food for mind and body, she became a school drudge in the provinces and in Paris, and even banished herself to Poland for a lucrative appointment and the sacrifice was all the greater in her case, because she appears to have been endowed with an intellect worthy of her brother. She was an indefatigable reader and a woman of much originality, and her letters indicate that much of his own creative style and much of his fine critical judgment were formed by her taste and her advice—a declaration which gains credence from these letters.

It is good to know that she had her period of happiness in the years that she spent with her brother, a rising Hebrew scholar and critic, in Paris, and during the expedition on which he was sent to Syria, where the book by which he is best known to the world, his "Vie de Jesus," was tossed off in the white heat of imagination. At the close of this expedition she died of fever, and there is much pathos in that final scene described by her brother, when they were both lying ill a few feet from one another, both unconscious, and she taking her "endlesse leave,"

Without a sad look or a solemn teare, from the brother for whom she had sacrificed everything—even a happy marriage—in life.—Athenæum.
