

CITY PARISH NEWS

Interesting Budget of Happenings Gathered by Our City Reporters.

CATHEDRAL.

The opening session of the Cathedral Reading Circle was held on Monday evening. Course tickets were issued for the year at the price of $1 each. Prof. Lapham, professor of English and German literature in St. Bernard's seminary, who has been engaged for the entire course, delivered an excellent lecture on "Literature in Its Relation to Culture."

ST. JEROME'S.

The funeral of James J. Hutte of 210 North Clinton street took place Thursday morning at 9:15 o'clock from the church. The deceased was a member of St. Mauritius Union, Roman Catholic Uniformed Union.

ST. BONIFACE.

Rev. Father Rauber intends to take a census of our congregation in a short time, an annual custom in this parish, by which Father Rauber pays a visit to every family of St. Boniface, and at the same time to receive such contributions as the people may offer towards cancelling the debt of the church. The visits will be made in the country towns and rural districts while the weather is favorable. When all have been called upon the city folks will be visited.

THEIR SILVER WEDDING.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Darcy Entertain Friends at Their Home.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Darcy gave a reception followed by dancing to about 150 of their friends Wednesday night at their residence, 84 Columbia avenue. The occasion was the celebration of Mr. and Mrs. Darcy's silver wedding. The presents were numerous and beautiful, and consisted of many articles of silver.

After the reception the guests adjourned to a spacious attic where refreshments were served and dancing enjoyed until a late hour. Among the many friends present to congratulate Mr. and Mrs. Darcy were: Rev. J. M. Darcy and daughter, Miss J. Darcy, of Lockport; Rev. D. O'Brien of East Arcade; Rev. W. Darcy of Hornellsville; Dr. and Mrs. Collan of Buffalo; Miss Lewis of Medina; numerous guests from Auburn, and Judge Murphy, Alderman Harris and wife, Rev. M. E. Hughes and wife, Rev. W. Gleason and Rev. Bernard Gommenginger, of this city.

A Lantern for Fire Chief Knipper.
Fire Chief Peter Knipper, of the Greece fire department, has been presented a handsome lantern by the Exempt Firemen's association of Rochester. The presentation was made by a committee of the Exempts consisting of Thomas Burchill, George Miller, E. A. Jaquith and M. Duffy. The lantern is silver plated. On one side of the glass is the name of Chief Knipper, and on the other side are the words "Presented by the Exempt Firemen's Association of Rochester."

The Children's Aid Society.

Our readers may have noticed the brief advertisement of the Children's Aid Society which has from time to time appeared in these columns, and may have wondered what it meant.

The work of the society is new in our city, and it is important enough to merit explanation. The law is constantly appealed to to remove children from the custody of cruel, drunken or vicious parents.

What is to be done with such children after they are taken from their parents? The orphan asylum is not the place for them, for they have seen too much of the evil of the world to be safely introduced into that flock; on the other hand, they are too young, and often too innocent to be sent to the State Industrial school. This is a question which the Children's Aid Society attempts to answer.

Its method is to accept the legal guardianship of such children, and then to place them in carefully chosen private families—in the country if possible—where they will be separated from their old surroundings and under the constant influence of well-ordered home life.

The public authorities are so convinced of the advantages of the home over the asylum system that they also place in the hands of the Aid Society many children whom misfortune alone has made dependent on public charity. For these also the society seeks homes.

Christian people, cannot you open your hearts and homes to receive these little waifs? It is the noblest of all charities; and the small sum which the society pays in board makes it a possible one for many people whose narrow means would otherwise forbid their acting upon their kindly impulses.

DEATH OF PATRICK COX

One of Rochester's Most Estimable Citizens Passes Away.

Patrick Cox, one of our most respected Catholic citizens, died suddenly at his residence, 293 East avenue, Friday evening of last week, from a stroke of apoplexy. His death came as a terrible blow to his immediate family and friends. He was a man of exceptional vigor and was apparently in good health.

Mr. Cox had suffered from hay fever every summer and was accustomed to seek relief by travel. On August 22d he went to Ireland, accompanied by his son Harry and daughter Kathryn. Incidentally he went as one of the delegates at large to the convention held in Dublin in the latter part of August, at which Irishmen from the world over were present. The return voyage was very rough and Mr. Cox suffered severely from seasickness, the strain of which it is thought had much to do with his death.

Mr. Cox was a man widely known for his honesty of purpose and uprightness of character. He was prominent in social circles, being a member of the Genesee Valley and Rochester Whist clubs. He was a devout Catholic, being a member of St. Patrick's Cathedral.

Patrick Cox was the son of Dennis Cox, a shoe dealer, and was born in Longford, Ireland, January 1, 1842. In 1851 his parents removed to this country and settled in Rochester. He obtained a common school education, after which he learned the trade of shoe making. In 1863 he started in business for himself in the manufacture of shoes in the Palmer block on Front street. The following year he moved his factory to New York city, where he conducted it until 1868, when he failed in business. In 1871 he returned to Rochester, where he has ever since resided. He immediately started another factory in the Lampert block on North Water street. His business gradually increased until, in 1876, he formed a partnership with his brother, Joseph D. Cox. In 1882 another factory was built at Fairport. In 1883 Joseph D. Cox withdrew from the firm and a stock company was formed with a capital stock of $500,000, making it one of the most important concerns of its kind in the United States. In 1889 new quarters were found necessary and a factory was built on Mortimer street. The factory at Fairport was also conducted at the same time.

In 1891 he vacated his factory on Mortimer street and the business was carried on at Fairport until 1893, when he removed the business to the present location at No. 48 Stone street.

In 1874 he married Gertrude, daughter of Michael Gallery of Greece, by whom he had eight children: Charles P., Harry J., Frederick, Gerald F., Kathryn G., Mary E., Irene A. and Pauline M., all of whom except Frederick, who died in infancy, are living.

Mr. Cox's brother, Joseph D., three sisters, Mary, Julia and Mrs. Eliza T. Williams, and an uncle, James Cox, all of this city, also survive him.

Mr. Cox was interested in several of Rochester's leading industries. He was a stockholder and director of the Merchants' bank; stockholder in the Rochester Street Railway company and Lyceum theatre and member of the Chamber of Commerce. He was a large holder of real estate, owning besides his beautiful home on East avenue, the Cox building on North St. Paul street, the Mortimer street factory and the building occupied by the Union Clothing company.

Mr. Cox, although a true American, never lost his love for his mother country. When the Irish Land League was organized in America in 1877 he was one of the charter members of the Monroe county branch, for a long time being its treasurer. He has been prominently identified with the interests of the league during its entire existence. Mr. Cox was treasurer of the fund with which St. Mary's hospital was practically rebuilt.

The funeral took place Monday morning at 9:30 o'clock from his residence on East avenue, and at 10 o'clock from the Cathedral. The church was completely filled.

Rev. J. P. Kiernan, rector of the Cathedral, and the officers of the solemn high mass of requiem, met the cortege at the door and blessed the corpse, after which the cortege entered the church, by the center aisle, the honorary bearers, first, then the active bearers with the casket, and after them the family and relatives of the deceased.

The funeral services were solemn, and at their conclusion there were few dry eyes in the large congregation. Solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. J. P. Kiernan, assisted by Rev. Dr. Edward J. Hanna as deacon, and Rev. A. A. Hughes, sub-deacon. On the Episcopal throne on the gospel side of the altar sat Bishop McQuaid, while on the Episcopal side of the altar sat the celebrant and his assistants.

The responses to the mass were sung by the Cathedral choir, under the direction of Prof. Eugene Bonn. The singing was in harmony with the solemnity of the occasion. Besides the regular music of the mass a duet, "I wait for the Lord," was sung by Mrs. Charles E. Cunningham and Mrs. Kathryn Mahon, and a solo by Mrs. Mahon. Both were sung with great feeling. At the close of the solemn service Bishop McQuaid pronounced the last absolution. The cortege then took its way to Holy Sepulchre cemetery, where interment was made.

The honorary bearers were James Fee, William Purcell, Dr. J. W. Casey, Dr. T. A. O'Hare, D. B. Murphy, A. B. Home, W. C. Barry, Walter B. Duffy, William H. Gonsline, J. C. O'Brien and Thomas J. Neville.

The active bearers, who were chosen from among the oldest of Mr. Cox's employees, were Frank Polson, Jeremiah Hartnett, Felix Lynch, Charles Kittell, Thomas Quinn and Frank Madden.

Resolutions have been adopted by the shoe manufacturers of the city, the board of directors of the Merchants' bank, and also by the employees of the Cox shoe factory.

Estate of Patrick Cox.

Surrogate Benton has granted letters of administration on the estate of the late Patrick Cox to Mrs. Gertrude Gallery Cox and Thomas W. Finucane. The value of the personal estate is given as $25,000, but the value of the real estate is not stated. The bond required of the administrators was $50,000, and was signed by the administrators and the Title Insurance company.

DEATH OF MRS. ANNE FLEMING.

One of the Oldest Residents of Greece Called to Rest.

The many friends of Mrs. Anne Fleming will be grieved to learn of her death, which occurred October 14th, at her residence in Greece.

Mrs. Fleming was the widow of Patrick Fleming, one of the early settlers of Greece. For over forty years Mrs. Fleming had been identified with the Church of Our Mother of Sorrows at Mt. Read, devoting her time and substance to good works. Mrs. Fleming had a gentle, sunny disposition, with ever an interest in and a gracious welcome for her friends. She was zealous in her works of charity, which no progress of years abated. To those who knew and loved her best, hers will indeed be a blessed memory. Besides one sister, Mrs. William Kerrigan of Sweden, N. Y., she leaves four children, James Basil of this city, James Fleming of the University of Pennsylvania, Mrs. Joseph Dutton of Lima, N. Y., and Mrs. Frank Whalen of this city.

The funeral will be held this morning at 9:30 o'clock from the residence, and at the Church of Our Mother of Sorrows, Mt. Read, at 10 o'clock.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS.

Maud Warfield, wife of Dr. J. A. Cormier, and daughter of Richard Henry Warfield, formerly of this city but now of San Francisco, died at her home, No. 256 Central avenue, at 9:30 o'clock, Tuesday evening, very suddenly.

Mrs. Cormier was well known in this city, where she has always lived. Previous to her marriage to Dr. Cormier, which occurred little more than a year ago, she had been a teacher in No. 10 school and had won a host of friends who will sincerely join with the bereaved husband in his grief. Besides her husband, she is survived by her father, mother, one brother and an infant daughter one day old.
