IMMACULATE CONCEPTION

The funeral of Alfred J. Callahan took place Saturday morning at 8:30 o'clock from the residence, 187 Troup street, and at 9 o'clock from the church. High mass was celebrated by Rev. Father Gleason. The bearers were G. A. Holloran, M. J. Lally, W. G. McMullen, J. M. Caffrey, J. M. Powell and Ray Sullivan.

ST BONIFACE

Rev. Father Rauber has finished his visits among the country towns and rural districts, and has started on his visits among the members of St. Boniface in the city. The subscriptions in the country towns have been a financial success, and it is hoped the city will not fall below the usual generous response.

Early mass will hereafter be held at 8 o'clock on Sundays and week days during the winter months instead of 7:30, until further notice.

ST MARY'S

The new Stations of the Cross will be formally blessed by Rev. T. H. O'Donoghue of Baltimore and unveiled by Rev. Thos. Hickey at 7:30 to-morrow evening. The sermon will be preached by Rev. F. H. O'Hanlon of Clifton Springs.

ST JOSEPH'S

Cook Opera House

The flattering reports that have preceded the Morrison company in their presentation of Cook's beautiful Fantasia, a feeling of interest to the lovers of good acting. So many good plays that have achieved fame and fortune for their possessors have been so mutilated by indifferent acting and gross incompetency that the knowledge that a perfectly equipped organization is now playing a well known play in all its integrity is in itself a subject for congratulation. The management of Morrison's Fantasia company are keen, shrewd business men, and after realizing the cause of the people's apathy, have remedied it by selecting a company of artists whose efforts have made them individually famous. The result has been financial success and the hearty endorsement of the public. The splendid play with its beautiful scenery, electrical and calcium effects, will be seen here all next week with the usual matinees.

Academy of Music

Flynn and Sheridan's Big Sensational double show will be the Academy attraction next week, introducing a new idea, and presenting two distinct and separate companies, twenty white artists and fifteen coloreds, and novelties never before presented. The olio consists of the following acts: The Sisters Howe, leaders of fashion; Cunningham and Grant, the original "Brutal Brothers," the best act of its kind ever presented on the stage; Lancaster and Collins, a popular grotesque dancers; a grand clog tournament by ten white ladies, led by Sophie Thorne, the champion clog dancer of the world; the great soubrette, May Lanning, a terpsichorean evolutions by ten Greek ladies, the one Billy Farrell, assisted by Miss Willie Farrell in their own creation, "The Cake Walker's Dream;" Smart and Williams, Afro-American comedians and dancers. The finale to this double show will be an original comedy, headed by the pair of comedians, Mille Zilella, assisted by ten comedians and the entire two companies, making a fitting finale to the show. Crowded houses should rule the entire week of their engagement. Matinees will be as usual.

Wonderland Theatre

Another excellent show has been booked for the coming week. First on the list come the novelty sketch artists, Harry Bartlett, the grotesque comedian, and the clever little soubrette, Grace May. Day and Devere in their roving comedy skit entitled "Who Owns the House?" (Late of New York Stars company); Miss Jessie Miller, the phenomenal young comet soloist, late leader of Barrow & Bailey's great military band; Little Anna Laughlin, the child character artist, late star with Little Lord Fauntleroy company, and also with the Burglar company; Charles F. Jerome, the popular farce-comedy comedian, and the popular soubrette, Clara Bell, in an up to date comedy interlude. The complete programme has been retained for another week and new views will be shown as follows: Spanish soldiers dancing in camp. The Fire Alarm—this picture represents people running to the engine house to give the alarm, and the firemen and engines responding to the same. Children Wading at the Seashore. A Game of Cards—A dispute arises over a game of cards which is being played in a garden; the gardener turns the hose on the contestants. Unveiling the statue of Wilhelm II. at Berlin. Babies Quarrel Feeding the Tigers. French Fast Mail Train. A London Street Scene. Negroes Bathing. Charge. Close of the Day's Work—represents the employees of a large factory being dismissed at night.

OLD AND NEW

L. C. Langie, the Coal Dealer, Again Near the Old Ground in the New "Triangle" Building.

It is a good many years since the sign of L. C. Langie, the coal dealer, first appeared on the corner of East Main street and East avenue. For a long time a generation it hung upon the walls of the old Triangle block, a familiar object to every prominent citizen of Rochester; and when, in process of time, the old building was ordered removed, Mr. Langie was the last to leave the time-honored spot. As the handsome new edifice rapidly approaches completion it lends an air of naturalness to the locality—sort of serves to link the present with the past—to see the old familiar name of L. C. Langie upon one of the spacious plate glass windows. The new office is already open for business, and is located a little east of the old stand, next to the principal entrance, on the Main street side, 341, which is also accessible upon East avenue through the main corridor. The new quarters have a new fangled aristocratic air, as compared with the old; but the same wholesome business principles which have served to develop Mr. Langie's trade from small beginnings to the present proportions, will continue to rule in the future. Long dealing at the mine supplemented always with the ready cash, enables Mr. Langie to secure a choice of the output which insures his customers the best of coal at all times, and likewise any other advantages possible in a thoroughly conducted, square, up-and-up coal business. Remember the new address, No. 341 East Main street.
