

Social Etiquette.

When you invite a friend to visit you, specify exactly the time you expect her to stay. Say: "We shall expect you on the 1st of May and will hope to have you remain with us until the 10th." This is not impolite, but the most perfect politeness, since it leaves your visitor in no doubt, says a writer in The Ladies' Home Journal, authorized for the following:

In this country a lady usually gives a small sum of money to the maid-servant who has attended to her room and shown her some special services. She does not "tip" the maidservants.

At a formal "at home" it is proper to remain about 20 minutes. Answers are required to all invitations except those to an "at home" or a church wedding. Cards answer for one's non-appearance at these two functions. The hostess calls on all those who visited her on her "at home" day.

The "Bayeux Tapestry," which takes its name from the place where it is kept, is a needle-work history on canvas. It illustrates the invasion of England in 1066. It is said to be the work of a Maori, the wife of William the Conqueror, and the ladies of her court. It consists of a strip of linen 200 feet long by 20 inches wide, worked in colored worsted, representing 68 distinct scenes connected with the life of William the Conqueror.

FATHER KOENIG'S NERVE TONIC

A Cure in Mexico.

San Pedro, Coahuila, Mex., Apr. 1908.

It is about 8 years since one of my sons had the first attack of epileptic fits and since then he has spent over $500 for medicines and consultations with the best physicians and travel in this country and Europe, but to no avail, but since he took the first spoonful of Father Koening's Nerve Tonic he has not had a fit, he has taken only 54 bottles and is now almost completely cured without any other medicine. I do not try to recommend the Tonic. An acquaintance of mine having five or six attacks from 8-10 attacks daily, had some since he took the tonic about a month ago.

Cecilia Benavides.

Cured Entirely.

This, S. Dak., July, '06.

Our daughter being afflicted with nervous attacks for years, we had given up all hope to ever see her cured, but after using Father Koening's Nerve Tonic she recovered entirely.

A. Gruber.

The entertainment of the A. O. H. on St. Patrick's night was very successful, as taking part in it. The solo by C. E. Hennessy, J. Doyle, Anna Tuohy, Lillian Mary and James Bennett were rendered in the best possible style, and the music by McMillan and Boswell, Parrish, Ferguson and Guy was fully appreciated; but "Paddy Miles," the comedy, was acted beautifully by the following cast: Paddy Miles, James Bennett; Dr. Coates, A. E. Hennessy; Mrs. Fidget, Anna Tuohy; Jane, her daughter, Lillian Mary; Renben, John Scantlin; Job, the gardener, James Brady; Harry Coates, Gilbert Burke. The dancing by Powers, Bennett and Scantlin fully aroused the Irish enthusiasm. Many seats on the horizontal bar were performed by Griffith, McCarthy and O'Brien.

The most speedy mode of procuring relief after receiving a bruise is to plunge the finger into water as hot as can be borne. By so doing the nail is softened and yields so as to accommodate itself to the blood poured out beneath it, and the agony is soon diminished. The finger may then be wrapped in a bread and water poultice.

COOK'S

Hovt's "A Bunch of Keys" will be the attraction at Cook's Opera House the first half of next week. The necessity of giving the public what they require in the line of amusement is apparent to all managers and their stars; but to solve that problem there are three absolute rules to be followed looking toward the final result. First, A good play; second, a good company, third a fine performance—with these facts before him manager Hovtner has spared no expense to bring about the above results with his "Bunch of Keys" this season. He has selected an excellent company to support his star, Ada Hovtner, and many new novelties have been introduced.

For the latter part of the week the management presents the very latest sensation in English melodrama "When London Sleeps." The play was originally presented in this country for the first time at the 14th St. Theatre in New York City, where it scored an immense success. The piece is under the management of Mr. James H. Wallick who is well known in this city and who brought the play over from London last spring after witnessing a trial performance at the Drury Lane Theatre.

ACADEMY.

There is not a stronger or a better Farce-Comedy on the road than "A Railroad Ticket," which comes to the Academy the first half of next week. It has been punched up to date by Freeman's Fun Makers, and it now goes with a dash from beginning to end. The company presenting "A Railroad Ticket," is one of the best seen at this house for some time, and the names include artists of meritorious strength. The comedy is replete with bright music, new songs, dances, medleys, and it will be handsomely costumed and staged with special scenery.

The attraction for the last three days of next week will be "The Midnight Flood." The play is a sensational comedy drama and abounds with some very interesting situations. The interest starts at a terrific pace and never ceases until the final fall of the curtain in the last act. The leading role, that of Tim Westleaf, is played by Mr. Louis Egan, the author of the play.

WONDERLAND THEATRE.

The Wonderland Theatre has no one bargains day during the week, but is giving the biggest bargains in town every day and evening, and that the efforts of the management of this ever popular theatre are appreciated by the people is shown by the immense throngs that pack the theatre at every performance, and the wonderful Biograph will be there all of next week, commencing Monday, March 22, showing the following moving American pictures: Why Papa Cannot Sleep; Governor of Ohio and Staff; The Drunken Acrobat; U. S. Artillery; 13th Regiment, U. S. A. Blanket Court-martial; Caught in the Act; The Prodigal's Return (and reversed); The Pickaninny's Bath, and the great Railroad scene, showing the Empire State Express speeding at the rate of more than a mile a minute. A carefully selected company of vaudeville artists who will appear during the week are as follows: The talented travesty artists, Mr. and Mrs. Garrison; Kinzo, the Japanese equilibrist; the executive recruits, Swan and Bambard, introducing their burlesque circus, the Battle of Bull Run; Meyer Cohen, the California baritone, and the great fun makers, Mazuse and Mazette, in their ridiculous creation, the Brakeman and the Tramp.
