RESCUED THE SAILORS

Twenty-seven Men Taken From the Sinking Androsa.

BOSTON, March 25.—The steamer Ontonagon, which arrived here from London, brought into port 27 men, comprising the crew of the British ship Androsa, Captain Morgan, which was abandoned at sea March 8, 80 miles west of Falmouth, Edg.

The greater number of the rescued were well high helpless from exhaustion when taken from the Androsa, and they had been working at the pumps and at jetting the cargo for many days and nights without intermission.

Several times during the battle with the elements men dropped from their places and were carried below by their more vigorous comrades, and after resting they would drag themselves back to the deck to again engage in the work, even though in some cases they could not get upon their feet, and worked while on their knees.

After the rescue most of the men had to be put to bed on board the steamer, but they are now fairly well and will probably be returned to Liverpool by steamer this week by British Consul Stuart.

When last seen the Androsa was fast settling in the water preparatory to taking her final plunge to the bottom.

ACCIDENTAL SHOOTING

Instead of Shooting the Foxes, He Became the Victim.

HIGHLAND FALLS, N. Y., March 23.—Jeremiah Halley of Queensbury was awakened by a commotion in his henhouse. As he had been losing chickens in some mysterious way all winter, Halley threw on some clothing and, seizing his gun, hurried into the yard in the hope of catching the robber. Two foxes, each bearing a fowl, darted off before the man could get a shot at them. The foxes for a mile and at length came to some dense underbrush where he sighted them eating the chickens. As Halley threw his gun into position to fire, both barrels were accidentally discharged. One charge of shot tore through his hands and arms, the other was embedded in his feet. The man was found unconscious some time later and brought to Highland Falls for treatment. It is thought he will recover.

WOMAN SECURES A CONTRACT

She Agrees to Carry Mail Cheaper Than Her Male Competitor.

PORT WASHINGTON, March 24.—The contract to carry the mail from this place to Great Neck, a distance of 12 miles, has been awarded to Miss Fille Crocker, from July 1, 1897, to June 30, 1901. She will have to make 12 trips there and back every week.

Miss Crocker succeeds Edward Baxter, who has carried the mails for the last 12 years. She underbid him in the price about 10 cents a day. Previous to Baxter's securing the contract it was held by Miss Susie Brunner, who not only gave satisfactory service, but once when a man held up her wagon containing the mail, she so boldly held him with the butt end of her rifle that he fled in the effects of the beating. She was arrested, but on trial was acquitted.

NATIONAL GUARDS TO PARADE

ALBANY, March 24.—General Daniel Butterfield of New York city, at the request of General Dodge, grand marshal, appeared before the governor on behalf of the military committee of the Grant monument dedication ceremonies for April 27. After giving a general outline of the situation, he asked on behalf of the committee in New York, whom he represented, that the entire national guard of the state be present. On his line of argument he gave as his opinion to the governor that, aside from the matter of state and civic pride, in connection with the ceremonies, and the willingness expressed by all the troops to go without compensation, that the experience and effective mobilization of the national guard, moving to a given point on a given day, and immediately returning after accomplishing a fixed object, was of great and important value to the troops and to the state and it should not be lost sight of.

Emperor William's Celebration

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 24.—The weather was bright and on the last day of the celebration of the centenary of the birth of Emperor William I the streets were crowded. The whole procession was about three miles in length, and it is estimated that over 40,000 persons took part in it. At intervals there were floats on wheels representing scenes from the life of the late emperor. Germania was represented by the wife of a sculptor named Schott. She was surrounded by 100 steel-clad knights. The procession was reviewed by the emperor, the empress, the prince and the royal guests from a pavilion at the feet of the William I monument, which was unveiled with so much ceremony.

POWERS ARE ANGRY.

Against the Turks For Murder of Armenians.

PROBABLE CHANGE OF POLICY.

Ambassadors Tell the Sultan That He Must Put a Stop to the Outrages. Turkey Pillaged and Destroyed. Home: The Sultan Quiet.

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 25.—The steps taken by the sultan to punish the Turkish officials who are held responsible for the massacre of 100 Armenians at Tokat, in the Nivas district of Asia Minor, and the pillaging of the Armenian quarter of Tokat for eight hours are not satisfactory to the ambassadors of the powers and, unless there is a change in the situation very shortly, it is believed that some of the powers will be compelled by public opinion to make a radical change of their policy towards Crete and Greece.

The remonstrance of Sir Philip Currie, the British ambassador, was one of the strongest ever delivered by an ambassador concerning the massacres in Armenia and was intended as a stern notification to the sultan that further outbreaks in Armenia would not pass without vigorous action upon the part of the powers.

The immediate result was the calling of an extraordinary meeting of the council of ministers at the Yildiz Kiosk, at the end of which the ambassadors were notified that the sultan has ordered the dismissal of the prefect of police and chief of the gendarmerie of Tokat for not preventing the massacres and for failing to put an end to the pillaging of the Armenian quarter of that city.

The mere dismissal of two minor Turkish officials is not considered sufficient to demonstrate the repugnance of the sultan to the wanton killing of 100 Armenians and is further looked upon as being likely to encourage additional outbreaks of the same nature. Consequently, Sir Philip Currie has made fresh representations to the sultan, setting forth that serious consequences will follow failure of the sultan to really punish those who are responsible for the Tokat outrages.

Although the result of the meeting of the ambassadors has not been allowed to be generally known in independent circles here, the opinion prevails that unless the ambassadors really hold forth definite threats of coercion in the event of the failure of the sultan to adopt prompt and efficacious measures to prevent further massacres in Armenia there is absolutely no hope of improving the situation, as it has been so frequently intimated by the sultan that he must reform, that he now pays no attention to such communications.

SITUATION IN CRETE

Blockade Commenced Turkish Soldiers Pillaging—Provisions Scarce.

CANEA, March 25.—The situation in Crete may be described as one of expectancy. The fact that the blockade has formally begun has been generally commented on in the telegraphic circuit. A strong gale is blowing across the Aegean sea which will make the blockade exceedingly difficult. It is reported that the admirals purposely refrained from interfering with vessels which recently landed provisions in Crete, one having discharged its cargo at Anafioti, almost under the eyes of the admirals. The necessity of removing the Turkish troops from the island become more and more imperative, and absolutely nothing else will convince the remains of Europe's sincerity. It may be regarded as certain that they will even prevent the departure of the Greek army by force until the Turks have gone. There is no time to be lost. It is probable that Greece and Turkey should join support the armies they have mobilized. Either may prefer provoking a struggle to seeing its troops starve.

The foreign warships have already arrived at Crete, and the sultan should be induced to make voluntary recall of his troops. Greece might then be willing to recall Colonel Vassos.

Pillaging still continues. Three Turkish soldiers were caught in the act of pillaging at Halapa and tried on the gendarmes, who returned the fire, killing one of them.

Some doubt is now expressed by the officials here as to whether Colonel Vassos, commander of the Greek forces in Crete, will be able to hold out long, owing to the scarcity of provisions. It is also denied by the officials that there is friction between the admirals and the consuls.

Canadian Customs Law

TORONTO, March 23.—Among the new regulations sent out by the customs department is one that will be of interest to American sportsmen. It is with reference to guns and sportsmen's outfits brought into Canada temporarily, a return to the owner of nine-tenths of the duty will be given on his complying with the regulations of the department. The duty is 20 per cent, and by this regulation the sportsman is made to pay to the customs 9 per cent of the total value of his goods.

CONGRESSIONAL NEWS

Items of Interest From Both Houses of Congress.

The program of the tariff which opened in the house today is simple but arduous. The house sits from 10 o'clock in the morning until 11 o'clock at night, with a recess from 5 until 8 each day for dinner. The general debate will close Thursday night. Beginning Friday the bill will be read for amendment under the five-minute rule until 3 o'clock on the following Wednesday, March 31, when the bill and pending amendments will be voted upon.

A bill to compel respectful treatment for the United States flag was introduced in the house by Representative Howe of New York. It provides that any person in the employ of the government, who shall utter words that reflect on or speak on the American flag, thereby showing disrespect to the flag and the government from which they derive their livelihood, shall be immediately dismissed from the service.

The night sessions of the house during the general debate will be given up almost entirely to set speeches by new members who desire to get their views in The Congressional Record for the benefit of their constituents.

The president has signed the joint resolution passed by congress directing the secretary of war to purchase tents for the Mississippi flood sufferers.

The senate has agreed to begin voting on the amendments to the arbitration treaty by individual senators on Wednesday next.

DESTRUCTIVE CYCLONE

Work of Death Done Before Danger Was Realized.

ARLINGTON, Va., March 23.—An awful cyclone swept down upon this little place and accomplished a work of horror that has never been paralleled in this vicinity. The bodies of eight children have been taken from the ruins of the Arlington Academy and about 12 others will die. Thirty-five children and two teachers were down in the wreck and the work of removing the dead and injured is not completed. The scene is heartrending.

The Arlington academy, a fine structure, lay directly in the path of the storm. It was knocked into a great heap, and the work of death was done even before the danger was realized. The structure was smashed into kindling wood, and the broken timbers and dead bodies mixed together in sickening confusion.

Head Bodies Found and Lost

NEW YORK, March 23.—The "Crown" line steamer "Cresia," Captain Gager, arrived from New Orleans.

On the passage a boat belonging to the ill-fated French steamer Ville de Metz, which foundered in a storm off Hatteras on Monday, March 8, was picked up, with six dead bodies lying in her.

The boat was filled with water, and as the tackle was hooked to the bow and heaved so as to empty some of the water out of her, the bodies were washed out of the other end and sank.

The boat was taken on board the "Cresia" and brought to port and now lies on the steamer's deck awaiting the orders of the French consular company.

Waltham Watch Company's Move

WALTHAM, Mass., March 23.—There was a tremendous sensation among the 3,000 employes of the Waltham Watch company when it became known through notices posted, that the great factory would close on the afternoon of March 26 for a week, for a rearrangement of departments, and that all finishing room employes, some 40 in number would be discharged after that date, to be rehired at the pleasure of the company. The men claim that the company is desirous of substituting work for men, and that a number of the former have already been secretly taught the trade.

Bicycle Manufacturer Assigns

LITTLE FALLS, N. Y., March 23.—Homer P. Snyder, successor to Snyder & Fleisher, bicycle manufacturers of this city, made a general assignment to Olin W. Timmerman for the benefit of his creditors. This action was precipitated by the failure of Henry Gregory of Boston and two other dealers. Liabilities and assets are unknown. The general belief is that a settlement will be made and the business resumed in 10 days. One hundred and twenty-five men were employed.

Bicycle Plant Destroyed

READING, Pa., March 23.—The large plant of the Acme bicycle works was destroyed by fire. The fire originated in the enameling room, and owing to the inflammable nature of the stock, the big 4-story brick building was soon a mass of flames. All the valuable machinery was destroyed, making a total loss of about $75,000, covered by insurance. The building contained material for fully 5,000 bicycles.

Streetcar Platform Broke

BUFFALO, March 23.—The rear platform on a streetcar gave way. It was crowded at the time and the occupants were thrown to the ground. All escaped injury but Anthony Kolofo, who had a broken arm and numerous bruises. The accident was caused by the wearing out of the platform supports.

BOILER EXPLODES

Engineer and Fireman Meet a Horrible Death.

CHICAGO, March 22.—The boiler of the locomotive which was hauling the Chicago and Boston special on the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern railroad blew up, instantly killing the engineer and fireman and completely demolishing the engine. It was rumored that the boiler was defective in some respects but this was denied by the officials of the road. The latter say the locomotive was in good condition in every respect, had been in service about three years and was considered one of the fastest engines on the road. The train that it was pulling is known as No. 10 and is a through train from Chicago to Boston.

Examination For Masons

ALBANY, March 23.—There was a hearing before the assembly judiciary committee on Assemblyman Leonard's bill providing that in cities having a population of 800,000 or over no person shall act as a mason or builder unless he be duly registered in the office of the county clerk, no person shall be permitted to register unless he has passed an examination before a special board, to be appointed by the mayor, and has received a certificate entitling him to act as a mason or builder. A few slight changes were made in the original bill at the request of the authorities of New York and Brooklyn.
