BANK ROBBERS ESCAPE.

Cashier Cobb Held Up at the Point of a Gun.

THIEVES SECURED ABOUT $4,000.

Package of Bills Left on the Floor. Cashier Was Alone In the Bank at the Time and Could Not Make Any Resistance—Robbers Escaped.

NEW YORK, April 13.—What appears to have been a carefully planned robbery was successfully carried out by two men who entered the Yonkers Savings bank at Yonkers at a time when most of the employes were out at lunch, held up Cashier Cobb at the point of revolvers, seized $4,000 from the counter and escaped before the cashier recovered from his astonishment.

The robbery occurred when there were no depositors in the bank.

A young man, cleanly shaven, dressed in a light suit of clothing, called on Cashier Cobb. He said that his name was Williams and that he expected a friend at the bank. He said the latter and himself intended doing some business with the bank. He waited for a few minutes and then departed, telling Cashier Cobb that he would return later.

Mr. Cobb turned to go to his desk to put down the name of the visitor. As he did so he noticed something black under his desk. The next thing he was looking into the muzzle of a revolver. He was the only one in the bank proper. The treasurer was in his inner office.

The man sprang up and told Cobb if he uttered a word he would kill him. The man was above medium height and was dressed in dark clothing. He had several bundles of bills in his hands, and with one hand he held them over his mouth, it is believed to hide a mustache.

Cashier Cobb was held in such a position that he was unable to get to his desk, where there was a burglar alarm which connected with police headquarters. The thieves were evidently aware of this fact, for the man on the inside with the revolver prevented Cobb from getting to it and pulling the alarm.

The man backed out of the inner office and went through the iron gate, which was open, then through the bank hall and down the main steps to the street.

When Cashier Cobb recovered the man was fleeing down Hudson street in the direction of the Hudson river. An alarm was immediately sounded, but by this time the men were out of sight.

They were evidently professional thieves.

The amount taken was $4,400. The sum included one $1,000 bill and two checks amounting to $200.

The man in his haste to get out of the building left a package of bills amounting to $500 on the floor.

STEVENSON A BIMETALLIST.

Appreciates the Compliment of His Appointment—His Views.

BLOOMINGTON, Ills., April 14.—Ex-Vice President Stevenson said, when questioned about his appointment on the commission for the promotion of an international agreement:

I appreciate the compliment paid to me by the president and will cheerfully render what assistance I can to accomplish the object of the commission.

I am a bimetallist. I regard the restoration of silver to its proper money function as the supreme question in our country and throughout the world. The importance of the question cannot be overstated. In this country the increase in the volume of business is beyond computation. In the light of these facts the rehabilitation of silver is a prime necessity. Should its demonetization become the settled policy the evil days upon which we have fallen but dimly foreshadow consequences yet to come.

Whatever our views may be as to the ability of our government to maintain the free and unlimited coinage of silver without the co-operation of the leading countries of Europe, it may be safely assumed that every friend of silver in our country will welcome international bimetalism.

As to the impossibility of success of this commission, it is known that the trend of public sentiment in European countries, as well as our own, is undoubtedly favorable to bimetalism.

JEFFERSON'S BIRTHDAY.

Celebration by National Association of Democratic Clubs.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—The 154th anniversary of Jefferson's birthday was celebrated at the Metropolitan hotel by a subscription dinner given under the auspices of the National Association of Democratic clubs.

The first celebration of the anniversary of Jefferson's birth occurred at the same hostelry, then known as the Indian Queen President Jackson was the guest of honor.

This time William J. Bryan of Nebraska, the late Democratic candidate for president, was the guest of honor.

Senators, representatives and others conspicuous in the councils of the Democratic party were present, many of them from a distance. Covers were laid for 200, and many were denied seats for want of space at the table. Governor Chauncey F. Black of Pennsylvania, the president of the association, presided. Upon his right were Mr. Bryan and Representative McMillan, who acted as toastmaster, and on the left Senator Jones of Arkansas, Representatives Bland of Missouri, Lentz of Ohio, Sibley of Pennsylvania and Andrew Lipscomb of Virginia.

Mr. Bryan was greeted with a cheer as he entered the hall.

The menu was carefully prepared and made similar to such a dinner as might have been served during Jefferson's day. The dishes were all American creations and each course as far as possible, represented some section of the country.

The toasts were proposed and briefly responded to except in the case of Mr. Bryan, who spoke at length to the toast "Thomas Jefferson."
