

SURVIVORS RESCUED.

Seventeen Days on the Wreck of the Steamer Aden.

EXISTING ON SHORT RATIONS.

Many Swept Overboard—Life Boats Un- saved When Launched—Rescued by the Italian Boat Mayo.
Many Lives Were Lost.

ADEN, June 30.—The Indian government's steamer Aden, sent out in search of the missing steamer Mayo, for Yokohama on April 28, via Colombo and Aden for London, which was last heard of when leaving Colombo on June 1 for this port, has returned here and reports that the Aden was totally lost off the island of Socotra, at the eastern extremity of Africa, during the morning of June 9.

Two days after leaving Colombo the Aden was struck by a severe monsoon, with squalls violent and incessant.

On June 9 the vessel struck upon the Rasadrea reef, on the eastern coast of the island of Socotra. It was soon seen that the vessel could not survive the shock and that the only chance for safety lay in the boats. Life boats were distributed, distress signals given and the boats on the sea side prepared for launching. Those on the weather side had already been washed away.

A lifeboat was lowered only to be swept away immediately with three lifeboats and first officer, Mr. Carden. The gig was dispatched to the rescue with Mr. Miller, the second officer; but, to the despair of all, both boats were rapidly swept away.

The only remaining lifeboat was then lowered amid a scene of intense emotion. A cry of anguish broke from the lips even of the men when this half-capped, throwing the sailors and the stores into the sea. After great efforts the boat was righted, and the women and children were lowered into it, with exception of Messadme Gillette, Pearce and Strain, who heroically died in the last half mile, when they closed up a gap between themselves and Cornell's boat that had there been another eighth of a mile to row they would have been at first place.

A second feature was the remarkable rowing of the Pennsylvania crew, which had been said by its trainer to be in very bad shape. This crew is a very much inferior crew to the Pennsylvania variety crew, sized and ordered when they closed up a gap between themselves and Cornell's boat that had there been another eighth of a mile to row they would have been at first place.

The only criticism made last night was that Dr. Walter Peet, the referee, kept the crews waiting so long at the stake-boat with their oars clipped that the nervous strain took off at least two seconds from the time.

CORNELL WON.

Carried Off the Honor in the Best Freshman Race Ever Rowed.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., July 1.—Cornell won by three-fourths of a length, Columbia by one-third of a length over Pennsylvania. The official time: Cornell, 9:31.13, Columbia, 9:23.30, Pennsylvania, 9:38.15.

The freshmen race over the two-mile course here between three American crews, rowing with purely American methods, was one of the most remarkable in the annals of boat racing in this country. It was great, inspiring, magnificent. It was unlike any freshmen race ever rowed, because the crews worked without that erraticness that usually marks these events. The freshmen of Cornell Columbia and Pennsylvania rowed with their heads as well as their bodies and showed steady that was surprising.

It was anybody's race until the instant the flag dropped, and the fact that but two seconds divided the first and last crew and that the boats lapped over each other by nearly half a length. Evidence of the character of the struggle. That such a struggle was only washed by a small sized crowd in a masterpiece for those who missed seeing that.

The time is not record breaking, because Yale made the same course in 8:14.33 last Wednesday, but both Columbia finishing second and Pennsylvania finishing third, made better time than did Harvard and Cornell finishing in the same places last Wednesday.

The feature of the race was the wonderful spurt made by the Columbia youngster in the last half mile, when they closed up a gap between themselves and Cornell's boat that had there been another eighth of a mile to row they would have been at first place.

A second feature was the remarkable rowing of the Pennsylvania crew, which had been said by its trainer to be in very bad shape. This crew is a very much inferior crew to the Pennsylvania variety crew, sized and ordered when they closed up a gap between themselves and Cornell's boat that had there been another eighth of a mile to row they would have been at first place.

The only criticism made last night was that Dr. Walter Peet, the referee, kept the crews waiting so long at the stake-boat with their oars clipped that the nervous strain took off at least two seconds from the time.

INGENIOUS BURGLARS.

Attempt to Open a Safe With the Aid of Electricity.

CLEVELAND, June 28.—Burglars resorted to a novel scheme to open a bank safe at Chagrin Falls, this country.

They entered the bank of Rogers & Son some time early in the evening. They had previously attached a wire to the trolley line of the electric railway. This wire was run through over the street to the safe. Another wire attached to the rail of the street car track was brought into the bank. At the ends of these wires were carbon points.

With these carbons an attempt was made with the arc light thus formed to melt the knob of the combination. The experiment worked all right and the knob had been nearly melted away when the current was shut off shortly after midnight. The burglars then gave up the task.

The job was planned scientifically. The thieves had even gone to the trouble of placing a little pile of sand beneath the knob for the molten metal to fall on, and thus avoid setting fire to the floor.

SAVED HIS ENEMY'S LIFE.

Two Men Who Had Not Spoken For Five Years Are Now Reconciled.

COCHECTON, July 1.—Nanford Pierce was rescued from drowning by Alonzo Colby. Five years ago the two men occupied adjoining farms. They quarreled over some cattle, and Pierce declared that he would never speak to Colby again. Until now he religiously kept his word. While Pierce was walking across a foot bridge he was attacked with dizziness and fell into the stream. He was unable to swim and would soon have drowned had it not been for Colby, who was driving near, and hearing Pierce's cries sprang into the water and brought him to land.

"Alonzo forgive the past," gasped Pierce, as he was brought to shore. "Of course I will," answered Colby, assisting the drowned man into his wagon and taking him home.

Wire Nail in His Tongue.

SAUGERTIES, N. Y., July 1.—Merwin Wiant, a young man residing at Corton Hill, had Dr. L. Daves remove a wire nail three inches long from his tongue. Wiant was trying to dislodge a cartridge from a revolver with the nail when the cartridge exploded. The nail entered the right side of his face and imbedded itself diagonally across his tongue. Wiant believed that the bullet had lodged in his tongue instead of the nail. There are fears that lockjaw may set in.

Within a Day's Run of New York City.

SAVED BY CREW'S FINE WORK.

City of Rome Carried Two Hundred and Ninety Passengers—Spontaneous Combustion Supposed to Have Caused the Flames.

NEW YORK, June 28.—The Anchor Line steamer City of Rome, Captain Hugh Young, arrived from Glasgow and Moville after a thrilling fight with fire on board ship, which fortunately was got quickly under control by the ship's splendidly equipped and well drilled fire crew.

The captain on the bridge detected smoke issuing from No. 4 hold, immediately ordered the bridge to be investigated and the captain's worst fears were verified, as dense volumes of smoke began to ascend from the hold.

The fire alarm was sounded and the ship's crew beat to quarters. Meanwhile an officer was detailed to notify the passengers, who were calmly sitting or promenading the decks.

The ship's fire crew promptly responded to the captain's call and in a few minutes the engine room to the hold where the fire was then raging steam and water were turned into the burning compartment and two hours and a half afterward the fire was under control.

E. S. Bender of Albany, one of the passengers, said that when the fire was discovered preparations were made for abandoning the ship. The flurried passengers assembled in the main saloon with hand baggage and life belts.

Captain Young addressed them briefly, giving them the option of remaining on the steamer or of being transferred to a barquentine and schooner, which were going in opposite directions.

Mr. Bender put the motion to remain on the steamer and it was carried almost unanimously.

Mr. Bender was loud in praise of Captain Young, Purser Young and Chief Engineer Murray, as well as of the mates of the ship.

HORSEWHIPPED A MAN.

Miss Hulse Was Chased by the Farmers as She Went Away on Her Wheel.

BENNETTVILLE, N. Y., June 30.—Arthur Hopkins of McLean Corners was horsewhipped by Miss Flora Hulse.

The girl heard that he had circulated false reports concerning her. She left home on her wheel and took a riding whip with her. She had gone a mile and a half when she met Hopkins with his younger brother.

"Mr. Hopkins I want to see you a moment," said Miss Hulse, dismounting. "I learn you have been talking about me, and I don't want you to have a little understanding."

"Certainly," replied Hopkins, sneeringly. "What is there about it you don't understand?"

The girl struck the young man several times with her whip as she exclaimed: "You'll mind your own business next time, I guess. The law is too tame for a fellow like you."

Hopkins turned to escape but received more blows before he got away. As the irate young woman rode off on her bicycle men in a nearby field cheered her.

KILLED BY THE FALL.

Men Swept off a High Scaffold by Falling Derrick.

ATLANTA, June 29.—A derrick on the roof of a new building fell, knocking three workmen from a scaffolding on the ninth story.

Two of them were dashed to instant death on the ground below and the third saved himself strangely.

The men were standing on a platform which skirts the edge of the ninth floor when the derrick fell, the part of the scaffolding upon which they stood was swept away and the men were thrown into space.

Brown grasped one of the derrick ropes as he shot through the air. As the boom of the hoisting engine fell, the ropes on the tangle were set in motion, one going up and the other going down. It was Brown's good fortune to catch the rope being drawn upward and he was hauled safely to the roof.

PUZZLES THE DOCTORS.

John H. Price Shows His Skin in July of Each Year.

CHICAGO, June 30.—John H. Price, a minister of Phillips, Mont., sheds his entire skin every year. He has twice come to Chicago to be attended by physicians, but this year he will go to Butte, Mont., where he will undergo the process, which occurs regularly on July 24.

Among the specimens in St. Elizabeth's hospital, this city, is Mr. Price's skin of last year, which, removed in sections, was put together and stuffed. For the two weeks in which he was enduring the illness, peculiar to reptiles and birds in shedding or molting time, he was under the observation of J. Frank McArthur, Beran and others.

Price underwent in the same institution the same experience in 1890, and in the last 32 years he has annually exchanged his old skin for a brand new one. He is now 40 years old.

"From a scientific standpoint Price's case is most interesting," said Dr. Frank Price, a link of testimony in Darwin's theory of evolution. No other explanation is possible. In the medical records of 2,000 years the case has no parallel.

"Price becomes ill every year with unfailing regularity about 8 o'clock in the afternoon of July 24. Sometimes he is delirious for three or four days. On the third day the skin loosens and begins to come off in strips. It is all off from his neck to the apex of his feet, finally with the finger nails become loose gradually, and are not removed until the skin is entirely off. The toenails are the last to be removed."

BENHAM TRIAL OPENED.

Large Crowd of Curiosity Seekers Filled the Courtroom.

BATAVIA, N. Y., July 1.—District Attorney Kenefick opened the case with a powerful speech, stating the case of the people.

Benham was nervous. He looks pale and careworn, and kept casting sharp and anxious glances at the jury.

Miss Emma Hagen, who in the Benham household for three years, had heard Benham curse his wife many times. Mrs. Sarah Chadwick had also heard him swear at his wife when she reproved him for staying out all night. Upon cross-examination she said that Benham was usually kind to his wife and assisted in caring for her during her illness.

Mrs. Anna Hard swore to seeing Benham strike his wife with his hand. They had some words about the laundry. Witness had heard him tell his wife she was the worst looking woman he ever saw and all her a damn fool.

Upon cross-examination she said the blow was struck on the thigh. It was not a severe blow.

One of the sensational points was Kenefick's telling the jury of the discovery of a bottle of prussic acid in the bathroom of Benham's house. This point has never before been confirmed.

Anna Couper said she had heard Benham tell his wife she ought not to be alive and would not be much longer.

The groom ascended to a distance of 1,000 feet, when he safely made the descent with his parachute.

After the bride had changed her wet garments in a nearby bathhouse, the couple held a public reception on the river view pavilion.

SERMONS BY TELEPHONE.

An Ingenious Method of Hearing Discovered, Delivered at a Distance.

In Freehold, N. J. Mr. Bellamy's sermons by contract plan recently received a practical demonstration.

Mrs. Margaret E. Forman has revolutionized the church method of the quiet little New Jersey town. She is a staunch Scotch Presbyterian, and up to a few months ago attended services regularly. Then she was taken ill, and the doctors announced that she was destined to be confined to her home for a long time.

Then a telephone arrangement came into play. A complete circuit was formed from every room in the church to her sitting room, and now, at rest in her easy chair, Mrs. Forman is sole authority as to what she may and may not listen to. If the sermon be slightly unorthodox and displeasing to the ear of a Scotch Presbyterian, the receiver is hung up and the pastor's voice is stilled.

Even the choir has its critic, miles away, for a receiver rests in front of the choir rail. Perhaps it is an unpleasant reminder that music over a telephone, as through a phonograph, always sounds as if a group of Broadway cable cars had missed the cable and were tearing round Dead Man's curve in an effort to telescoped one another, but in Freehold this should be reduced to a minimum, especially on Sundays.

In time the habit may spread to New York, and the nervous and weak-hearted who quail before the utterances of the Rev. Madison C. Peters, or Dr. Parkhurst, or the Rev. Mr. Dixon may have a megaphone-like arrangement in their houses, and even the cook and the coachman may listen freely. —New York
