The Freeman of July 8 said: "The Catholic people of Lurgan and their respected pastor, Father O'Hare, are to be congratulated on the reopening 1896." Major Wilson Lynch, D. L., secof St. Peter's Church, which took place on Sunday. As may be seen from the description of the church given in our report the repoyated building may be regarded as one of the finest eccles.a tical structures in the diosese, and it will be, when entirely finished with tower and other accessories, one of .ne most complete and beautiful. Its reopening is a very necessary conventence for the people of Lurgan, whose church accommodation had been somewhat abridged during the period of alteration." Right Hon. Lord Chief Justice O' Brien and the Right Hon. Lord Chief Baron Palles, Judges of Assize in Armagh, July 8 visited Cardinal Logue, at Ara Coeli, Armagh.

The remains of Annie Lilly Redpath, aged 15 years, were found in the River Bann, Portadown, during the past week. She had been missing since June 16. "Found drowned" was the verdict rendered by the Coroner's jury. Her family is most respectable.

CLARE.

At the meeting of the Clare Grand Jury last week the foreman, Mr. Thomas George Stack pole Mahon, in the chair, Mr. H. V. Macnamara proposed the following: "That we, the Grand Jury of the county of Clare, assembled at the Summer Assizes, 1897, while welcoming the scheme foreshadowed by Mr. A. J. Balfour for reform of local government in Ireland, and the promise of the long hoped for relief to ratepayers, consider, that, in justice, the existing local authorities in Ireland should immediately receive pecuniary grants of a somewhat equivalent value to those being at present given to the English and Scotch bodies under the Agricultural Rating act, onded the resolution, which was unanimously adopted. Quite recutly a family, named Hanley, Derrymore, Klikishen, were evicted from their holding by their landlord, Coroner John Frost, Clonmoney, Bunratty. The act is considered a very harsh one, and the landlord is having a "hot time" of it.

KERRY.

A remerkable case of longevity is reported from Kerry. A farmer died a few days since at Ballingianna, Dunquin, having attained the age of 116. Up to a short time before his death he was in his usual health, and until six months ago worked his farm.

A young man named Donoghue was working in a quarry in Ballinahallagh, District of Castleisland, last week, and set fire to a fuse, which burned more rapidly than was expected, and he was struck on the back of the head by dislodged stones, some pleces being embedded in his skull. The services of D Brosnan, Killarney, were requistioned, but he pronounced the injuries fatal, and I)onoghue soon died, poor fellow! Every instant in the day and night lives are in deadly peril for the bit to eat and the clothes to cover the body This is true in every land weneath the sun.

WICKLOW.

Mrs. Martha Lawler, aged 64 years, of Main street, Bray, died July 1, deeply and widely regretted. Interment was in Kilmacanogue; funeral cortege long.

A frightful accident occurred near Baltingiass on Sacurday. A man named Dunne was cutting a meadow for Mrs. Kehoe, of Clough, and was attended by his son, about 10 years old. The little fellow came up with the lights, which he was handing to his father, who was on the seat of the machine. Dunne was taking the matches when the horses moved on, and before the boy was able to get out of the way the blade caught his leg below the knee, completely severing the limb.

He was at once conveyed to the hospi-. tal, where Dr. McDonald had an operation performed, removing the remaining portion of the leg to above the knee. The boy is now doing as will as could be hoped. Much sympathy is felt for his father and mother. who are a most respectable couple, and whose grief at the occurrence was heartrending

Several places in this county made desperate efforts to get up demonstrative exhibitions of loyalty on the "longest reign" fad. The parishes of Rathdowney, Donoghmore, Skirke, Borris-in-Ossory, Eirke and Johnstown joined in the jubilation. They held a juvenile festival, with open air amusements and games at Lisduff, which Col. Poe placed at their disposal. After "Grace" at Rathdowney and Castlefieming churches, vehicles conveyed people to Lisduff, where they were joined by the band of the Boy's Brigade, who were carried from Dublin by the G. S. & W. Railway. After indulging in lunch the youthful loyalists proceeded to honor the record reign by holding donkey races (not necessarily confined to the members of Gara, T. Reilly, J. Walsh, M. O'Mally, the assemblage), sack races and other assinine exhibitions of loyalty. "The people," a Tory contemporary says, "dispersed with loyal cheering and other jubliant demonstrations."
