

PARADE OF VETERANS.

President McKinley Rode at Head of Marchers.

MANY THOUSANDS IN LINE.

Splendid Appearance of Paraders Evoke Loud and Long Applause—Living Shield a Feature—Hours in Passing the Reviewing Stand.

BUFFALO, Aug. 25.—At an early hour people began to select points of vantage from which to view the crowning display of the 81st national encampment, the parade. At 7 o'clock the streets were filled and at 8 they were packed and jammed.

At 8 o'clock all cars and carriages were ordered off Main street and the police stretched ropes on each side of the street. From the Terrace to Chippewa the streets were roped off and only messenger boys were allowed to cross.

All reviewing stands were filled long before the hours of starting and the G. A. R. and Fresh Air Mission accumulated quite a snug sum.

Promptly at 10 o'clock the signal to move was given and the advance guard swung into Main street from the Terrace.

A mighty shout went up when President McKinley was seen at the head of the column, riding side by side with Commander Clarkson.

It seems that last evening Mr. Clarkson made known to the president the wish of many people that he would participate in the parade and he promptly accepted Clarkson's invitation to head the procession.

The nation had been searched from sea to sea for more grand and fitting escort for the president of the United States could have been found than the 42,000 in line today.

Up Main swept the columns to the music of many bands, and all the way was one long continued ovation to the heroes that fought their country's battles.

Down Chippewa turned the host, passing under the large and handsome arch erected by the colored population of Buffalo, and turning up Delaware avenue.

On Chippewa across Delaware was situated one of the city's notable features—the living shield.

On a platform 100 feet long and having a decline of 30 feet were 2,000 children. The colors of the shield were formed by the different hued garments, arranged in order, and where the shield came to a point at the bottom dark clothes set off the shield to advantage.

The upper part of the shield, which symbolized stars, was occupied by boys clothed in blue, the stars, 45 in number, were of white sheet metal, supported by sticks which were hidden by the lines of boys.

Girls formed the lower portion of the shield.

In front was placed a band to accompany the children's singing, and as the head of the column reached the stand the 2,000 voices broke forth with the "Star Spangled Banner."

At 1 o'clock the children were changed, 2,000 others in reserve taking their place. They rendered many national and war-time airs. One that brought applause from the marchers was "Marching Through Georgia," which brought to the minds of many occasions on which they had heard and sung the old song when the circumstances and surroundings were vastly different from today's.

The throng of marchers tramped up Delaware avenue with the old familiar swing that spoke loudly of days of hard drill and many weary marches.

They turned on to North street, proceeding to the Circle, where President McKinley and Commander Clarkson dismounted and ascended the reviewing stand at the head of Richmond avenue.

On the stand was Governor Frank Black, Secretary of War Alger and other noted persons.

As each company passed the reviewing stand they saluted by tipping their colors. No drilling was allowed at the stand in order to save time.

From the Circle the veterans marched down Porter avenue to Prospect park, where they broke ranks and went to quarters.

There was several cases of illness, caused by the long wait after falling in early in the morning, but none proved serious.

BANQUET TO THE PRESIDENT.

Columbia Post of Chicago's Successful Spread at Elliott's Square.

Last evening Columbia Post of Chicago gave a banquet at the Elliott's Club to President McKinley, at which many notable were present. About 500 were in attendance.

Those at the guests' table were: Commander C. H. McConnell of Columbia Post, toastmaster of the occasion; President McKinley, General T. S. Clarkson, Archbishop Ireland, Mayor Jewett, General Russell A. Alger, Governor Frank S. Black, General James E. Curtis, Captain-in-Chief Mark B. Taylor of Brooklyn, Charles W. Anderson, the famous negro orator, Wilson S. Blanton, William J. Connor, Colonel Swift, Governor Hazen S. Pingree of Detroit, Past Commander-in-Chief T. W. Lawler, Representative R. B. Mahany, Representative D. S. Alexander, C. Porter Johnson of Chicago, Colonel Blackman of Chicago, Colonel Gage, General Walker, General Komits, Colonel John D. Weber, Colonel J. E. Horton, Colonel Atkinson, Alderman Hitch of Chicago, Henry D. Estabrook of Chicago, Fred W. Peck of the Chicago Auditorium, General John S. Wise and Augustus F. Sobou.

Governor Black responded to the toast, "A Welcome to New York," in which he welcomed President McKinley and expressed the gratification all felt at having him within the bounds of our great state.

Mayor Jewett, in well chosen words, welcomed the president to Buffalo.

Then President McKinley, Governor and his Defenders." Close attention was paid to his remarks and applause repeatedly interrupted the speaker. He paid a high tribute to the old veterans and the services rendered to their country in its time of need.

Among other speakers were General Alger, Charles W. Anderson, Hon. John S. Wise and Archbishop Ireland.

BADGES OF ALL KINDS.

Connecticut Veterans Wear Tiny Wooden Badges—California's Best.

The notable feature of the encampment was the variety of badges worn.

There are of many different designs. Some are so unique as to attract attention at once, and each is representative of the locality of the wearer. The wide white satin ribbon decorated with a witch astride a broomstick, who loses none of her grotesqueness because of the artistic handling of the artist's brush, tells you at once that the fair wearer hails from historic Salem.

Kansas delegates sport the sunflower, while clusters of poppies adorn those from Nebraska.

Massachusetts is shown by a tiny boat pot, and a small rubber clam claims Rhode Island. Connecticut veterans wear small wooden nutmegs.

The Texans wear a steer's head with widely branching horns and jeweled eyes.

The field rose decks the Iowa, and the Kentuckians wear a cracker crossed by an ear of corn in miniature.

A golden bear adorns the men from California and the New Jersey steeler looks natural enough to cause a stranger to dodge.

Executive Session Now Open.

BUFFALO, Aug. 25.—The day after the great parade finds all in the best of health and still bent on extracting all the enjoyment possible out of the encampment.

The crowd is somewhat smaller, many leaving last night and today for their homes.

Niagara Falls is reaping a harvest from the veterans, as the trip there is one of the best things on the program, and no one from a distance thinks of leaving without a sight of old Niagara.

President McKinley and party left today for Cleveland, where he will arrive tomorrow morning.

Today saw the beginning of business sessions. At 9:30 this morning the officers and delegates were escorted to Music Hall.

Governor Frank Black extended a warm and hearty welcome to New York state, and Mayor Jewett welcomed them to the city of Buffalo.

State Commander Shaw welcomed them in the name of the state department, while Augustus F. Sobou tendered the greeting of the citizens' committee.

General Clarkson and others responded, returning thanks for the reception and good treatment accorded to the Grand Army.

At the close of the speeches the executive session was opened.

There is great strife over location of next year's encampment. San Francisco, Denver and Cincinnati are the leading rivals for this honor and the delegates are doing some hot busting in behalf of their respective cities.

It is generally believed that San Francisco stands the best chance, but Cincinnati may prove her stumbling block.

Then comes the election of a national commander. General Mack of Sandusky, O., is believed to be a sure winner, but John Innes of Boston has a strong following.

There were reunions, campfires and receptions galore.

There was grand reunion and campfire at the Delaware Avenue Methodist church where General Alger, Governor Black, General Clarkson, General J. N. Walker and Archbishop Ireland were gathered together.

Another great one was at Asbury church and General James Black, Daniel Butterfield and Private Dabell were the main speakers and kept things on a lively move.

Benham Seeks a New Trial.

BATAVIA, N. Y., Aug. 24.—After Mr. Mackey concluded his argument on the motion for a new trial for Benham in supreme court District Attorney Kenefick of Buffalo argued the case on behalf of the prosecution. He asserted that the grounds upon which the defense asked for a new trial were wholly insufficient.

Following him, Attorney Scarlett of Danville, Pa., resumed the argument for the defense. Mr. Kenefick spoke again briefly. Briefs were then submitted, and Justice Leunglin adjourned court until Sept. 11, when he will render his decision on the motion.

SHOT AT DOOR OF CATHEDRAL.

This Was the Third Attempt Made to End His Career, the Others Proving Unsuccessful—Murderer Has Been Placed Under Arrest.

MONTEVIDEO, Aug. 25.—During a national fête here in celebration of the independence of Uruguay, which was declared on Aug. 25, 1825, President J. Idiarte Borda was shot and killed by an assassin, who used a revolver.

President Borda was shot as he was leaving the cathedral, where a te deum had been sung.

The assassin was a youth named Arredondo. He was placed under arrest. Death occurred almost immediately.

Senior J. Idiarte Borda was elected president of Uruguay for the term extending from March, 1914, to 1918.

Senior Cutas, president of the senate, had assumed the presidency of the republic ad interim.

This is not the first time he had been assassinated, as an attempt was made to assassinate the president on the afternoon of April 21 last.

An unknown man met President Borda in the street and shot at him. The president escaped without injury, and the criminal was captured.

On that occasion the president, accompanied by his aide, Lieutenant Colonel Turians, had been horseback riding just as he dismounted in front of the government palace a youth approached him and drew a pistol, and before the trigger could be pulled, Lieutenant Colonel Turians struck up the arm of the would-be assassin, and the ball passed over the president's head.

Another attempt to assassinate him was made on May 20, when he received a bomb sent to him from La Plata, Argentina. It was in a box and so arranged that it would explode when the box was opened. Fortunately suspicion was aroused, and the box was turned over to the police and destroyed.

President Borda was about 50 years of age. He was a married man and had a family and also a brother who was an officer in the Uruguayan army.

OVER NIAGARA FALLS.

Boat Capsized and Three Men Swept to Death.

NIAGARA FALLS, Aug. 23.—A boat capsized in the river near Cedar Island and three men were carried down through the rapids and over the Horseshoe falls in sight of a large number of people. The last seen of the unfortunate men was just as they were on the brink of the falls before they took the plunge to a frightful death.

The men were Frank Weber, a painter of Buffalo, Warren Bush and Charles Glanzer, both of Chicago.

They belonged to a party of campers who were located in the woods near the river a mile and a half from LaSalle.

Persons who were on Goat Island and on the bank of the river near Port Day and saw the men drift away to their death say it was a terrible sight. In the rapids the three were dashed about by the boiling waters. For a time they would be seen as they were raised in the air by the spray and then they would sink out of sight, only to reappear again and be hurled about.

When the men came near the falls they were a few feet apart. Glasses in the hands of people on shore were brought to bear on them and they were watched as they neared the brink of the fall and were tossed about a few seconds and then hurled over.

The three men who were drowned only went to the camp on Friday last and they intended to stay until Wednesday of this week, on which day the Chicago men were to return to their homes.

Two women were also at the camp. They are sisters-in-law of Frank Weber. Frank Weber leaves a widow and two children. One of the children is at the camp.

Warren Bush was 21 years old. He was from Chicago and a former employe of the United States Express company in Chicago.

Charles Glanzer, 29 years old, was a clerk in the United States express office in Chicago.

The bodies have not been recovered.

TORONTO, Aug. 23.—At the foot of Cherry street there is a float made of rough timber, 12 feet long by 6 feet wide, used for conveying workmen from the market land to the breakwater, a distance of about 100 yards. The float is worked by chains attached to the bank on the one side and the breakwater on the other side.

Twenty-one children, boys and girls ranging from 8 to 18 years old, crowded on the raft for the purpose of going to bathe at the breakwater. After about half way across the channel, where the water is very deep, the raft capsized, and all the children were thrown into the water.

There were many boats in the neighborhood and these were quickly to the scene of the accident, and all the children were rescued except five.

Three of the bodies have been recovered. Albert Drie, 1 year old, Gertie Harvey, 11, and Jack Zehel, 10.

The names of the other two children are not yet known.
