MEN BLOWN TO PIECES

Terrific Explosion of Nitro-Glycerine at Cygnet, O.

BUILDING ENTIRELY DESTROYED

Many Lives Lost—Not a Pane of Glass Left In the Windows—Gas Caught Fire In the Well After It Had Been Shot—Many Unknown.

CYGNET, O., Sept. 8.—An explosion of nitro-glycerine took place here which resulted in the death of six persons whose names are known, and several others whose names are at present unknown.

The explosion occurred at Grant well, located at the rear of the National Supply company's office building in the village limits. This well had just been shot by Samuel Barber, the shooter from the Ohio and Indiana Torpedo company.

The well was a gaser and when the 120 quarts of glycerine let down in the well exploded, the gas ignited with a terrific roar, the flames shooting high above the derrick.

As soon as the drillers saw the flames several climbed into the derrick to shut off the gas, but they had barely gotten there when there was a terrific explosion The burning gas had started the remaining glycerine in the empty cans standing in a wagon near the derrick.

In another wagon near by were cans containing another 120 quarts of the stuff, and these were exploded.

The explosions blended in a might roar and the town and surrounding country for miles trembled from the shock.

The National Supply company's building was completely demolished and nothing remains but a big hole where the wagons stood. There is not a whole pane of glass in any window in the town and every house and store was shaken to its foundation.

The damage to the Ohio Oil company will amount to $8,000. Eight buildings are a total wreck and many others damaged. The town has a population of about 1,200.

Many bystanders were wounded.

SHOT DOWN BESIDE HIS WIFE.

An Alabama Farmer Assassinated While Driving on the Highway.

MONTGOMERY, Sept. 6.—S. S. Oates, a wealthy farmer and merchant, was waylaid and shot to death in Autuga county by a neighbor who had a grudge against him.

Oates was driving along a public road in his phaeton with his wife beside him and his two small children at his feet. Frank Hill, another white farmer, stepped from behind a tree and fired a load of buckshot and slugs into the buggy. Oates received the load in his breast and abdomen. He threw himself from the buggy in order to save his family, and a second load was fired into his body. The other occupants of the vehicle escaped serious injury.

Hill escaped, but after six or eight hours was captured with the aid of dogs Oates' friends began to assemble, and, a lynching being feared, the assassin was hurried away into this county, where he was confined. Hill insists that he is innocent, and attempted to prove an alibi. Mrs. Oates says that he is the murderer, and others testify that he had been awaiting an opportunity to kill Oates for several days, and would not listen to the remonstrances of his friends.

Oates testified contrary to Hill's interest in a recent lawsuit involving the ownership of some pigs.

RECOVERED THE BODIES.

Dynamite Used to Raise Them—Taken to New York.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Sept. 6.—The bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Forest H. Parker, Jr., who were drowned in Chain lake in the Adirondacks have been recovered. Dynamite was used and the bodies came to the surface.

Mrs. Parker and his wife had gone rowing, Mr. Parker taking a gun with him. Not returning, a party went in search of the missing couple and the boat was found bottom up floating at the end of the lake. When Mr. Parker's body was recovered it was found that the nose was broken and the face badly disfigured, which seemed to indicate that when the gun was discharged, it had exploded or kicked badly, and that Mrs. Parker had been knocked overboard and had probably overturned the boat.

The bodies were taken to New York city by a special train.

TO STOP THE PLAGUE.

Government Will Assist In Preventing the Spread of Yellow Fever.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8. The general government will render all assistance in its power to check the spread of yellow fever.

This will be done mainly through the agency of the Marine hospital service Dr. Walter Wyman, head of the bureau, has returned to the city and assumed active charge in directing the work of assisting the state officials of Mississippi in their efforts to confine the disease to the locality where it appears to have started

Dr. Wyman says the situation at Ocean Springs is entirely in the hands of the state board of health The Marine hospital bureau is doing everything possible to assist.

The Marine Hospital service has ample camp material and equipage on hand. The splendid outfit which has been at Gainesville, Fla., will be started on a train for the vicinity of Ocean Springs. It will be taken to within 30 or 40 miles of the place, and if a camp of detention is found necessary the outfit will be used as occasion may require The bureau also keeps portable apparatus at Savannah, Ga., intended for use in epidemics It consists of machines for disinfecting and fumigating purposes.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept 8.—New Orleans reports no new cases of yellow fever But one imported case thus far has been developed here, and death has wiped that out.

The board of health through its president, declares that in spite of all reports to the contrary, not one of the many who had come hither from Ocean Springs had been stricken with the dread disease

A complete inspection camp has been organized at the Rigolets, through which an entrance is made to the city No doubtful case will be allowed to come in

One additional case has been reported at Ocean Springs, with symptoms of yellow fever, a mulatto

Ocean Springs has now been absolutely cut off from the outside world. Serious suffering is sure to follow It was said that there is only one ton of ice in the town and there was no way to get more. Ice is necessary where fever rages

TWO TRAINS COLLIDE.

Engines Add to the Horror by Exploding.

ESCAPES FROM THE WINDOW.

The Cars Caught Fire and Many Reduced to Ashes—Many Killed and Injured—William J. Bryan In the Wreck—Near Emporia, Kansas.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 9.—A special from Emporia, Kan., says:

One of the worst wrecks in the history of the Santa Fe railroad occurred three miles east of here. Twelve or 15 persons were killed and as many more were badly hurt.

The fast mail train going east and the Mexico and California express westbound collided head on

The Mexico and California express was pulled by two locomotives, and when they struck the engine drawing the fast mail the boilers of all three engines exploded and tore a hole in the ground so deep that the smoking car of the westbound train went in on top of the three engines and two mail cars, and balanced there without turning over

The passengers in the smoking car escaped through the windows.

The front end of the car was enveloped in a volume of stifling smoke and steam, rushing up from the wreck below and the car door was jammed tight in the wreck of the car behind.

The wreck caught fire from the engines and the cars in the hole and the smoking car were quickly burned to ashes

In climbing out of the smoking car several men fell through the rifts in the wreck below, and it is impossible to tell whether they escaped or were burned to death

The westbound train carried eight coaches and its passengers included many excursionists who had been to hear Hon W. J. Bryan speaking at the county fair at Burlingame.

Mr Bryan himself was on the train, but was riding in the rear Pullman He states that nothing but a heavy jolt was experienced by the passengers in his coach

Mr Bryan was one of the most energetic men in the crowd of rescuers He helped to carry out the dead and wounded and gave the greatest attention to their case One poor fellow who was badly maimed called to Mr Bryan and said:

"I went to hear you today; I am dying now and want to shake your hand and say God bless you If you possibly can, Mr. Bryan, get me a drink of water"

Mr Bryan went into the fast mail car, one end of which was burning, and came out with the drink of water which he gave to the suffering passenger.

It is feared that all of the seven mail clerks perished in the disaster, but so far only six bodies have been taken from the wreck

The engineer of the westbound train had received orders to meet the fast mail at Emporia and was making up lost time These two are the fastest trains on the Santa Fe system and the westbound train must have been running at a speed of at least 40 miles an hour The westbound express was going around a slight curve when the collision occurred

Of the seven or eight cars making up the Mexico and California express, only the mail, baggage and express and smoking cars were destroyed

The coach following the smoker was badly splintered.

There were not more than a dozen passengers on the fast mail, all in one coach, and while none of them was seriously injured, their shaking up was terrible.

Every seat in the coach was torn from the floor and many floor planks came up with the seats.

One man, John Sweeny, was thrown over three seats and through a window, but escaped with only scratches and bruises

PASSAIC, N. J., Sept. 9.—Thomas Mahone, 30 years of age, was killed on the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad near the station here. He was a brakeman and while stepping between two cars to drop the coupling pin he stumbled and fell across the track. His home was at Phillipsburg, N. J.

F. de Latour Booth-Tucker in July returned to the east from a tour in the southwest, where he had gone to look out for a site for what has been called the "Poor Man's Paradise." His idea was to create an agricultural colony for the benefit of the poor. Commander Booth-Tucker hoped to interest eastern capitalists in his scheme to the extent of $500,000. He did not expect them to give money out of pure philanthropy, but on a 5 per cent interest basis. With officers of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad he traveled extensively in Arizona, Colorado, New Mexico and Wyoming. The proposed colony was to be recruited from New York, Chicago and other cities.

JAPAN WILL ARBITRATE

Her Differences Over Hawaii King of the Belgians Named.

WASHINGTON, Sept 8 The full text of the formal acceptance by the Japanese government of the proposal to arbitrate its differences with Hawaii has been received in this city and a copy was delivered to Secretary Sherman by the secretary of the Japanese legation, Mr Matsui. It is from Count Okuma, minister of foreign affairs, to H. Shimamura, Japanese minister to Hawaii. After acknowledging the receipt of Hawaii's offer of arbitration it says:

The imperial government is firmly convinced that their complaints in this matter are well founded and that their demands are just and reasonable Nevertheless, in a spirit of conciliation and in the hope that their action may contribute to the good relations of the two countries, they have resolved to accept, subject to certain necessary limitations and qualifications, the proposal of the government of Hawaii.

The Japanese government proposes that the king of the Belgians shall be sole arbitrator, that the essential facts of the case shall be agreed to by the two governments before submission to the arbitrator, that the arbitrator shall address his decision to the points of divergence as defined in advance, and that the Japanese government does not consent to the rejection of laborers unless they prove ownership of $50 each, nor the applicability of the treaty of 1871 to Japanese subjects other than those of the merchant class A detailed explanation of why the Japanese government wishes to restrict the scope of the arbitration is set forth in instructions to the minister

Jones of Brooklyn, were walking the tracks of the Freehold and Atlantic Highlands railroad toward Lorillard's brick works, below Keyport Mrs Jones was carrying a baby in her arms They were on a trestle work over a gully, when they saw a train approaching.

The two women stood for a moment, almost paralyzed with fear, glancing first at the approaching train and then down at the bottom of the ravine, 20 feet below The trestle was a narrow one, having only one track There was no room for a person to stand at the side of the track and allow a train to pass

Mrs. Jones's first thought was for the safety of her child, and leaning over the side of the trestle she dropped the little one upon the soft dirt beneath Then both the women jumped The train rushed on above them while they picked themselves up from the soft ground where they struck.

Mrs Jones and her child were uninjured beyond a few bruises, but Miss Bailey sustained a broken arm
