One of the prettiest weddings that Auburn has seen in some time was that solemnized at St. Mary's church on Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, when Miss Jennie Duckett of this city and John J. Carroll of Waterloo were united in matrimony. The event had been eagerly anticipated, and when the hour for the ceremony arrived the church was filled with friends of the happy young couple. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. J. Gibbons, assistant pastor at St. Mary's. The church was handsomely decorated in honor of the event, and evidences of the popularity of the charming young bride were to be seen on every side. Miss Helen Barry was bridesmaid and Thomas McKoon of Waterloo performed the office of best man. After the ceremony a reception was held at the bride's home in Chapel street, where the newly married couple received the best wishes of their many friends. After a tour in the east Mr. and Mrs. Carroll will reside in Waterloo, where the groom conducts a cigar manufactory.

For over a month workmen have been drilling for natural gas on the old Peacock farm just north of the city limits on State street. On Tuesday, after reaching a depth of 1,500 feet, which had required 30 days of incessant drilling day and night, a small flow of gas was encountered. A pipe was attached and carried to the boiler that furnishes power to work the mooster drill, but the flow was not strong enough to keep sufficient steam generated, and of course coal has to assist the work. There is a good deal of speculation indulged in as to the final outcome of the effort, many stating that the spasmodic flow that has already been struck is no indication of a vein of higher pressure, while many who have studied the formation of the soils being taken from the depths of the earth under the big derrick assert that gas in paying quantity surely lies down a few hundred feet more. Auburnians are anxious to await the outcome of the venture, as undoubtedly the power fuel will result from a successful strike, providing our heartless Auburn coal combine does not buy out the whole concern. Will they do it, or will the capitalists ask too high a price? The JOURNAL correspondent was on the ground the day the gas was struck, and he noticed one of our leading coal merchants taking an elaborate survey of the conditions.

Dansville

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Steinhart and Mr. Frank Town of Corning, as announced last week, occurred on Tuesday evening at 6.30 at St. Mary's parsonage, Rev. The bride was becomingly gowned in gray broadcloth with sables trimming, and carried cream roses. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home on William street. The rooms were tastefully decorated with chrysanthemums and ferns. Besides the relatives were present Miss Teasdale, Miss Margaret Maloney, Miss Mary Heck and Mr. William Schwing. The numerous dainty and beautiful gifts given evidence of the high esteem in which the young people are held. The supper, under the supervision of Mrs. Verdieu, was a feature of the pleasant affair, and enjoyed by all present. During the evening Miss Mabel Gardner charmed the company with her voice. She was accompanied on the piano by her sister, Miss Mildred. Mr. and Mrs. Town took the 9.34 train east, and after a brief wedding trip will make their home in Corning. AMUSEMENTS.

COOK'S

An arrangement has been made with Hoyt & McKee and Mose Reis whereby Hoyt's frisky and best comedy, "A Black Sheep" is to appear at the Cook Opera House for three nights and two matinees, beginning next Thursday, Nov. 4th. It is needless to go into detail regarding this sterling attraction, as "A Black Sheep" has been universally pronounced by both press and public to be the best of all farce comedies.

There are few producers of plays bearing a more enviable reputation than Lewis Morrison, and his latest production of the new romantic melodrama, "The Privateer," which will be seen for the first time in this city at the Cook Opera House the first half of the coming week with Monday and Wednesday matinees can be looked forward to with pleasure by the theatre-loving public.

The election returns will be read from the stage Tuesday evening Nov. 2nd.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

In "The Real Widow Brown," which will be given the first three nights of next week, the situations and climaxes are intensely funny, and the combined effort of a clever company to create a huge amount of laughter has met with success. Interspersed throughout the play are the very latest musical, singing and dancing specialties and medleys.

Col. Prentiss Ingraham has built a most interesting play in "Montezumas of Mexico," and E. J. Hasnan's big company will present it at the Academy Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

WONDERLAND THEATRE.

For the week commencing commencing next Monday, Nov. 1st, Manager Moore will present the old favorite Lumier's Cinematographe, showing ten new pictures, together with a big New York company of vaudeville artists, headed by Mr. Edward Hayes and Miss Emily Lyton, in their artistic travesty on Ingomar, the Barbarian. These two talented artists were formerly leading lads and gentlemen for a number of years, and are two more of the shining lights of the "legitimate" who have joined the ranks of vaudeville.

The following artists of reputation will also appear all week: The Darktown gymnasts, Norwood Bros., triple horizontal bar experts, Harry Edgely, the musical novelist, and his wonderful musical pug dog, Doc; Harrigan, the tramp juggler; the California dancing duo, O'Rourke and Burnette, and Hill and Whittaker, refined sketch artists. Ladies and children should attend the matinees, thereby avoiding the immense crowds in the evening.

NOAH'S ARK.

It was the wise Solomon who said there was nothing new under the sun, and until the advent into our midst of the Noah's Ark trained wild animal show, now located on West avenue and Ford street, the stand old theory had many believers among the amusement lovers, who had been so exacting of the purveyors of amusement here, that no truth, no matter how mighty it was claimed in advance, would be accepted till after the attraction had come of itself and passed criticism. The performance consists of a series of acts given with wild animals, of which the daring entrance into the cage containing the wild lioness, "Sultana Wallace," by Senor De Kenzo is a crowning feature. Madame Pauline De Vere introduces a beautiful trio of lions in a most interesting series of evolution. De Kenzo gives another exhibition showing his wonderful supremacy over the lion kingdom by giving a performance with a group of the most magnificent lions ever seen in captivity. The wrestling lion, Prince, in his encounter with his keeper a la Muldoon proved another surprising feature and well deserves mention. Performing wolves, bears, lions and bear-hounds are introduced by Miss De Vere show remarkable results in animal training. The acme of elevations is reserved, however, until the giant cinnamon bear Frank, is introduced by DeKenzo, and made to do things that are almost unbelievable, from carrying a chair to washing clothes. The monkey paradise, baby lions, etc., furnish other delightful entertainment for the visitor to the show. We are free to admit that Noah's Ark is an innovation over anything in the amusement line that ever visited our city.

No Room for Doubt.

Proof, yes overwhelming proof can be furnished of the excellent curative qualities of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup. "I caught a cold which led to a cough and pain in the chest, (pneumonia?) I bought Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, and after taking one bottle of it, the cough began to disappear; when I finished taking the second bottle I was cured. Gustav Thurmstar, 49 Hickory St., Cleveland, O." Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup costs but 25 cents. Take only Bull's.

A MIRACULOUS IMAGE.

An Indian Legend About the Origin of a Statue.

Many are the eyes that are turned daily to the picturesque statue that stands hundreds of feet above the busy village of Georgetown, Incased, as it were, in a chiseled vault, and placed there in a most mysterious manner. With a silent vigil it looks down upon the busy populace a sentinel of noiseless guardianship. Yet how few of the many who look upon the fair picture know of the legend connected therewith and the sorrowful tale of bygone times that is interwoven by Indian history with it. It was related to a pioneer of Georgetown thirty odd years ago by an old Indian with whom he camped in Middle Park. The Indian's story, as near as the frontiersman, who still lives here, could remember it, is as follows:

There were gathered in the valley where Georgetown now stands, in the early part of the century, a great meeting of the numerous tribes of Indians of the plains and mountains that had been at war as far back as the oldest chiefs could remember. A general desire for peace had been shown by the various tribes, and the council was for that purpose.

The plains Indians had elected a powerful chief of the Cheyennes named Cor-nu-co-ya, while the mountain tribes had for a leader Tse-now, noted far and wide for his excellent qualities in settling difficulties. Tse-now had brought a beautiful daughter with him, whose name was Tahn-ki. She was the pride of all the mountain tribes, and was known far and wide for her wonderful beauty. For six years the party lasted and broke up in a row. A battle was fought and won by Cor-nu-co-ya, during which Tse-now was killed and the beautiful maiden captured.

After the battle, the maiden, refusing to become a slave to her captor, was sentenced to be burned at the stake. This sentence was duly carried out. They not only burned her until life was extinct, but until every vestige of her body was consumed, and as the last small cloud of ascending smoke left the spot of suffering there was a terrible convulsion of nature. The mountains of what is now Republican Mountain was hurled into the valley, burying every plain warrior beneath the mountainous rock nestled in the heart of the town, and now known as "Chimney Rock, or Bunker Hill." The captive mountain prisoners, who witnessed the cataclysm from a distant point, cast their eyes to the mountain that had hurled destruction upon their enemies, and in the face of the broken cliff saw the beautiful maiden looking down upon them, and
