It is with deep sorrow that we chronicle the death of John Deane, which occurred at his home, Barnard's Crossing, Friday evening, Dec. 31st. The deceased was a young man of high moral character, with bright prospects, and was highly esteemed by his many associates. But it was only the more intimate friends of the family—those who knew the dead boy from his childhood that were enabled to mark the development of his many admirable characteristics. Of those whose own hearts have been smitten by a similar affliction can form anything like an adequate conception of the parental love and hopes that were buried in his grave. His funeral took place Monday morning from Holy Cross church, where a requiem high mass was offered up. He leaves a mother and brother to mourn his loss. May his soul rest in peace.
