A LIE NAILED

The Democrat and Chronicle of this city has always been known as a bigoted paper—in fact it has published more slanderous lies about the Catholics than all the rest of the papers of this city put together. In an article published last Tuesday it was charged that the explosion of the powder mill at Santa Cruz, Cal., was caused by two inmates of a near-by monastery controlled by Spanish monks. Rev. T. A. Hendrick, pastor of St. Bridget's church, took exception to the editorial and wrote a reply which was published, but in such a place that we doubt if the editor himself could find it without first putting on his glasses.

The reply of Rev. Father Hendrick fully refutes the slander, and we publish it entire.

Sir: In the editorial columns of your journal yesterday morning a reference was made under the caption "The Work of Spanish Agents," to a recent dispatch, saying that the powder mill explosion at Santa Cruz, Cal., was caused by "two inmates of a near-by monastery controlled by Spanish monks." If the dispatch stated a fact I would go farther than your comment and say that whoever was guilty should be punished to the extreme limit of the law, but I have no hesitation in saying that the statement is without foundation for two reasons:

First, there is no "monastery controlled by Spanish monks" at Santa Cruz or in its neighborhood. There are two priests there, and two only. Rev. Hugh McNamee and Rev. Peter O'Reilly.
In the second place there is no monastery of any kind in Santa Cruz county. The nearest approach to one is an orphan asylum at Watsonville, about twenty miles away, where there are two German Franciscans, Rev. Seraphin Lampe and Rev. Herman Ritz.
There is no monastery controlled by Spanish monks in any part of California, according to the official Catholic directory. T. A. HENDRICK.

BRAVE BOYS.

Last Sunday the people of the city of Rochester turned out en masse to bid God speed to the gallant boys of the Eighth and First Separate companies who volunteered to defend the country at the call of President McKinley. The streets in the vicinity of the armory and all along the line of march were crowded by men, women and children, and the red, white and blue was to be seen everywhere. Many a mother, wife and sister took a last farewell at the station and some pathetic scenes were observed. Among the numerous companies that escorted the boys to the station were the Knights of St. John, under command of Col. Henry N. Schlick, and Company A, Hibernian Rifles, Capt. M. Quinnivan commanding. It was a fitting send off for the men who may be called upon to sacrifice their lives for the upholding of the dignity and power of the government. Of such men our nation is proud.

It is said that it was an Irishman who fired the first shot of the war between Spain and the United States. The Irishmen are always in the front rank when valor is needed.

Have you made your Easter duty?

FIRST VICTORY.

The first battle of the war has been fought and won, our fleet coming out victorious. Commodore Dewey, by a gallant dash through Manila Bay which was supposed to be heavily mined, and with the guns of Cavite and Manila forts staring him in the face, forced the Spanish fleet to a battle that has been pronounced by European nations as one of the fiercest that has ever been fought with modern war ships. Three Spanish vessels were destroyed and their other ships were forced to retire from the contest, while some were sunk to prevent their falling into the hands of the United States fleet.

It is announced, although not officially, that war has put an end to the plan to have a great pilgrimage of Irish-Americans to their native land in July next to celebrate the 100th anniversary of 1798. The men who have been conducting the arrangements have concluded that the plan must be abandoned.

They say that the Irishmen of this country are so anxious to stay here and fight for their adopted land that they would not even be tempted to depart for a visit to the Emerald Isle.

Months ago the plan was conceived to charter several steamers and take over Irishmen and their families as a tribute to the memory of the heroes who fell in the great struggle for freedom 100 years ago. Such men as Recorder Goff, W. Bourke Cockran, Judge James A. O'Gorman, General O'Beirne and Edward O'Flaherty took hold of the arrangements.

Hon. John J. Finerty of Chicago says that the Clan-na-Gael has already raised six companies of volunteers, 500 men in all, and that enlistment was still going on enthusiastically. Within two weeks the entire regiment will be ready for service and Capt. William Quinton, U. S. A., in charge of the recruiting office at Boston, has been asked if he would become colonel of the regiment.

President Simon Sam, of the Haytian republic, and President Ulysses Henereaux of the republic of San Domingo, agreed at their recent conference at Jacmel to submit to the Pope the entire boundary dispute between the two countries.

The Papal Nuncio, who was present, accepted in behalf of the Pope the task of arbitrating the questions at issue. Hayti is willing to pay an indemnity in order to gain the desired boundary and San Domingo acquiesces on this basis.

Cardinal Rampolla, Papal Secretary of State, has declared that the Pope has resolved to maintain a position of absolute neutrality during the war, and to permit no prayers except for peace. This contradicts the bogus cable dispatches that have appeared in the daily papers of the country that the Pope had blessed and prayed for the success of the Spanish army.

Miss Ada Johnston of Ballykilbeg, the daughter of Mr. William Johnston, M. P. for Belfast South, a noted Orangeman, was received into the church by Rev. J. F. McCauley, C. C., in St. Patrick's Memorial church, Downpatrick, on a recent Sunday. Miss Johnston has been attending Catholic services for some time past, and her conversion was not unexpected, but it has caused something of a sensation among Mr. Johnston's Orange friends.

At a meeting held in Fanuell hall, Boston, recently, a large and enthusiastic body of men of Irish birth and lineage gathered to testify to their loyalty to the Stars and Stripes, and to take preliminary steps toward forming the John Boyle O'Reilly battalion, which is to be the nucleus of an Irish brigade.

The entertainment given by the Reading circles of the city at Fitzhugh hall was a complete success. Credit is due Rev. J. P. Kiernan for the indefatigable manner in which he labored to make the affair profitable, as well as the committee in charge.

Spain's power is on the wane.

We acknowledge the receipt of an invitation to attend the celebration of the Episcopal Jubilee of the Archbishop of New York at the Metropolitan Opera House on Thursday May 5th. We desire to offer our congratulations to His Grace on the celebration of his twenty-fifth anniversary and to unite with the people of the Rochester diocese in wishing that Archbishop Corrigan may be spared to celebrate many other anniversaries.

NEW PUBLICATIONS

Benziger Brothers, New York, have now ready several new books among which are the following:

Novenas have always been a favorite mode of prayer but though many have appeared, from time to time, there has been no attempt, until now, to collect the best into one volume. "Our Favorite Novenas," is the only complete book of its kind published. It contains novenas for almost every possible occasion and applicable to every devotion. While the last part contains the most necessary prayers for the use of the faithful, with devotions for mass, confession, communion, etc., and the Vespers for Sundays. Price 60 cts.

"The Mission Book of the Redemptorist Fathers." The chief end of this book is to keep alive in individuals and families the remembrances and fruits of the Mission. It condenses all that has been preached during the Mission, and at the same time contains the prayers useful for the reception of the sacraments and for the daily Christian life. It also contains many devotions recommended by St. Alphonsus, and many prayers and devout exercises to which the church has attached partial and plenary indulgences. The price is from 50 cts to $2.50.

As a popular life of the Blessed Virgin we know of nothing that can compare with the work of the learned Benedictine, Father Rohner. It is a book which appeals especially to the devotion of the faithful, and is remarkable for its religious fervor and tenderness. It has been admirably translated and made to conform to the ideas of our English-speaking Catholics by the late Rev. Dr. Richard Brennan. The publishers have done all in their power to make it attractive: they have beautified it by a number of fine half-tone full-page illustrations from original drawings made specially for this work; printed it on good paper, and bound it in a tasteful style. The price is $1.25.

"The Little Child of Mary" is a prayer-book made especially for children and contains instructions and prayers adapted to preserve the fruits of first communion. It is just such a little book as a father or mother would choose to put in the hands of a little one. The prayers are beautiful and simple, and have been carefully selected for their purpose. It needs only to be known to meet with a very large circulation. Cloth 35 cts.

It was a happy thought of Father Girardey's to prepare two books, "Mission Book for the Married," and "Mission Book for the Single." The Mission books, as a rule, are made so as to answer for all, young and old, married and single. But as there are special instructions for children during a Mission, and others for young men and for young women, for married men and for married women. Father Girardey thought it well to prepare separate Mission books specially adapted to certain classes of people. Both books contain the choicest prayers as well as the most complete instructions yet offered to the faithful. The typography and the binding are excellent, and the books will undoubtedly prove great favorites among those for whom they have been prepared. Price in cloth 50 cts.

Cobbett's "History of the Protestant Reformation" in England and Ireland. That Reformation, he says, "was engendered in lust, brought forth in hypocrisy and peridy, and cherished and fed by plunder, devastation, and by rivers of innocent English and Irish blood"—is so well known as scarcely to need an introduction. The chief value of the book would seem to lie not in the actual accuracy of this or that fact, but in the general impression made upon the mind of the reader. The author's vigorous and graphic style presents a real picture of the results so far as the people of England as a whole are concerned, of the revolution social as well as religious which is known as Protestant Reformation. The supposed purification of doctrine and practice was brought about only at the cost of, as it were, driving a wedge well into the heart of the nation, which at once and for all divided the rich from the poor, and established the distinction which still exists between the classes and the masses. The present popular edition of this valuable book has been revised, enriched with notes, and has a preface by the distinguished Benedictine scholar, Very Rev. Francis A. Gasquet. It is printed from entirely new plates, is in large clear type, and is published at the remarkably low price of 50 cents net in cloth binding, or 25 cents net in paper.

THE GOSPELS

GOSPEL: St. John, xvi.—5-14. At that time, Jesus said to His disciples: "I go to Him that sent Me, and none of you asketh Me: Whither goest Thou? But because I have spoken these things to you sorrow hath filled your heart. But I tell you the truth: it is expedient to you that I go, for if I go not the Paraclete will not come to you; but if I go I will send Him to you. And when He is come, He will convince the world of sin, and of justice, and of judgment. Of sin: because they believed not in Me. And of justice because I go to the Father, and you shall see Me no longer. And of judgment: because the prince of this world is already judged. I have yet many things to say to you: but you cannot bear them now. But when He, the Spirit of truth, is come, He will teach you all truth; for He shall not speak of Himself, but what things soever He shall hear He shall speak, and the things that are to come He shall show you. He shall glorify Me, because He shall receive of Mine, and shall show it to you."

He who always thinks of God, as he is strictly bound to do, whose affections are well regulated, loving, desiring what is good, fearing and avoiding what is evil, he who does good and not evil, he is, strictly speaking, a just man.

THE BISHOP'S PICTURE

Every Catholic Family in the Diocese Should Have One

As this year marks the fiftieth anniversary of the ordination of Rt. Rev. Bishop McQuaid as a priest and his thirtieth as a bishop, every Catholic family in the diocese should be in possession of our beautiful large photograph (not lithograph), 11 x 14 inches of the Rt. Rev. Bishop. The picture will be given to every subscriber of THE CATHOLIC JOURNAL, who, until further notice pays a full year's subscription for 1898 in advance, and send us fifty cents extra to cover part of the cost of framing. The photograph is a reproduction of the picture of the Bishop which hangs in St. Bernard's Seminary and is certainly a work of art. It was made by Mr. E. E. Nier, the celebrated artist of Powers Block. The photograph will be handsomely framed with an elegant gold bordered white frame, glass and back. Those who have received the premium are more than satisfied, and say that they do not see how we can give so much for so little money. Now is the time to send in your orders.

Removal.

After May 1st the office of the passenger department of the Nickel Plate road at Buffalo will be located at 291 Main street, Ellicott Square Building. The move from Exchange street, where it has been located for the past fifteen years, is in line with the many other recent improvements of the road and its service. The Ellicott Square is already known as being one of the largest and finest office buildings in the world, and the Nickel Plate Road's office will be fitted up to correspond with the building and the progressive spirit of the road.

THE KRUPP WORKS.

FAMOUS FACTORY AT ESSEN THAT MAKES MONSTER GUNS.

A City Full of Employees—How This Enormous Body of Men is Controlled—A Railway System Employed for the Exclusive Use of the Foundry.

The city of Essen, Germany, is located in the center of a hilly valley, which abounds in coal and iron ore, and the digging for both and the melting of the ore and casting the metal into ingots and rolling it into bars have been the occupations of the inhabitants for centuries past. Friedrich Krupp, the founder of the great works bearing his name, was born in 1787, and when crucible cast steel was first being introduced in England and its importation from there into Germany had been impossible through the edict of Napoleon, called "the continental-sperre," F. Krupp began to produce crucible cast steel, first in small quantities for files, stamps, rolls for coils and shears, but only slowly could he convince and persuade German manufacturers to use his cast steel, and after a life full of disappointments and hardships he died in 1826, after a long and severe illness, leaving to his son Alfred little else than the old homestead, which still stands in the midst of the great works, and the secret of his invention.

Alfred Krupp's energy and enterprise soon conquered. His first success was to be able to furnish cast steel of a varying degree of hardness, thereby increasing its adaptability for many new purposes. Next came the invention of the weldless car-wheel tires, which were patented in 1853 in all countries and furnished him capital for enlarging his plant. In 1865 he interested himself in coal mines, iron ore mines and furnaces, which should furnish the material for his iron works, and in 1867 he began to reap the harvest from his experiments inaugurated long since with steel cannons, and the great Franco-German war of 1870-71 proved beyond doubt their superiority against the old bronze cannons. Since then the success of these works and their growth have been phenomenal, and when Alfred Krupp closed the busy and successful and philanthropic work of his life, in 1887, at Villa Hugel, his princely home on the side hills of the valley of the Ruhr, the city of Essen, in recognition of his great work, erected in his memory a beautiful monument on the most prominent square of the city, and deputations from many nations mourned at his grave.

Essen is a city of 98,000 inhabitants, and over 20,000 of this population are employed in the works of the able and energetic son of Alfred Krupp—Friedrich Alfred. Over 1,200 acres of ground are covered with buildings and machinery. Many coal mines furnish fuel for the works, over 400 iron ore mines furnish the metal, and large iron ore deposits in Spain, near Bilbao, have been purchased in addition, and a special fleet of steamers has been built which bring over 300,000 tons of this Spanish iron ore from Spain to the German coast and up the Rhine. Twenty furnaces at Duisburg and Henrich-on-the-Rhine are reducing the ore for the Krupp works and are owned or controlled by them.

The main street of Essen divides the Krupp works into two parts, connected overhead with innumerable mammoth steam pipes and bridges, and parallel with it, running east and west, the tracks of the Rhensian Railway pass the works in the north, while in the south the railroad leading from Dusseldorf to Bremen, Hamburg and Berlin skirts the mill. Innumerable tracks connect these two main lines of railroad, surrounding in an intricate network the buildings and crossing the street leading to Muelheim, below its level. Powerful locomotives bring train loads of raw material into the yards and leave the works with valuable products, finished and ready for shipment to all parts of the globe. Miniature engines and cars move about between the buildings on the narrow-gauge tracks, bringing material of smaller size from one building to another until it is finished and ready for the market.

He "Matched" Between the Lines. The late John T. Raymond carried his love of matching dollars so far that he once actually made a bet while performing his roll in a theatre here in Washington, remarked Mr. William St. John, the well-known New Yorker.

"I happened to have a seat in the front row that night, and as soon as Raymond came on he spied me and nodded. That very afternoon he and I had been matching, and he came out second best. He hadn't been speaking a great while, when, half turning to me and pulling out a silver dollar to my utter amazement, he said very distinctly:

"Heads or tails, Saint?" I caught on, and though I thought everybody in the house must be looking, put my finger to my head. "All right, you win," said Raymond, and immediately proceeded with his lines. It certainly was a funny thing, but the audience appeared to think it was regular, though perhaps some were puzzled at its irrelevancy. Raymond himself thought it the best joke of the season, and after adjournment of the audience another matching engagement followed."
