Sister Mary Catherine of the convent in Banagher, King's county, died recently in her 85th year, and the fifteenth of her religious life, deeply and widely regretted. She was a daughter of late Mr. J. Connolly, Kilmey, and sister to Rev. J. Connolly, C. C., Killanana.

On Sunday a most enjoyable entertainment, organized by the Tuam Gaelic boat club, was held on the lake, consisting of rowing, visits to the beautiful islands and other places of interest and landing on Island Mc-Hugo, where a dance was held, the island being specially boarded and decorated. Older members, or those who felt too warm to dance, sought cool and shady nooks beneath the spreading trees, which afforded comfortable retreats; there, games and pastimes requiring less exertion were carried on. A most delightful evening was spent, during which the mirthful sounds of song and laughter, mingled with the sweet strains of the band, which waited across the bright, clear waters of the lake.
