ST. MARY'S

Father Kiernan extends a cordial invitation to all members of the parish to visit the parochial school Sunday afternoon. The building has been entirely renovated. New ideas in conjunction with hard work by the zealous pastor has given this parish a school of which they have cause to feel proud. The school will begin Monday with an attendance of 500 children. And right here we wish to make a few remarks to fathers and mothers who are thinking of the best means to give their children a religious as well as a worldly education. No public schools or secular academies can compare to our parochial schools which are scattered so numerous throughout the diocese of Rochester. Young Catholic men now holding responsible positions in our city to-day are examples of what our parochial schools are capable of doing as regards a worldly education. Their education which fits them to take a position in the commercial world is not neglected, and coupled with the religious instruction which they receive tends to make them a credit to their faith and good self-supporting and respected citizens of the community at large. It is to be regretted that there are still some of our people who raise that old cry about public schools being best adapted for their children; and to all such people we say, simply look at the percentages attained by our young Catholic gentlemen and ladies who have been reared and educated in our Catholic schools and colleges. We trust there are no such fathers or mothers in St. Mary's parish. If there are, let them consider well before sending their children to public schools where their spiritual and religious education is entirely neglected. The school will be under the guidance of Father Kiernan, ably assisted by the competent Sisters of Mercy.

AMUSEMENTS.

COOK'S.

Just a peep into Manager J. H. Moore's cozy new theatre, Cook Opera House, is enough to convince any one that refined high class vaudeville is what the average amusement seeker wants. For the coming week a splendid bill is offered and will surely reap the harvest it so richly deserves. Miss Moreland has a lively one-act play called "A Game of Golf," which has been a big hit in the east. The Casino Comedy Four, a quartette of funny makers and singers; Clarice, an English artist; Rosalie, a nimble wire balancer; Franciscus Sisters, character comedienne; Prof. Delmain Wood, a musical genius, and a lot of new war pictures on the Biograph, are some of the good things in store for the Cook Opera House patrons. Two shows are given daily, starting at 2 every afternoon and at 7.30 every night. Prices are always the same at this theatre, 10, 15 and 20c. A bicycle room is attached for the free use of the patrons.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

The attraction for the first half of next week at the Academy of Music will be "Hugobert." The scene is laid in the Transylvanian and abounds in thrilling incidents. It is well worth seeing.

For the latter half of the week Donnelly's modern Russian drama, "Darkst Russia," a play of strong climaxes, will be given with an excellent supporting company.

Experiments in England have proved that fine coal is an excellent material for sewage filtration.

The goldfish is a great coward, and a tiny fish with the courage to attack it can frighten it almost to death.

True Nobility.

There is no doubt of the essential nobility of that man who pours into life the honest vigor of his toll over those who compose the feather foam of fashion, who consider the insignia of honor to consist in wealth and indolence, and who, ignoring the family history, paint coats-of-arms to cover up the leather aprons of their grandfathers.

He Must Be a Wheelman.

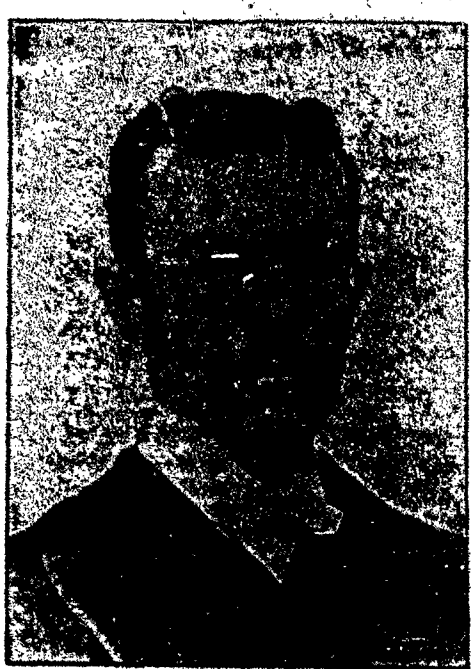

A Maryland judge has decided that a man cannot be fined for riding a bicycle on a sidewalk if the roadway is impassable, although in violation of a town ordinance. He holds that people have the right of passage on a highway and that they are even justified in trespassing on private property if they can do no better.

Our Soldiers Praised.

Some interesting impressions and criticisms of the American soldier have appeared from the pens of English war correspondents with the Army of Invasion. Correspondent of the London Times says: "For fighting purposes, then, the United States private has nothing to keep clean except his rifle and bayonet. He carries no contrivances for polishing buttons, boots or the dozens of bits of accoutrement deemed essential to a good soldier in Europe. In Spain, for instance, the private though he may have nothing in his haversack, will nevertheless, carry a clumsy outfit of tools for making his uniform look imposing." As to discipline, the correspondent writes: "The firing discipline during the three times we have been under fire, has been excellent; the obedience of soldiers to their officers has been as prompt and intelligent as anything I have seen in Europe and as to coolness under fire and accuracy of aim, what I have seen is most satisfactory. The men evidently regard their officers as soldiers of equal courage and superior technical knowledge. To the Yankee private 'West Pointer' means what to the soldier of Prussia is conveyed by noble rank. In my intimate intercourse with officers and men aboard this ship I cannot recall an instance of an officer addressing a private otherwise than as usual when a gentleman issues an order. I have never heard an officer or non-commissioned officer curse a man. During the engagement of Cabanas orders were issued as quietly as at any other time and the men went about their work as steadily as blue jackets on a man-o-war.

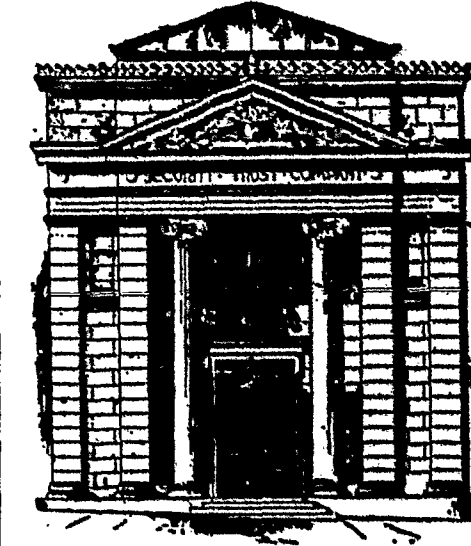

"There are numberless points of resemblance between Tommy Atkins and the Yankee private, and the Sandhurst man has no difficulty in understanding the West Pointer. But to do this we must go a little beneath the surface and see things, not on the parade ground, but in actual war. "For dress occasion the American uniform is far and away the ugliest and most useless of all the uniforms I know. The helmets and cocked hats are of the pattern affected by theatrical managers, the decorations tawdry, the sword bands, the whole appearance indicative of a taste unimpaired and artistic. The parade uniform has been designed by a lot of unsoldierly politicians and tailors about Washington. Their notion of military glory is confused with memories of St. Patrick's day processions and Masonic installations. They have made the patient United States Army a victim of their vulgar designs, and to-day at every European army maneuver one can pick out the American military attaché by merely pointing to the most unsoldierly uniform in the field. On the battlefield, however, there are no political tailors, and the Washington dress regulations are ruthlessly disregarded."

Canned Salmon for Army Rations. The President has authorized canned salmon to be added as one of the meat components of the army ration. Ordinarily fresh beef will be issued to the troops six days in ten, salt meats three days in ten and canned salmon one day in ten. Commanding officers are authorized, however, to vary these proportions of the ration according to the necessities of the service in which the troops may be engaged.
