Considerable alarm was felt in the Clonfert district at the steady moving of the vast stretch of bog between the Grand Canal cutting and the Shannon The great bog had moved only thirty feet up to Dec. 15, gravitating toward the Shannon. Owing to the levels it is not thought the bog will make much further progress toward the river, but should it the course of the Shannon wil be changed. In the same neighborhood but nearer to this, the great Esker Box has risen considerably, and causes apprehension, as it stands at the head o a great inclined plane, separating i from the river.

Candidates for the West Mayo districts under the new Local Government law were selected by the United Irish League; Achill, Mr. Anthony Murphy; Mewport, Mr. John O'Donnell, Balla Mr. Thomas Walsh; Castlebar, Mr. James Daly, Louisburg, Mr. Walter McEvilly, vice-chairman of the Westport Union, and Westport, Mr. John Walsh. The candida es are drawn from the two Nationalist sections. Canon Greally proposed Mr. William O'Brien as a candidate for the councilorship, Dut Mr. O'Brien declined to stand.

ROSCOMMON.

The obsequies of the late Very Rev. Canon Nangle, P. P., Croghan, were celebrated at parish church, Dec. 20, in the presence of Most. Rev. Dr. Clancy, and 42 priests from the dioceses of Elshin and Ardagh. The church was crowded with an immense congregation people flocking from far and near to may the last tribute of respect to their late pastor. Canon Nangle was close om 50 years a priest, having been ordained in 1849, in Maynooth. He was born in 1820, and was always in vigorous health until a short time ago. A pleasing feature at the obsequies was the presence of many Protestant gentry, headed by the rector, the Rev. Canon Courtney. Canon Nangle was selected for the sacred ministry by pastor of Riverstown, the late Dr. Feeney. Canon Nangle was administrator in Sligo for years, under the Most Rev. Dr. Gillooly, before he was appointed parish priest of Croghan. His excellent qualities were summed up by the Most Rev. Dr. Clancy, who described him as a most sterling priest, a true friend, and a patriot Irishman. He came of an old and respected family at Riverstown, County Sligo, that has given r many distinguished members to the Church, including his brother, the late Father Henry Nangle; his cousin, Father William Whyte, P. P., Tarmonis barry, and the late Rev. Eugene Whyte, I. P. P., Janon Nangle's remains were reanoved to the church from the Presbyr tery, where he died.
