Forty Hours Adoration services have been in progress at St. Peter and Paul's church during the week, commencing at 10:30 a.m. last Sunday, and terminating Wednesday morning. The customary delegation of visiting clergymen have been in attendance throughout the adoration.

St. Mary's Hall contained a large audience at St. Patrick's night, to listen to a very able address by Mr. John Murtagh of St. Mary's parish, now a student at Cornell. After Mr. Murtagh's address, the alumni of St. Mary's presented an entertaining farce.

The mission at St. Mary's is now in full blast, and for the first week's services, which have been for the women of the parish, have crowded the spacious edifice to the limit. In fact so large were the crowds that the parish auditorium was used as an annex. The mission will continue next week, when the services will be for men.

The news of Rev. Father Barlow's death in New York last Thursday week, was received in Elmira with deep regret. The reverend gentleman had many warm friends in this city, where he was always a welcome visitor. Nearly all the clergy went to Homestead Tuesday, to attend the funeral.

With sadness we announce the death of Thomas M. Quillan, which occurred at the home of his parents in this village on Friday afternoon, aged 21 years. It seems too bad that one so young as he should be taken away, but he had been an sufferer for a number of years, and death was his only relief. He was highly respected, and loved by all who knew him, and his death, although unexpected, was a great shock to all, as he always had a kind word for every one, and his pleasant face will remain in the memory of his friends for years to come. COOK OPERA HOUSE.

No better bill of varieties has been offered at Cook Opera House this season than is the one announced for the coming week, including as it does some of the best acts in vogue. The chief number is Mrs. Thorne (Lyle Boucault), one of the most charming women on the stage today. She presents a one act playette written by August Thomas, "The Girl of Alabama" and other good plays.

The play is called "A Proper Impromptu" and is at Krelschel's Theatre, New York. It made a double bill so much so that many papers predicted it the best act seen in vaudeville. Mrs. Boucault is well known as the leading lady with Henry Miller's Heavens company and other prominent productions. James Byrne the well known leading man will be her support. Another prominent act is that of Inez Mercurio, the solo vocalist, with Sousa's band for several seasons. Miss Mercurio has a number of beautiful selections, and her songs are both rich and stylish. What is always an extra attraction to the ladies, Hal Merritt a charming monologue entertainer will present his new and novel number "Lunch on Two." A dainty singer and dancer is always pleasing, but when it is done so charmingly as Dorothy D. does, then it is doubly so. Bickel and Watson the German comedians, will furnish a lot of fun. Dunbar and Harris, the comic duo, and the two Kings on the aerial ladders, fill the bill. Matinees are given daily, and it is by far the best time for ladies and children to attend as they avoid the crowding at night.

BAKER OPERA HOUSE.

Beginning Monday March 20th, the Shubert Stock Company will present Diocesan stock company "The Jilt" the entire week with usual matinees.

AT NIGHT.

Why linger to night in the shadow? Has the cross-to-day weighed you down? Have the hands once so gentle and tender Pressed deeper the thorns in your crown? Come, child, like a bird to its nest, For I've promised the heavenly Iden Shall find in my presence sweet rest. Thou knowest thy sorrow own my Jesus. The cross and the weanias—all The cloud that hung over the sunshine, Obscuring its light like a veil— Oh my beautiful suffering saviour, I am nothing but weakness and sin. Yet I knock at Thy Heart's sacred portal And cry "Dear Lord, let me in! Would you open wide the door That the lanes unlocked of you— Child, come nearer, you shall find In my heart a shelter kind. Leave your burden at my feet— Here my yoke is light and sweet. Let my foot sto to be— your pride. Cast your haughty will aside, And the friendship, once your own, That has cold and careless grown— (Hardest cross of all to bear)— Place it calmly in my care. Now I'll bless you, sweet repose— Over all the day should close. You have felt the thorns—now rest In the heart that loves you best.

Used House.

A man and his two sisters were recently made the victim of a thief whose weapons were only roses. They were seated in a railway car traveling through Germany when at one of the stops an elegantly dressed, thickly veiled woman entered the carriage carrying a superb bouquet of roses. When the train started, the stranger dropped her roses. He picked them up for her, and, thinking him charmingly, she asked him to keep one. Then turning to his companions, she graciously offered each of them a few of the flowers. Naturally the courtesy was accepted and the next thing of which the travelers were conscious was that the train had arrived at Berlin; that their veiled companion had disappeared, and that all of their money and valuables had gone with her. Of course, the roses had been drugged.

The police have discovered that the criminal is a young man, but he has conducted a successful robbing business in similar fashion, and must admit that it is the best method of robbery, and if one must be robbed at all, the rose method is preferable to snatching or garroting.

And Made Useful.

It is known that the body of any small animal or bird if left near an ant hill, will be quickly picked clean of flesh. It has lately been demonstrated that ants can thus be made useful in the preparation of skeletons as scientific specimens. Prof. Bernard has been employing the insects as his servants. While in Florida he had a fox skin skeletonized in a single day, and the work was performed most satisfactory that it could have been done by chemical agencies or human hands.

A Great Regret.

"Well, Mrs. Jones," said the Good Lady as she let her eyes run over the Lady to see if she could identify anything. "I understand that your husband attended a revival meeting the other night and was so impressed by the error of his ways that he reformed."

"That's right!" assented the burglar's wife. "We've laid enough by to live on and Jim thought it best to stop!"

"I suppose, of course, that you're very happy over your husband's reformation?"

"No, I can't say that I am! I know 'im goin' to miss havin' him tell me all what the neighbors have in their houses!"

How He Won Her.

"Tom—I'm surprised to hear of Dick's engagement to the wealthy Miss Antiquate. I was under the impression that she was a confirmed man-hater."

"Jack—So she was, but Dick won her through diplomacy."

Tom—How so?

Jack—She asked him to order a bell or bicycle and he told her that she didn't require one, as there was a belle in her wheel every time she rode it. After that he had everything his own way.

Circumstantial Evidence.

"Do you mean to say that my client was not strictly sober on the afternoon of the occurrence?" roared the lawyer for the defense.

"All I know is," answered the frightened witness, "that he put a nickel in a fire alarm box, turned the handle to the right, pulled the hook and called on the department. Then he wanted a make complaint against someone for running a fraudulent gambling device."
