AMUSEMENTS.

COOK OPERA HOUSE.

An excellent programme of the best acts in vaudeville will be offered at Manager J. H. Moore's cozy theatre the coming week. There are so many acts that could be called the star act that it is hard to select the one to be mentioned first. However, Charlie Sweet, the musical tramp burglar, may be accorded the place of prominence owing to his successful engagement of ten weeks at Hammerstein's Olympia, which made him the talk of New York city. Sweet is one of those jolly comedians who turn all their talent to making people laugh, and whether it is doing his trick piano playing or singing a song, he strives to turn it all to a merriment. Another corking act is that of Hayes and Lytton, which they call the "Wise Guy." There is a splendid European act with all the foreign eccentricities, presented by the Deltorelles, two brothers. In the acrobatic line perhaps the three Nudios are as good as any, and their aerial feats are a positive sensation. Then there is Tom Hebron, the one-legged singer and dancing athlete. C. C. C. and Heubert, the coon singer and the southerner, who have a dog that jumps into the finish of the act and gets as much credit as its owners. Clara Arnold, the sweet singer, with a lot of new illustrations to make them more impressive, closes the bill. Four shows are given daily, and as it is a specially attractive bill for ladies, the matinees should be crowded.
