BUFFALO BILL'S ROUGH RIDERS.

Next Thursday will mark the return to Rochester for two performances of Buffalo Bill's Wild West and Congress of Rough Riders which has this season attained a degree of success never before vouchsafed to any outdoor entertainment in the history of amusements. Their recent season of thirty-one performances in New York was marked by a series of audiences that for size broke all records at the immense Madison Square Garden, every performance seeing thousands turned away unable to gain admission.

The inherent merit and the genuine character of the entertainment which is never allowed to fall below the highest standard, is in a great measure responsible for this continued popularity of Messrs. Cody & Salsbury's unique and original entertainment.

But a feature that has increased public interest in the exhibition is the addition to their program of the most realistic battle scene ever offered to a peaceful public. Messrs. Cody & Salsbury have selected as the most timely subject, patriotism instilling and enthusiasm producing page of recent history the charge up San Juan Hill, as the subject of the most popular spectacular item of their interesting program. This is produced with every attention to detail, the hill itself, the blockhouse, trenches trees and barbed-wire fences being built in the arena in exact replica of the one in the suburbs of Santiago. To give a reality to the fight, these enterprising managers have engaged not theatrical "supers" but nearly three hundred actual participants in the fighting around Santiago. These are made up of a number of Roosevelt's Rough Riders, Cuban Insurgents and white and negro ex-regulars and volunteers of the United States Army, and besides presenting a moving tableau of the most thrilling page of recent history, gives to patriotic American people an opportunity to pay due homage to the men who fought and suffered in the trenches of Southern Cuba, and who by their valor sustained the honor of the American soldier and added new lustre to American arms. The size of the wild west arena and the number of actual soldiers employed in giving this representation, place it on a plane far beyond that possible to be given by other amusement managers and imitations must sink into insignificance when compared with this one.

All the old-time features of the Wild West have been retained and improved upon, and the ethnological department of the exhibition gains an added interest by the addition of contingents representing the newest colonial additions to Uncle Sam's empire, for in the arena are seen for the first time in the United States representatives of the Filipinos, Hawaiians and Porto Ricans, giving illustrations of some of the interesting features of their daily life in their island home. The season in our city being so limited, it behooves intending visitors to secure their seats early and be on hand in time for the grand entry which opens the entertainment in the afternoon at 2 o'clock and in the evening at 8 o'clock.

The location of the grounds is easily accessible from all parts, being located at the Rochester Driving Park.
