

▲ NEW ÉNGLAND TALE. By the Author of "Sundries."

CHAPTER VII.

Men are somewhat like crees-not only will they endure transplanting. but they profit by it. Particularly is this the case when the removal takes place before they have grown too old to learn new habits, and to accommodate themselves to new associations and circumstances. Now our hero's escape from his unpropitious surroundings at Hardscrabble took place pre-Acisely at the age when he was best fit to go into training as a pioneer in the wilderness, and inasmuch as he left behind him nothing, the surrender of which he could be supposed very bitterly to regret, he entered upon his new life with a zest unalloyed. He loved "the grand old woods:" his spirit was elevated by the freedom of untrammelled nature, and the outgush ings of his unsophisticated wonder silence by petty individual tyranny, or that worst and most despotic of all fellows. He had trials and hardships, he would now be ready to pay l'ncie it is true; but they were manly ones. and in the true equality of a new setmon consequence with the men who shared the privations and dangers of pioneer life in the woods. Every one on the border counts one, women and children even have their important posts to occupy; and a stalwart young chap like Jonce Smiley, no longer cowed, abashed and spirit-broken, but confident, ingenious, and elastic, had of course a prominent importance in the village of Berrysville, so denominated from our emigrant friend, who was the first individual who, in that vicinity, "stuck an axe in a tree."

Long before Berrysville rejoiced in that title, it boasted the more euphonious one Berry's Squat. Start not at its inelegance, for according to the squat is exceedingly poetical, as regular a tinkle from the rill of Helicon as ever babbled on poet's tongue. Ralph Waldo Emerson says that the first man who dubs a fellow-man by that complimentary title is merely quoting poetry. If Emerson is right, if there is meaning in one simple word, "squat," claim becomes your claim, his former who were here to-day, they perhaps defenders are your defenders, and he might tell you."

totes his plunder off," and "bodyactously absquatulates" himself, to go and squat elsewhere, and create a new claim, for some one else to buy.

Several years' culture had made "Berry's Squat" a beautiful clearing, in the West caused our friend's estate to be regarded as one of the very heat in the Territory. The political managers, moved upon by the fact that many of them were directly interested, no less than by the natural advantages of the place, determined that the country-town should include our friend's and to get them to 'list for life?" squat; but as a preliminary, and before they let this intention be public, the attempt was made to buy out Beron the wrong customer.

In the first place, Berry himself was not one of those who squat "as a profession." and preferring wild adventure and border life to the approach of civilization, are ever ready to sell out when a fair offer is made. He had set up his family altar in the wilderness, and made it blossom about him as the nothing rose. Successive comfort after necessity, convenience after comfort, and luxury after convenience, had been added to the homestead His children had grown up there about him, and already, in his mind's eye, he had portioned them off upon the liberal tract which, after the usage of the could y. were not cramped and terrified into he had appropriated, and for which, thanks to his frugality and industry, and with the proceeds of certain "vilslavery, the crushing contempt of his lage lots" which he proposed to sell, Sam.

And in the next place first indeed in grace resigned his bargain. tlement they elevated him to a com- Berry's thoughts- it would have broken his old wife's heart to part with a home which, at first the scene of privation, inconvenience and sorrow hai now become the home of comfact. peace, and plenty Everything about her had a history and an interest this as the memento of their home in the East, and of their wanderings on the take the offered hand, but declared at could cut as big a swathe with his road, that as the creation of necessity to supply some remembered convenience in her father's house. Every smoked timber of the little cabin seem ed to have a history; every tree seen from the door had its associations, the very moon which shone upon their summer evenings appeared to the little family to be the moon peculiar of transcendental idea of poetry the word from the one which shines on other places.

leisure' And our old friend Jonce at 'be . pening of this story a boy who had no friends, now a stout young woodsman who called another an ass was a poet; who asked no friendship except a fair ry's Squat! He to leave Little Mundy ped musquash, and Big Muddy River. anything in pithiness of language, in which he had forded, on necessity, at appositeness of figure, and in pregnant the very most perilous point of the meaning in one simple word, "squat," spring freshets' He to quit the vicinity as applied to those who sit down unin-of this spot where he shot the great tainly poetry. The word is already the "painter!" He to leave the yellow parent of others, and may be yet of corn to be harvested by others in the Margaret The latter had become sole he said aloud. "A leet le drop of Stough- It is sometimes the case that polite obvious clearings where his own right arm had "squatter," which is rendered "one who levelled the forest trees' He to abdi- con's household, and always once a please." squats," we have "absquatulate," from cate the second home, where the sagacto relinquish a squat, or get out of an- er, till death bade him relinquish all mossible, and perchance as covertly as Smiley surrender what he considered may be. Absquatulate has been a new his absolute property as absolute as coinage as much in favor with default- if the formality of taking out Uncle Sam's patent had already been per-But the tract was declared in market by advertisement; the Land Office was opened, and eastern and other was most certainly a squatter, and speculators had already marked the Berry Squat. Jonathan accompanied his old master and present equal to the sale; and other squatters, both from the vicinity of Berry's Squat, and from all fact that our ancestors, or those under the country for many miles about the whose title we in the east live, did our office "were along." Berry's tract, as squatting for us, a couple of hundred the most eligible, was first pounced years ago, more or less; while the upon, and the strangers, who had in fathers of recent western settlers hav- vain attempted to induce the holder ing neglected to do this good turn for to sell his squat, came prepared to buy and re-sell it over his head. The bargain was all but consummated, poor ting, in the abstract, is only improving Berry having maintained an irresolute silence, while the terms of sale were carried above his reach. The principal agent in the business was just ready to receive his completed papers. He was a young lawyer from the far had a great many expensive amuse-East; and was flush with the then cur. ments. In summer he rode on horserent and undisputed bank notes. He one by one disappeared, all save Berry, who leaned disconsolate against the door as if about to lose his all; and Jonathan Smiley, who paced rapidly by so doing he might arrest the cruel escheat of possessions, by all backwood usage honestly theirs, upon payment to the government of the standard price. The young lawyer, with an indefinite feelin, half fear, half brava-, himself, to hew out a road to the glory. do, was hesitatingly hurrying the govthe common and statute law, but it ernment official. A sudden and terrific way, he did not purpose to do in any supplies the lact of officers of the laws war-hoop rung in his ears, and start- bloodthirsty manner, but by the more ing to the door, he saw there assembled peaceable mode of erecting a company what at first seemed a party of bona' of fair-weather soldiers from among Saw has been fearfully abused; but fide Indians. Even his unpractised, the rough material existing in the town eye was not long in discovering that where his office was situate, and where. its name, it is a fact unquestionable they were amateurs; and their true by a legal fiction, he was supposed to character the absence of the squatters practise law. As he agreed to become who were present in the early part of responsible for the equipments of all menced a very amusing and significant of the Bungtown Jefferson Guards; and whether a man's squat covers a whole, less to interest Jonathan Smiley, than at the very height of his ambition, ora half, or a quarter section. Brother | did the varying expressions of the spec- dering uniform drills once every week, squatters never interfere with the ulator's countenance. The principal and quotidian undress exercises. Nothclaims of brothers, and when Uncle chief declared that one of the subordi- ing ever was like it-the Captain was Sam puts a tract in the market, it is nates had driven another Indian from in his glory, and each individual vola thing understood on the tract, if no-his wigwam, and turned his squaw and unteer soldier felt that the whole deslittle ones into the woods shelterless; have already a purchaser, who is not that he had gathered and burned his begun to press upon his shoulders. brother's standing corn, and pulled up pay a premium upon the land; the biother's standing coin, and putted up his corps at heart, made frequent visits brother aforesaid against whom all acquirement, and one of his classical dian. His heart was supposed to be cut out—and his scalp to be cut off, ling, nor fiddling, made the country and divers other pleasant divertisements were enacted upon his supposedto-he suffering body. "Who are these people?" inquired the lawyer. "Well," answered the land officer. who was not green in the West, "I alto say nothing of the milling gloves. and the nine-pin-alley balls. Of course er's strong box.

I tell you."

ly this farm----

pond, continually lowered without reand this, one day, he placed in Henry's the least and the last. I've told you afore, 'not a cent more do you get,'

but while there was anything to take,

Now

you've sucked it out of me come back to the kettle again."

"But, my dear father---"

"What do they mean by this non sense?

"Wall-it does look like nonsense stranger, that's a fact, and here again I must allow I can't say. But if you'l just close this here bargain, I don't and its situation on the bank of one of know anybody in these diggings who the great tributaries of a great river is more likely to find out than you." "Is there no force here to protect an American citizen?"

"There's a heap of force to Fort Independence, a hundred miles down, but I reckon, stranger, you've an idee of building barracks for them on the Big Muddy, where you are going to buy,

The Indians were by this time seated in a knot, and chattering in a worse than Pottawantamie tongue over a you've got the whole biling, you needn't ry's claim. But they had happened up- half barrel of whiskey. Two younger ones soon joined them with a split tree trunk, some fifteen feet in length, and the whole group fell to work upon it preparing, with their knives and hatchets, an edge as if to cut cheese. There was an odd twinkle in Jonathan Smiley's eyes as the work proceeded. Mr Berry looked sad, but still said

> What is that?" inquired the lawyer. Why," answered the land officer, "that's what in these diggings they call a rail; you come from the big settlements, and what they call such things thar, I can't say "

And now the culprit Indian was placed astride, and the rail raised upon tiny and now I reckon you'll have to the shoulders of the others, amid a try whether you are to be a shiftless tremendous whoop, but certainly with lout as long as you live or not!" rather more gentleness than would have been done in a bona fide transac- him the truth; and with many protes-The young speculator's agent tations of regret, and promises of amtion. waited no longer, but with a very ill endment he departed. His jig was up

The tract was entered in the names it happened that Jonce and the reader of Mr Berry and Jonathan Smiley, and have the pleasure of meeting him at the amateur Indians suddenly disap. Berrysville. Let us return to Hardpeared.

"Mr Underwood? "said Jonce, com- Henry received his last donation, as above related. ing forward and offering his hand Henry Underwood for it was indeed the Deacon's son, feared to do less than grown quite a man in his way. He the same time that he could not recol- scythe, and drop and cover as many lect our hero. "Probably not," said Jonce "It's a and what perhaps, contributed as much long time since we met but perhaps to his own good opinion of himself as you'll remember Jonce Smiley.' "Perfectly, now," said Underwood, his morning dram, his eleven-o'clock but it strikes me you are in a lawless and his four-o'clock, with a punctuality business!"

"Silence, stranger on that just now, the Deacon's har-room to perform one Berry's Squat, and a different luminary and just here. If you'll take a wood- branch of this duty, when he ove head man's invite, you'll spend the night through an open window the conversawith us, and we'll talk it all over at our tion between farther and son, which we have given. As he stirred up his

'But my money -- " Santy-Crooce, as he called it, he is a great deal safer here than it thought to himself, two bites to a would be in Philadelphia I'll answer cherry not a bad nor a blighted one! and hence it is evident that the man field and no favor"-he to leave Ber- for that with my life it isn't a whole- nyther Wonder if I can't get my there was no Jonce in town to lay the some country for thieves where Indians teeth in on one side, somehow Mar-Creek, where in boyhood he had trap- such as you've seen haunt the woods." garet is not bad looking at that in- accidentally breaking down Margaret's stant she passed, and smiled in aston-

-CHAPTER VIII

intended for an affectionate leer, he, of Our story grows older and so of course, mistaking her look for a glance course do Deacon Abijah Underwood, of love reciprocatory. "She looks as vited upon Uncle Sam's land, is cer- "b'ar," and that where he treed the and Peltiah Perkins, and Peltiah's son if she'd have me-but then again she John and the Deacon's hand-maiden might not there's no knowing " And Deacon Underwood's Margaret, by Pel- not listened to, much less heeded; that tiah Perkins's son John.

Accordingly, that very evening, after intruded unsought, it met with no more the cases fell through, or went by default, clients fell off, and Captain Henry l'nderwood, Esq., fell back more frequently than ever, upon what he considered his military chest, his fath-But, as we said before, the biggest filling, will run out. The Deacon at last found himself left with but a few hundreds of ready cash in the world: most earnestly to box his ears. The Dea.con, a malicious old rogue, sure hands, saying, "Now Henry, you've got it all-it's the prodigal son's portion, tlah's hopeful in good hands, retired > his wont. gravated, and paraphrased the story of how." the day. Her thoughts ran back to the "Dear your granny--don't try that wheedle, for it's no manner of use, now 'You musn't misunderstand me. 1 don't want to leave you destitute. Sure-Oh, it ain't mortgaged yet; and while I live I don't mean it shall be; her tongue to defend Jonce, had she ble district." and when I die, it depends upon yourcared for John's good opinion, she self whether you get any of it to raise money on or not. You don't get the whole, any how-just remember that; and two pites to a cherry is quite a small division. You've got your deshad no intention to give her that opport unity.

conversation, or, rather, in John's ma- stances, they would have been willing Henry saw that his father had told licious volubility, for Margaret had to give him. The matter was taken unsaid nothing. She waited till out of all der advisement; and the answer repatience for him to say the word-but turned was a sufficient lesson to Unhe wouldn t. "Beautiful roses, them derwood, that there is a tide in land in that corner of the world, and hence out there," at last he remarked. "Beautiful," said Margaret. "Why can't you go out and get me one, Mr. half of what he might have had in the Perkins? scrabble, and to the very time when will." Peltiah Perkins's son John had now

Do then, John, that's a good fellow!

The delighted John went out at three potatoes as any man in the township; gathered a handful, and shatched a lawyer in Berrysville. plushing peony by the way, but if he all the rest put together, he could take cound no thorns on the bush, he found one at the door. It was shut, and fastened, and he on the wrong side, unexceeded He was about to enter and without his hat He heard Mag laugh at the open window. "Now, come, there I say," he said. advancing toward her "this is upwards of considerable too darned bad" She chucked his hat in his face, and closed the window. A moment after, he saw her light in her chamber. He picked up a stone, but recollecting that broken glass to, contented himself with pet Burgundy rose bush with his clumsy heel, and went home with the strings of the bag to hold, and two fleag in each ear.

his society was never sought, and that, family prayers at the Deacon's, Mar- eager reception than his advice. Great garet was struck aghast by John's ap- cities they say "take the nonsense out parition. His hair laboriuosly waxed of a man." Great forests are no less down, his boots well greased, his Sun- efficacious as vanity extractors; and day-go-to-meeting-coat on, of a week- Captain Henry Underwood, of the day evening, all were signs indubitable Bungtown Jefferson Guardis, and of the of the purpose of his visit. Margaret Eastern Bar. Esq., was, in the more certainly felt no palpitation of the Jeffersonian western woods, not only heart thereat, but she did feel a pai- tacitly voted as "of no account," but pitation of the fingers, for she longed pretty distinctly made to feel "just that way.'

One day, Jonathan Smilley, in the that he should leave his friend Pel- goodness of his heart, said to Underwood,-"Tell'ye what, Henry-I'm that night a full half hour earlier than sorry you were so powerfully disappointed about this land. Here's what Margaret's blood boiled with indig- I'll do-say you want it, and Berry and nation while John recapitulated, ag- I'll squeeze out enough for you any

"Mr. Smiley," said the other, "you time at which Jonce left Hardscrabble have formed an exceedingly wild overyears before, and the mean-spirited lie estimate of this country. I can't buy told by this same John on that occa- --it is not worth my while---but I am sion. She recollected too, how his quite obliged ,nevertheless. I shall father, at the occasional good reports leave you in a short time, and might which came from Jonce his absence, be ready to help you to a much better had striven to contradict and annul bargain, if you had not chosen to emthem; and while she could not trust bark all you are worth in this ineligi-

"Es-hem," thought Jonce -- "sour longed to have him open the prelimi- grapes, I do allow." But he said nothnaries of his business that she might ing. It however so happened that in bring his stay and his hopes to a a very few days, Jonce and Berry were speedy period. But the crafty sultor astonished at Underwood's not only claiming the offer he had once rejected. but showing an earnest desire for much There came, at last, a pause in the more land, than, under any dircumpurchases, as well as in other affairs of men. He was compelled to take onefirst instance, and that also, upon terms "Now, how kind-a-cold that Mister not quite as good. Jonce had had, in is" said the lover. "Say John, and L early youth, thistles enough to chew to cut his eye teeth, and Captain Henry Inderwood took the land upon the terms proposed to him. Forthwith the ready assistance of the men in the setbounds, fully determined to venture on tlement erected him a cabin-and now a size as he presented the flower. He happened the establishment of the first

[To be continued.]

Washi

NO

THE

Judge

Par

Mon

Dev

In

eight

Natio

men

York.

fact t

shell

tional

ca at

in Au

view

iem o sired.

olaces

races.

Fest.

to foll

foot. a aave £

nend.

Jon M

Nea

inst re

ōî ₩ôĕ

ing Da

tide of

with a

that "a

with Di

şfo 🦛

malcost

wheres

and the

for pul

turned.

This is

COULD BI

to reap

of pass

went a ta pot .

soming

tomahs

CODARO.

first, m

wer

Then

that Ju

stolen.

Company

three k

such a

Tecover

was th

ante-mo tion of simplici

suspicio

prevails

tem of cemeter

the first

Gener

rangeme

bonor d

day. Sep

ent arri

men in increase

ing with have be vision o

of the lin

what di chare of

will not their bu

the arch

equaled

and mag

reason t his coun

New Y

on its ha

possessio

the usu:

taxes. L

ney Islaı

owned b

sold for

but no r

time by

of the to did not

An astut

was cond

anything

with his

came to

It is valu

made apr

lately he had been quiries.

Samuels f uels has hands of sticks dog

that the pality of

Samuels r

"White

termen casket.

many more Besides the ers, as the coinage of the U.S. Mint-

And indeed affection for the one would formed appear naturally to be connected with a predilection for the other.

To return to our friends. Mr Berry so was his wife, and Jonce and the children all were squatters. In that respect the eastern population has the advantage of the western only in the their children, the children are compelled to do it for themselves. Squata tract which might else remain unimproved, with the understanding that whenever the tract does come into the market, the squatter has a prescriptive right to buy at the government price, whether there be a pre?emption law or not, applicable to the case. If there be a pre-emption law, all is well and good, if not, the common law of the border, which supplies statute deficiencies, settles the case. We allude to the code generally spoken of as the Code Lynch: infinitely more simple than the Code Napoleon, though the little Corsican made simplicity the proudest feature of his famous body of statutes. And the Code Lynch has another recommondation which is peculiar to itsself, as belonging to no other. Not only does it supply the deficiencies of of the land, where those laws are supposed to be in force. This unwritten with all the enormities committed in that more mischief would have been done in its absence.

A "squat" becomes, after the cabin is erected, a recognized property by the customs of the "squatters," and there are even nice rules which distinguish where else, that the "squatted" sections to be compelled by any competitor to eligibility of which, by "squatting" thereon, he has made apparent. Consequently, many speculators who travel West under the delusion that they can take immediate advantage of the erplorations of the squatters, are shortly undeceived upon their arrival, for an attempt to buy over one equatter's head is pretty sure to make the whole community rather troublesome neigh tions if, indeed, it does not procure from them a ride-not in the easiest method of movement known in these days of progress. The only way of proceeding, if you find a man on the and you wish to purchase is, first, to est him "What will you take for your squart" and if the bargain between won and the settler can be scaled, his ton's bitters in here. Deacon, if you day, and sometimes twice, at moru and ishment at what Peltiah's hopeful son ing the loan to "sundries" to practise it in a town near Hard- whom everybody abused, while she, the market. We say nearly all, because scrabble, Henry Underwood reduced his when a child, loved and defended him. the little item of purchasing the tract father's capacity to help him, until the Many days and many weeks indeed was not quite completed when those in unpatalleled Night service. New STEAMERS old gentleman was hardly able to b-ip passed, during which Peltiah and his the East who thought they owned the himself. The truth was that Henry son John held frequent conversations ground were "quite ready" to sell. The back with the ladles, in winter he got of the pecuniary advantages of the a change came over the spirit of their officio manager of county balls, union balls, civil balls, and military balls, and this, by the way, brings us to the heavmake the first demonstration on the lest item of his immoderate expenses. before the house, as if he thought that. He had taken a fancy that nothing Margaret. An accident at length decid. and clumsy business man. That percould be cleverer than to be a soldier captain, but as he saw no very sure. short, or direct path to such preferment through any channel then existing, he determined to make a path for and walk into it. His hewing, by the encountefed. little drama-a drama which appeared now behold Captain Henry Underwood tinies of the Republic had now indeed Captain Underwood, with the good of be done to the false brother with a to the metropolis to learn fencing and and as to what did then, and does still of Jonathan Smiley. His pride, howsnake's heart? And thereupon the tactics, pugilism having been a prior these terrible charges were made was studies. While mentioning his accom- claims which the pioneers of the forest tion, and he worked very hard to obfallen upon in make-believe punish- plishments, it is proper also to say that otherwise defend without. ment, which would have been anything he was no poor violinist, and that he but make-believe to anybody but an had also a very fair idea of the accomiron-framed squat-tut-we mean In- plishment of wrestling. But neither soldiering, junketing, fencing, wrest> people fancy him an exceedingly good lawyer; and when his father did send cal machinery once deverly set a going does more than the movers desire.

CHAPTER IX.

The glass tossed off. Peltiah's So fared it in relation to the case of the Latin particle "ab" from, or out of, ity of Berry had indu ei him to "squat" eve, the Deacon, in his fervid and son went to meet Peltiah the the settlement which we have denomand "squat," before discussed, meaning, over land enough for them both' Nev- somewhat lengthy prayer, begged that father On his way out he met Mar- insted Berrysville The knot of specu-Heaven "would remember in mercy the garet, and honored her with another lators, who had decided that Berrys- SEND ONE DOLLAR other's squat or your own as soon as earthly possessions would Jonathan maiden, who was unto thine unworthy look in addition to which he hazarded ville was to be the place in the county, servant even as a daughter." Never the remark, that it was fine "growing had procured by "log-rolling" legtsla- this familing aming was daughter more devoted and grate- weather" "To grown fools" Margaret tive lobby action thereupon, the founful, never was father more sincere and was tempted to add, but forbore The dation of the future county-seat, and freight depotand if to pure in his affection than was Deacon girl had been attacked with attentions they had even mapped, lithographed, equile F Abijah Underwood for our heroine. It every young man in town, Peltiah "located" and "lotted" the important at sto. On treight as Abijah Underwood for our heroine. No every young man in town, Peltiah "located" and "lotted" the important treight agent 0ar Special Price, Perhaps he was the more attached to excepted, and she perceived from ex- embryo cities upon the banks of the stad, less the if our 58.50 here the first in the stad, less the if our of 58.50 here the first in the stad is a dollar for the first in the stad is a dollar for the first in the stad is a dollar for the first in the stad is a dollar for the first in the stad is a dollar for the first in the stad is a dollar for the first in the stad is a dollar for the first in the stad is a dollar for the first is a dollar for the her because that his son Henry not perience in such matters that he was Big Muddy. The papers in the Atlanonly "hadn't somehow the faculty to about to try his turn, but what led tic cities, editorially and by corresp ndseem to do, and to get along like some him to it, she could not imagine, just ents, accidentally stumbling upon the tolks, but was sadly deficient in re- then She had uniformly rejected all - Big Muddy, had elevated the region inspect and kindness for his parent; not that she was romantic enough to to a perfect elysium, the tract of all seeming to regard him rather as a suppose that she was keeping a true tracts in the whole western country. bank, and himself, the son, as a direc- heart for Jonce, and that he on his part Even the western papers had some of tor, who had the privilege of borrowing was preserving a heart to match, for them played upon the same tune, there-when ever he could get it and charge was preserving a heart to match, for them played upon the same tune, therewhenever he could get it, and charg- her She had outgrown such childish unto moved by the wire-pullers, until nonsense; but although she did not per- all the world began very naturally to (Saus, Restat & Co. are throughly reliable. Editor.) But the biggest pond will after a haps know it, his ideal did fill her wonder why this modern Eden was not while run dry, if there is a continual thoughts when she least fancied it, that settled by somebody. Nobody suspectout-going, and no in-running. By his is the abstract ideal of such a man as ed, except those in the secret, that expenses whilst studying law, and his Jonce would be likely to make-for her nearly all the requisite preparations increased expenses while he professed practical memory of him was a boy had been made to throw the land into > on the subject of John's projected at. reader who has had patience to follow tachment. They satisfied themselves us thus far may imagine what kind of both tegether being without doubt, in all had observed that the squatters had up large sletghing parties. He was ex scheme, could it but be consummated, dream, when the news of the discom-the United States. and the only study was, how to com- fiture of their agent greeted their asmence the attack, and whether to tonished senses.

In the first place they voted Capt. Deacon's blind side, or that of his ward Henry Underwood, Esq., an inefficient ed the plan of a campaign which had haps was quite true enough, but in this puzzled the two tacticians so severely, particular case he was certainly not puzzled the two tacticians so severely, particular case he was certainly not Meanwhile John kept up his ogling at to blame, though he felt quite as much Margaret, and his sententious passing mortification as they felt disappoint-remarks, till he brought her fully to ment. Perhaps he felt rather more. the opinion that he was exactly the The speculators in the next place remost disagreeable brute she had ever solved that Berrysville, or Berry's Squat should not be the county seat:

There came to Hardscrabble, in a that it was a barren spot, or where it Boston paper, in the shape of "Extract was not barren that its sole products of a Letter from the West." an account, were fever and ague; and altering a of the frustrated speculation recorded name or two on their lithographs, they in the preceding chapter. The writer determined to elevate another district professed to be neutral, while, in fact, of country, and operate upon that, leavhe was one of the very speculators foil-, ing our hero's location in its primitive ed by the sturdy squatters. The thing obscurity and worthlessness. And all day, left him at no loss to divine. And who could not pay "just then," it did was said to be done under the direc- services in the premises from Henry now, while the stranger watched, com- not take long to place him at the head tion of two desperate men, named Underwood they most peremptorily and Jonathan Smiley, and ---- Berry; and contumeliously declined, notwithstanding that he was upon the spot, and the length to which Lynch law was carried were represented to be equal ready to serve. Another and a shrewdto the length of two ropes, one round er agent was sent out, but what he did. the purchaser's neck, the other encir- as it fell on another traot, it is unneccling the carotid of the land officer, ac- essary for us to particularize, further companied with a threat to run both than it will incidentally appear in the up, if the sale was not cancelled. The course of the story.

Pending these events, Henry Underletter ended with an emphatic query, 'can our government permit such wood remained at Berrysville, the things?" The reader very well under- guest, he said, of Mr. Berry, though he stands that no "such thing" occurred; was in fact tolerated only as the guest happen, the only remedy the govern- ever, would not permit him to acment has, is to defend by law the knowledge Jonce at all in that relatain a recognition of himself, in the

The Deacon's faith in Jonce was con- emigrant's family, as Berry's equal and Boyal Blue Blar The Deacon's faith in Jonce was con-siderably shaken by this highly- Jonce's superior. In this, however, he wrought story; till he consulted Mar- could not make much headway, as Ber-four fright dept, and wrought story; till he consulted Marwrought story; till he consulted Mar- could not man and the story, as the found perfectly stiffactory are resetly as represented, and she said she should believe Ty, now old, looked up (credit it not exectly as represented, and equal to stores that nothing until she heard the other side in Hardscrabble!) to Jonce Smiley, the store that state to the football of his native town. Jonce was appeared our special agent our special

-Captain Underwood's name being, by football of his native town. Jonce was the way, unmentioned in the letter indeed the reigning monarch, and much father's friend, undertook to throw in wrote it, or that he did not! But Peltian fort did this fact force itself upon his prepay the freight to the total of the prepay the freight of the prepay the prepay the freight of the pr the Captain's way a portion of the Perkins and his son John fattened each perceptions. And further, he made the practice which age induced him to wish an inch on the ribs at the narrative, disagreeable discovery that he was not who was not green in the West, "I al-low that I don't know-but maybe if hands already filled with swords, scab-cided that here was the very introduc-few neighbors-that his advice was you could find some of the squatters bards, fencing-folls and fiddle-bows- tion, so long desired, to the slege of never saked, and given unasked, was 1 4 4 1 1 H fully trimmed with black trimmed with three rows and collar with t the mehair braid; cloth button ornaments. Installer made its remeinest and equal to capes more than double the price Weits for the Clash SEARS, ROEBUCK & CO., CHICAGO

EVERY MELL IS COVERED ST A BINDING GUARAN TEEL mer stard, pigeon grass, etc., from flag ough the mill it is a perfect cleaner of Made of the very best material. W is wire wheat hurdle, three sloves, w at grader, corn and oat slove and bar

"CITY OF BUFFALO"

"GITY OF ERIE."

TIME CARD.

DAILY INCLUDING SUNDAY. Lanve Cleveland 9 P. M. Arrive Bullalo 7 A. H Bertisio 9 4 " Cleveland 7

BARTERN STANDARD TIME. Commettions made at Cleveland with COPYRIGHTS &C. invone sending a sketch and description mu inkly ascertain our opinion free whether i rention is probably patentable. Communic matricity conditiontal. Handbook on Paten tree. Oldest age tents taken thr Booky Houstains, THIS HANDSONE GRAVESTONE L tared and poliched in very latest style, from fact has the fire Grass Gran Marble, is non-derivenible, and has a ris bighty polished, untding color. Gravature is 20 isober hig 10 inches wide a thus, Write for prices as eiterstyles and the Address. SEARS, ROEBUCK & CO., CHICAGO

