OUR AGENT

Mr. A. Herman, will call on all subscribers in Genesee, Moscow, Mt. Morris, Dansville and Corning.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable.

For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable.

Science has pronounced it to be a constitutional disease, and, therefore, requires constitutional treatment.

Hall's Cathartic Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market.

It is taken internally in doses from ten drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address:

FASHION NOTES.

Jeweled buckles and buttons are in style.

Narrow skirts may be made wider by inserting a tablier of different material.

Bridesmaid gowns are in tints, thus offering the strongest contrast to the bridal gown.

Wide collars and revers made to wear with any dress is another bit of stylish "economy."

The very newest capes are cut pointed in front, with long "stole" ends, and are short on the shoulders.

Moreen petticoats covered with silk are a recent happy thought. Moreen is a much more desirable material for lining than hair cloth.

Artificial orange blossoms are being used instead of the natural flowers, but the innovation is execrable, and will be frowned upon by ladies of refined taste.

Black and gold in interwrought designs are decidedly effective as trimming for revers for waists. Silver braid is also shown. This for black is striking and pretty, and exceedingly stylish.

Painting silks and satins for fancy costumes and court gowns is a new artistic industry in England, and the artist who can originate graceful designs and execute them in delicate colors is kept employed.

In belts there are narrow ones of leather in green, brown, gray, tan, black and white. The very latest novelty has an exact imitation of a harness buckle in gold silver, leather-covered or plain enamel.

Various devices for holding a woman's watch securely in some convenient place have been tried with more or less success. The very latest of all is the tiny leather bag tag strap with a little gold buckle fastened around the belt, and from this the watch is suspended.

A pretty turban of palest rosy heliotrope straw has the crown surrounded with purple, yellow and white-crocus blooms with violets, white and purple, mingled with a panache of lustrous Lyons velvet of a deep but vivid purple tint, soft folds of this velvet edging the rolled brim of the hat.

The black and white striped fabrics in wool and silk and wool mixtures, which impart length and slenderness to the figure, are greatly in favor, and while they are plain and simple in style, they have a smart and ladylike appearance, showing an untrimmed skirt with narrow front breadth, well-groomed sides and the fullness in a small space at the back.

According to the dictates of Fashion the hair this season must be loose and slightly waved in front, and gathered to a knot at the back of the head. This knot may be worn either high or low, according to convenience and the taste of the lady. High combs and other high ornaments are given the preference.

Black lace over satin makes up beautifully in waists for elderly ladies wear. Waists of chiffon in subdued hues lighted up by touches of delicate tints in collars, vests and belts, and worn with plain black satin skirts, are also quite the rage for middle-aged and elderly matrons.

New Cinderella Parties.

London society has been amusing itself with Cinderella parties, and it is said functions of a similar character have taken place recently at some private houses here in New York.

The Cinderella party is not the usually accepted variety by that name, where the guests are bound to say "Good night" just at the stroke of midnight. That sort of entertainment has proved itself almost impossible except among the youngest set, for where guests do not arrive until the unholy hour of eleven or thereabout it is hard to have a cast iron rule concerning their departure.

This Cinderella party owes its name to the chief source of amusement—namely, the wooden shoe which is furnished by the Oriental store, and which in its primitive condition is used by the Eastern woman in going to her bath. The shoe is sometimes highly ornamented with painting, gliding, etc., and the trick is to find a foot that will exactly fit its rather unusual proportions.

The masculine sex is not debarred from this form of entertainment, as the committee of arbitration and final court of appeal are formed of the male members of the entertainment, and on them devolves the tremendous task of deciding when fair ones disagree. The wooden shoe, so familiar to frequenters of Oriental bric-a-brac shops, is narrow and quite long, and the foot on which it is tried must not protrude an infinitesimal portion of an inch over the edge. Opportunities for dainty foot gear, for limitless discussions and coquettish attitudes are innumerable, and are usually made the most of. On the hostess devolves the pleasure of providing a suitable gift for the fortunate possessor of the prize foot for the fortunate Cinderella gives the shoe as a souvenir to some member of the committee.

There has always been a charm about the story of Cinderella which no amount of matured intellect is able to destroy. The prince and the slipper have formed the basis of many a girlish dream, and society, always amiable to pretty follies, has taken this fact into consideration, apparently, in providing the latest form of entertainment for its votaries.
