Residence, 389 Central Ave.

Phone 3056. N. J. Miller, UNDERTAKER 90 North St.

Geo. Engert. Adolph F. Schlick. Geo. Engert & Co., COAL.

Principal Office and Vard Telephone 357 306 Exchange Street.

Geo. T. Foster. Lehigh valley COAL, 392 Clinton Ave. 8 Tel. 764.

TELEPHONE 127 THOS.B. MOONEY Funeral - Director 196 West Main Street,

Fire. Employer's Liability. Plate glass Established 1860. J. H. ASHTON,

ROCHESTER, - N. Y

General Insurance. 201-202 Ellwanger and Barry Bldg. Entrance 10 State Street. Rochester, N. Y.

Seam Boiler. Surery Bonds. 8 Elevator

Louis Ernst Sons

The Most Complete Line of Steel Hods, Steel Barrows, Mechanics' Tools, Builders Hardware, Contractors Supplies, 129 and 131 East Main St.

For a Tonic

Wines And Liquors and weadvise that for the Purser and at the most reasonable prices in this house that he became intimated you go to

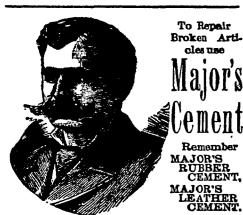

Mathews & ServislCo. Cor. Main and Fitzhugh Streets.

phone 2075.

and freight while about 70 cents for 500 miles greater or aborter distances is properties. EVERY SHILL IS QUEEKE BY A BINDING GUARANTEE, more wind, more shake, carries more screen and will do more and betten work than any mill you can buy for $20.00. Will separate wild seed from what in one operations, will separate the full seeds, such as mustard, pigoon grass, etc., from flax on once going through the mill. It is a perfect cleamer of cistre and time-through the mill. It is a perfect cleamer of cistre and time-through the mill. It is a perfect cleamer of cistre and they, hade of the very best material. We furnish with 16 one wire wheat hurdle, three sleves, wheat screens, wheat grader, corn and oat sleve and barley slove. Capacity, 90 bushels per hour. $9.50 is our Special Offer Price Order at once. Write for free Arricultural Emplement Catalogue.

Address, SEARS, ROEBUCK & CO. (180.), CHICAGO, iti (Seara, Rechack & Co. are thereughly reliable.—Editor.)

Copyrights &c.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may uickly ascertain our opinion free whether an avention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Fatents

Scientific American.

ADVENTURES OF THE REGICIDES, GOFFE WHALLEY AND DIXWELL

Kings Messengers Were searching for Them-The Old Well From Which They

A few days ago laborers at work earing down a block of old houses in New Haven, at the corner of Grove and Collefe streets, to make room for the big group of buildings which Yale University is about to erect to commemorate the two hundredth anniversary of the founding of the college, came upon a peculiar old well. One of the laborers mentioned the incident to an old stone mason. The latter looked at the well and declared hat it was the one which almost two centuries ago was built around what was known as "The Regicides" spring." This statement furnished plenty of ground for conjecture among the "oldest inhabitants." Little by little a story was evolved that this spring was originally discovered and dug out by Goffe and Whalley, the two regicides who first came to New Haven, and later on used by John Dixwell, the third of the regicides, who sought safety in New England. There is a tradition that Goffe and Whalley, who reached New Haven two years before Dixwell, lived during the early part of their hiding in the New Haven colony in a but in a marsh nearby the spot where the old well has been discovered. There is some ground for this Dixwell's Residence. It is a fact that Dixwell lived al-You will nee I something in the most derectly across the street from this spot. Dixwell was known in New Haven as James Davids. He took up his residence at the corner of Chollege and Grove streets, with a widow. whom he married. It was while living with the Rev. Mr. Plerpont, one of, the first clergymen of the colony. That the well which was discovered beneath the back door entrance of the old house on College street was built two centuries ago is quite evident from the nature of its construction. It is built of substantial masonry, and very few of the stones show any trace of the mason's chisel. It is also a very narrow well, not quite two feet in diameter. The wells that were dug by the early settlers were of this character, because the digging of a well was then a very expensive piece of work. A well was a luxury, indeed, that only the most prominent settlers possessed, and from which the entire neighborhood often Excepted by Parliament. Before the restoration of Charles II.. in 1660, to the throne of his ancestors he had issued a "declaration" promising to all persons but such as should be excepted by Parliament a pardon for offences committeed during Cromwellian times. In the Parliamentary Act of Indemnity which followed such as had been directly concerned in the execution of Charles I, were executed. Colonel Whalley and Colonel Goffe were members of the High Court of Justice which convicted and sentenced him. It was soon known that they had fled from England, and a Captain Breeden reported that on a trip to New England he had seen them in Boston. The Ministry promptly sent an order to Governor Endicott, of Massachusetts, for their apprehension and transportation back to England.

No one of the New England colonies had formally expressed approval of the execution of Charles I., but still these regicides had a notably friendly wellcome extended to them in this country. At the end of four months intelligence reached Massachusetts of the act of indemnity, and that Whalley and Goffe were among those excepted from its provisions, and that they had been marked for vengence. Still for three months longer they lived at Cambridge unmolested. Meanwhile, however, affairs had been growing critical between Massachusetts and England, and, though some members of the General Court of Massachusetts assured them of protection, others thought it more prudent that they should have a hint to look to their safety in some way which would not imply an affront to the royal government on the part of the colony.

Court of Assistants.

The Governor called a Court of Assistants in February, and without secrecy asked their advice respecting his obligations to secure the refugees, and by his second wife established The court refused to recommend that quite a family, which for many years measure, and four days more passed, at the end of which time, whether induced by others or by their own con- well as in communications while he car and who insisted on talking. viction of the impropriety of involving lived to his minister and others, he their generous hosts in further embar- frankly made known his character and reference to the solar system," rassment, they set off for New Haven A journey of nine days brought Whalley and Goffe to the hospitable home his strength, of the expulsion of the of Queensberry rules from a date, through just one error." of the Rev. Dr. Davenport, where they House of Stewart. His monument is a junch bill o' this tryin' to talk wise That's to occupe. So was R again moved freely in the society of prominent object in New Haven. What he means is de solar playus. dise!" responded the man was the ministers and the local mast istrates. But they had been scarcely three weeks in New Haven when tidings came thither of the reception at Boston of a proclamation issued by the King for their arrest. To release their host from responsibility they went to Milford (as if on their way to the New Netherlands), and there showed themselves freely in public; but, like foxes, they doubled on their trail and returned secretly to New Haven and were concealed in Dr. Davenport's house. Thence they were were led to a spot called Hatchet Harbor, about as much own heart has told you already what further in a northwesterly direction, it is: where they lay for two nighos more. Meanwtime, for fear of the effect of the large rewards which the messengers had offered, a more secure place of hiding had been provided for them in a hollow on the east side of West Rock, five miles from the centre of New Haven at that time.

In this retreat they remained four a lonely farm house in the neighborhood, to which they also withdrew sometimes in stormy weather. They caused the Deputy Governor to be in- at stake is so tremendous, the conseformed of their hiding place, and on hearing that Davenport was in danger from a suspicion of harboring them. they left it, and for a week or two showed themselves at different times in New Haven and elsewhere. After two months more of concealment in their retreat on the side of West Rock. they betook themselves just after the middle of August to the house of one Tomkins, in or near Milford. There they remained in complete secrecy for two years, after which period they ventured to indulge in some freedom of movement, and even conducted the devotions of a few neighbors assembled in their chambers.

The Kings Commissioners. But the arrival at Boston of plenary Commissioners of the King with extraordinary powers was now experted, and it was regarded as likely that they stronger than my own will to lay bare would be charged to institute a new search, which might endanger the fugitives and would certainly be embarrassing to their protectors. Just at this time a fued between the church es of Hartford and Wethersfield had led to an emigration to a spot of fertile meadow some forty miles up the Connecticut River. Mr. Russell, hitherto minister at Wethersfield accompanied the new settlers as their pastor. The General Court gave their settlement the to tread Gentle girl, your image posname of Hadley. In this newest and sesses my heart absolutely. Love like refuge was prepared for Whalley and statue. For weeks I have seemed to Goffe. Then, except for a remarkable move in a dream. I could see your momentary appearance of one of them face in the moon. Your eyes twinkled and except for the visits of a few in the stars. The winds, as they blew stanch and confidential triends, the re- softly through the trees, seemed to gicides remained lost forever to the murmur, 'Buenavista! Buenavista!' view of men. Presents were made to The birds that sang beneath my win-them by leading persons among the dow twittered, Buenavista! Buenacolonists and they received remit- vista!' and their music echoed in the tances from friends in England. In chambers of my soul. The clouds, as the tenth year of his abode at He ley they moved majestically across the To All Our Regular Patrons No Charge Whalley had become extremely infirm heavens-" in mind and body, and he probably did not outlive the year 1674. The house Kept a Fast.

On the first day of September the people of Hadley kept a fast to implore Divine protection in their distress. While they were engaged in worship a sentry's shot gave notice that the stealthy savages were upon them. Hutchinson in his history relates what follows, as he had received it from the family of Governor Leverett, who was one of the few visitors to Goffe in his

The people were in the utmost confusion. Suddenly a grave elderly person appeared in the midst of them. In his mien and dress he differed from the rest of the people. He not only encouraged them to defend themselves but put himself at their head, rallied. instructed and led them on to encounter the enemy, who by this means were repulsed Quite as suddenly the deliverer of Hadley disappeared. The people were left in consternation, utterly unable to account for this strange phenomenon. It is not probable that they were ever able ao explain it." In the first years of the retirement of "the Colonels," at Hadley, they enjoyed the society of a former friend, who did not feel obliged to use the same strict precautions against discovery. John Dixwell, like themselves, was a colonel in the Parliamentary service, a member of the High Court of Justice and a signer of the death warrant of the King. Nothing is known of his proceedings after the restoration of the monarchy till he came to Hadley, three or four months later than Whalley and Goffe. After a residence of some years in their neighborhood he removed to New Haven, where bearing the name of James Davids and affecting no particular privacy, he lived to old age. The English government never traced Dixwell to America, and though eland Plain Dealer among his acquaintances it was understood that he had a secret to keep there was no disposition to penetrate was prominent in local and State at- Jawed man with big hands, who occufairs. In testamentary documents as pied the seat beside him in the railway.

The state of the s

DECLARATION OF LOVE.

It West Into Various Collections and Brunght Him Interesting Negatives. The young man came nearer.

"Buenavista," he said, with a prenonitory cough, "may I say what I came to say this evening?" "l-I think you may, Mr. Yipperly, came softly from her lips.

"Then," he proceeded, "I may venture to hope that it will not wholly surprise you. Mayhap, dear girl, your

He placed his arm along the back of her chair, and, observing that she did not appear to shrink from it, he went ahead

"Not with the boldness of one who feels that he may presume upon a favorable answer with absolute certainty do I venture to ask the momentous question now trembling on my lips, but weeks, being supplied with food from rather with the dread of a reply that may forever blast all my hopes and drive me forth a wanderer upon the face of the earth! The issue quences so lasting and far-reaching, that one may well hesitate before staking one's all, if it may be so expressed, upon the cast of a die."

Stantly leaning forward she listened with parted lips and clasped hands "Therefore, beloved of my soul, may have seemed as one who

-either fears his fate too much: Or his desert is small,' inasmuch as I have not been entirely free from the suspicion of being one,

furthermore. "'Who will not put it to the touch,

To win or lose it all,' but while endeavoring on the one hand to avoid the imputation of unmanly cowardice and in the other the equally reprehensible and more offensive charge of overweening confidence and self-conceit, I am impelled by a feeling my heart before you, once for all, and end the suspense that is weighing upon

"How beautifully you express yourself!" she murmured. "Listen, Buenavista McCorkle! / Impressed with my own unworthiness as I am, deeply sensible, as I must be, of the inestimable value of the prize to which I aspire, I yet dare in my folly

"Oh. how beautifull "---took your form and seemed to of Mr. Russell stood until about 1805. beckon me and yet mock me as with a in till he'd paid a quarter. vision of the unattainable. In my dreams, when sleep has ended my vigils, I have seen you as a Greek goddess and worshipped you afar off with despairing, deathless devotion!"

"Have the conductors on the elevated roads as they mumbled out the names of the streets, seemed to say. 'Buenavista! Buenavistai' too?"

"What mean you, Miss McCorkle?" "Have the frogs in the marshes, offering their evening orisons, breathed into the raptured ear or night the smoothly flowing name of "McCorkle! McCorkle!'?"

"Why, let me ask, Miss McCorkle; have you let me make such a blooming idiot of myself if you intended to give me the clammy hand in this style? Did you think I was practising for a high school exhibition?"

"Oh, no, Mr. Yipperly. I have enloyed it greatly. I think, taking it altogether, yours is one of the most gorgeous and spectacular declarations of love I ever listened to. Why did I let. you run on so long! Because, Mr. Yipperly, I am making a collection of proposals of marriage, and I thought liam, the farmer's son. yours would be a valuable addition. It is absolutely unique. You don't know how grateful I am for it as a work of art."

The young man removed his arm. from the back of her chair, thrust his hand into an inner pocket and brought forth a folded manuscript.

For fear you might not remember if in all its majesty and beauty. Miss her face. McCorkle," he said, tossing it into her lap, "allow me to give it to you in full, in typewritten form. You will see hat you missed the really eloquent, spellbinding part of it. The peroration would have made your hair curl." "I hope, Mr. Yipperly, you will not allow this to-"I sha'n't lose an ounce of flesh or a wink of sleep over it. I hired a literary chap who was hard up to write that thing for me, Miss McCorkle. No. you can keep it. I've got another copy somewhere. I have tried that production on five or six other girls, and it's had the same effect on all of them. I'm getting an interesting collection of negatives. I guess I was badly swindled. Well, I must be going."

Not Unin the Classics. "Who is this 'Phenix' that seems to have something to do with raisin' that Kansas City hall from its ashes." "He's a feller from th' Indian terr' tory. I believe, an' I understan' there's some talk of runnin' him for Vice President."

"New in polyticks, ain't he?" "Yep. But I guess he's gittin' prefty popular. I asked Jim Sholtuck who he was an' Jim said he was a bird."-Cley-

Shocked.

"Perhaps you would like to look at He married twice at New Haven. this magazine," said the man with an out-of style silk hat. "What's in it?" asked the square-

"An article on new discoveries with

TOLD BY A CIRCUS MAN.

Restaurant Man Wind in it Brent With the Show Block, Hands Dawn.

"You know I've told you," said the old circus man, "about how the old man was forever playing jokes on peo ple in the towns we came to over the great giant; making contracts in advance for one thing and another for him, binding people to supply the things and called for at certain prices, turning up then with the giant. For Instance, he would get some local shoemaker to agree to make a pair of men's shoes for so much, the man to be measured when he came to town. Of course the shoemaker never dreamed of a man the size of the giant, and when the giant appeared the shoemaker would be duly dismayed, and the whole business would be turned into an advertisment for the giant and the show; but it's only fair to say that the old man always did what was right before he got through and never let anybody lose anything by him. On the other hand, he sometimes met people that got the better of him; and from one of them, right after we got the glant, he tearned a lesson so very simple that he wondered he hadn't thought of it himself before, "Going ahead of the show in a city where we were to stay a week, the old man made with the proprietor of the biggest restaurant there a contract for the board of one member of his company who was very particular about his food and at the same time a large cater, this contract requiring that the boarder should be supplied with whatever he wanted that was in season, cooked to his fancy, and in any quantity that he might call for. Well, now you know, the giant was a graceful enough eater but my gracious the quantity required to feed him was something prodigious; and, seriously, the more cost of his board made a substantial item in the show's expenses. But his coming to the man's restaurant didn't appear to disturb the restaurant keeper a bit; you'd have thought to see him that he'd been keeping a giants' boarding house all his life. "He waited ou the grant himself at the first meet he had there, which was dinner, served in the middle of the day. The old man was along to see that his to rush in where an angel might fear glant got enough to eat, which he did. a great plenty. At supporting the old man was busy and he sent me with the remotest frontier of New England a mine would melt the heart of a marble giant, coming himself later. When he got to the restaurant he found a crowd in the street in front and this sign hanging up over the restaurant door:

Nonpariel Rectaurant.
The Greatest of All Clamis Boards Here Taking His Breakfast at 7 o'clock.

His Dinner at 1. and His Supper at 7 o'clock. Come in and See Him for Admission. "And they wouldn't let the old man

"But the restaurant man turned out all right. He deducted the cost of feeding the giant and then divided those extra receipts with the old man, which was fair emough, and ever after that in every town we struck, where the glant ate at a restaurant, we need to make contracts on that basis."

Winitred Worm-Why mourning, dear?

Mrs. Willhelmina Worm-A sad bereevement befell our family to-day. My husband, while in the house tending the baby, was bitten in two by W.

Not So Had so She Charged. Judge Broyles's clerk called aloud, Clarence Mason and Sally Simpkins!" Ciarence stepped up, a pretty well dressed, intelligent looking darkey. Then came Sally, a soot-sinned, sidestepping Sally, switching her skirts with a large, loud hat tilted down in

"Clarence," said the Judge, "you are charged with cursing this girl. What about it?" Sally broke in: "He did Judge; dat he did. He used talk to me dat no gentleman would say to a colored "No, mir, I never did. Judge"

"He did! Dat her did! I heered him, Judge!"

"Well," said the Judge, "what langunga?

"Judge, hit would make me blush ter Well, out with it; what did he say?" "Judge, it would make you blush."

"Ularence, what did you say to her?" the Judge impatiently asked "I don't remember saying nothing that would make her blush. I don't reckon I could do it. Sally fired up turning a glare on Clarence, and shouted; Judge, he's a story, sah! I'll tell you what he said: he called me er hot baby. Dat's what he called me, too, now!"

"What about it, Clarence?" "Judge, I never, I just called her a tepid infant. In Old Rentucity.

Coroner-Why are you so positive Perhaps it was a case of suicide. Colonel Bourbon-You seem to Joh. get sah, that a qualit bottle full of liquor-full, I repeat, sah-was found 'n his overcoat pocket, sah Chicago

Not a Valle Exemp.

"You oughn't to blame the boys." said the apologist for the home club. history. He died just too early to hear "Nope. It makes me tired to hear "They played well enough but the luck the tidings, which would have renewed des people dat don't know de Marquis was against them. The game was lost

Growth Street, Street,

Sava loca way train for an Nilurary Pulis; comments for To NIGET. PAIR CONTROLS ON PROPERTY OF THE PAIR OF THE PA

For Henseys Tells only.

TRAINS ARRIVE

Except Sunday,
For tickets, apage in alsoping care, her gage obscied from ranidance, six, said a
City Ticket Oction II Bast Main pirest, at Station, Phone IIS.
G. H. HARBLE City Passenger Agent,
CHARLIST S. LING, General Passenger,
Agent, M. Cortlandt street, New York.

Northern Central Radiway