Hibernian Rifles

The company met at headquarters in City Building on Tuesday evening for their regular uniform drill, and it was most gratifying to listen to the response to the roll call, every member answering "here," which made it one of the largest drills in point of attendance in a year. There were over sixty members present and when the venerable captain M. Quinlivan took command every man present showed by his action and attention to the commands that he was there to do his duty as a soldier, and surely the members of Company A, Hibernian Rifles did this at their last uniform drill. After drill the captain ordered all members to report at headquarters on July 15th, at 2.30 p. m. for inspection of uniforms and equipments prior to going to the convention on July 18th, and all members to assemble at headquarters on July 18th, not later than 7 a. m., to be ready for parade 15 minutes later. After the captain had finished with the orders for the coming parade and convention, one of the visiting brothers, Ed. Sheridan, invited the company to have refreshments which they accepted, and adjourned to Alderman Calihan's where they sat down to an elegant supper, through the kindness of Brother Sheridan, and spent several hours after in pleasant amusement, adjourning with the late hours of the morning, and only sorry that the time passed so fast. The company and its members offer its thanks to Brother Sheridan and Alderman Calihan for the noble manner in which they were entertained. The company's delegate to the convention, Second Lieutenant C. J. Dollen, will leave on the 15th for the convention. The next drill will be July 17th, all members are ordered to attend.

FREE CHAMPETRE

Mater Admirabilis Society Entertained at the Sacred Heart Convent.

The Mater Admirabilis Society, composed of the alumnae of the Sacred Heart Convent held a fete champetre in the large and attractive orchard of the convent on Prince street, Tuesday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock. The society is only about a year old and this is the first social affair it has held. It was arranged by the mother superior and sisters of the convent, and was largely attended and greatly enjoyed. Young girls and their mothers were present together, meeting on an equal footing and joining together in games of romps in the halls of their alma mater.

The grounds of the convent are very large and secluded, and one would imagine herself far removed from the heart of city life when strolling through the pleasant shade of the orchard. "Gouter" was served under the trees. The sisters had arranged little painted paper apples with a motto inside, and tied them to the trees, and each one plucked one. "A Penny for Your Thoughts" was played, and prizes awarded to the winners. Altogether the fete was voted a pleasant success.

The society meets every Tuesday afternoon from September to June, to sew on church vestment, which are given to poor churches. The officers are: Honorary president, Mrs. Katherine Dowling; president, Mrs. Anna M. O. Wilkin; vice-president, Mrs. Thomas J. Devine; secretary, Mrs. Kate C. Mahon; corresponding secretary, Miss McManis; treasurer, Mrs. James F. McCauley; assistant treasurer, Miss Julia Coochrane.
