GALWAY .--- The death of Lord Moris and Killenin took place on Sept. 8 at his residence. Spiddal, at the age of 73 years. The deceased was made a paronet in, '85, and a life peer, with the title of Baron Morris, in '89, while, on his retirement last year, he was created a hereditary peer under the title of Baron Killanin in the Peerage of the United Kingdom, with remainder to his eldest son, the Hon. Martin Morris, M. P. for the City of Galway. The success of Mr. Morris to the title creates a vacancy in the representation of Galway. Recently the new parish priest of iusmagh was the recipient of a presentation, consisting of a silver salver and a gold watch of the most perfect workmanship, from his friends in Loughrea. The presentation was made by the Rev. B. M. Bowes, adminstrator, Loughrea, who was supported by Capt. Smyth, Masonbrook; . Dr Broly, Loughres, and Mr. Michael Keliy, Athenry.

The Tuam News of Sept. 6 said: "A public meeting under the auspices of the linited Irish League was held at the Corner Chapel to perfect the or-20 ganization of the parish. A very large contingent headed by a banner, was oresent from Caherlistrane. The Rev. Uanon Heaney presided and deliverey * vigorous speech. Resolutions pledging support to the U. I. A long funeral cortege accompanied the remains to Touranenna Chapel, where solemn requiem services were held.

ULSTER.

ANTHIM .--- Thomas Hennon, of 23 Kelwood street, Belfast, when in a small boat at Cultra, Aug. 31, lost his balance, fell into the water and was drowned. The body has not been recovered. A grand fancy fair and sale of work, organized by St. Patrick's Stall, No. 9. Beifast, was opened by Most Rev. Dr. Henry in aid of the Good Shepherd Magdalen Bazar, Sept. 2. From the hour of opening till late at night the attendance was continually large and profitable.

Early on Aug. 31 a very gruesome discovery was made on the County Down railway. At the Dee: street crossing the dead body of a young man, 18 years old, named William Boyd, of 10 Mersey street, Belfast, was discovered lying across the rails. The head was severed from the body.

The death of Mr. Henry O'Doherty, of Belfast took place rather suddenly on Aug. 29. Mr. O'Doherty was in his early days engaged in the linen trade, but having a strong inclination toward music, he devoted himself earnestly to its practice. The first Catholic band established in Belfast was in St. Peter's district, under his conductorship, and many prominent musicians graduated therefrom. When St. Mary's Hall was opened on Feb. 23. 1876, by the late Most Rev. Dr. Dorrian, and the massed choirs and bands from the district were called into requisition, Mr. O'Doherty was conductor. Latterly he had been principal obce player at the Grand Opera House, and as a musician and a scorer of parts for bands he had few, if any, equals in Belfast.

Mr. James Delargy, of Cushendall, died on Aug. 29, aged 51 years, deeply regretted. The funeral to Glenarifie cemetery was very numerously attended The remains were borne from deceased's residence to the Catholic church. where the Very Rev. P. Convery, after reading the funeral service, delivered a sermon appropriate to the occasion. The funeral procession reformed and wended its way along the coast road to the burying ground by the sea. The last prayers were racited at the grave by the Rev. Father Storey, Adm., Belfast.
