OUR DARLING JOHN.

(In memory of John J. Sweeney, who died Sept. 28, 1901, aged 16 months.)
To a young and loving couple on a bright summer day
Came the crowning of their happiness on the thirteenth of May:
Tender love and fond caresses were lavished on their son,
And, in honor of his grands, they baptized the baby John.
All watched the little baby as he grew and thrived each day,
And lonesome hearts were there in Rochester when the baby went away.
He was his grandpa's idol, the joy of his grandma's heart,
And with tear-dimmed eyes they saw him for the south depart.
Where'er his baby feet would lead him, friends he'd make on every side—
Children loved to be near him, and to be near where he'd abide.
He had many friends and relatives who dearly loved the little one
Who would gladly forfeit pleasure to take care of little John.
Our loving Father in Heaven looked down on the childish face
And wished the little darling to have an angel's place.
Then he called him to Himself from out this deceitful world
To be among his angels and his banner to unfold.
To the grief-stricken parents and relatives, to their sorrowing friends,
God, in His holy goodness, a consoling message will send:
And their holy faith now tells them that his face again they'll see—
That from pain and sorrow little John forever more is free.
MARY F. E. LOUGHNEY.

(The following lines were written by a little pupil of St. Bridget's school.)
The moon looked down with a peaceful light
Upon the earth's garland bright:
The flowers their shadows threw
Over the waters pure and blue.
On the bank of the beautiful deep
A maiden sat in a dreamy sleep:
A beautiful vision of heaven came
Of angels singing a sweet refrain.
The evening breeze was cool and sweet,
And mossy beds were at her feet:
The fragrant flower in beauty fair
With holy hands entwined her hair.
With sleepy eyes this maid awoke
And happy thoughts her mind evoked.
She raised her eyes to the sky so blue
And thought the vision must be true.
Then slowly turning in despair
She gently smoothed her golden hair
While bright-winged angels their trumpets blew:
"Oh, child! oh, child! you have God's work to do."

Acts as a Tonic.

Rev. J. Heltze used Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic for sleeplessness, recommended me to try it, and it had the desired effect. I am of a very nervous disposition, which makes me at times so irritable that I am not able to be steady at any work or occupation, and in the evening I am so tired that I feel the greatest necessity for rest, but could not sleep until I used this remedy, and it seems to act also as a tonic as well as a cure for nervousness. It is a wonderful medicine, without which it would have been hard for me to have continued my work. I was requested to write this for Sister Gabriela of Yankton, S. D. Mother M. Matilda.

FIVE MINUTE SERMON.

SHORT INSTRUCTIONS ON THE GOSPEL BY A REVEREND FATHER.

Gospel St. Matthew, xxii, 14.—The parable of the marriage feast.

The invited spoken of in to day's gospel are all the children of Adam, as well of the Old as of the New Dispensation, and those who refused the first invitation were principally the Gentiles, who did not believe in the Christ Who was to come, and did not profit by the example of the chosen people. They were also the Jews, who did not listen to the voice of the prophets, and refused to acknowledge the promised and expected Messiah. Lastly, they are all those who did not and do not accept the truths of the Gospel.

If we consider the promises of God made to the patriarchs, the predictions of the prophets, the figures of the sacrifices and of the legal ceremonies, and the foreshadowings in the events and in the famous personages of the Hebrew nation, we shall see with what abundance God prepared the nuptial feast of Jesus Christ; that is, how many lights and how many means He prepared, in order that the promised Saviour might be known when in the fullness of time He should appear among men.

If we consider the doctrines of Jesus Christ, His example, His death, His merits, and His sacraments, the preaching of the apostles, the constancy of the martyrs, the prodigies which signaled the promulgation of the faith and the constant assistance of the Holy Ghost, we shall comprehend how abundantly God has provided food for our souls, for our faith, our hope, our charity, our perfection; in a word, for the nuptials of the Church with the heavenly Spouse.
