Catholic Truth - Catechetical Pamphlets

Catholics feel the need of short and simple explanations of various points of the doctrine, discipline and history of the Church. Questions constantly come up that demand a reply and the average layman has not the time nor the training to study learned and exhaustive treatises of theology. We are a busy and practical people and we therefore need brief and practical explanations of our religion. To supply this demand the Catholic Truth Society of San Francisco has been doing splendid work for the few past years. It has been publishing pamphlets admirably adapted to the American mind, on almost every phrase of Catholic Truth. These pamphlets are by well known authors and they form a most useful library. The subjects are well selected, the treatment is in every case a satisfactory one. The price places them within the reach of every reader. The Priest or layman who mixes with non-Catholics cannot find any more useful Catholic literature than the publications of this Society.

As examples of these tracts we may mention the following of a dogmatic nature: "The Infallibility of the Pope" by Rev. Peter C. York; "The Practice of Confession in the Catholic Church" by the late Rev. R. F. Clarke, S. J.; "Who Can Forgive Sins" by Rev. P. J. Dancy; "What Catholics Do Not Believe" the famous lecture of Archbishop Ryan of Philadelphia and "Modern Religious Skepticism" by the same author. "The Catholic Doctrine of Indulgences" by Rt. Rev. John Cuthbert Hedley, D. D.

The biographical list contains short lives of "Father Damien" by Charles Warren Stoddard, "Cardinal Newman" by Rev. William Barry, D. D., "Pope Leo XIII." by Vicome E. M. DeVogne "St. Patrick" by Rev. Arthur Ryan and many others.

In the historical line the Truth Society has published six standard refutations of anti-Catholic Calumny. They are by Rev. Peter C. York and the style is strong and vigorous. These pamphlets are entitled "Ghosts" and they follow the Protestant Tradition both in the United States and England.

The Society has published numerous other tracts about fifty in all. They are printed on good paper and neatly bound. They sell at five cents each, or $3.00 per 100 copies. They should be given a wide circulation throughout the United States. Priests and laymen could not do better than place these tracts in hands of inquiring non-Catholics. The address of the Truth Society is Room 87, Flood Building, San Francisco.

COOK OPERA HOUSE.

A large number of vaudeville performers of note will figure in next week's bill at the Cook Opera House. A performer who has always been well liked by local audiences is Hilda Thomas, who is an accomplished comedienne, and it is seldom indeed that she fails to "make good" with her listeners. Another highly meritorious turn is that given by the De-laure-Debrimont trio. These three performers are all trained singers. Attired in fitting costumes, they give selections from grand opera. In addition to being very able vocalists, the performers work with a style and flourish that makes their singing doubly attractive. A very novel and pretty acrobatic act will be the Pantzer trio. This is really a quartette, for besides the three gymnasts, Mrs. Carl Pantzer agreeably "assists" with the piano. Sidney Grant is a very clever monologist, and is said to be a good impersonator. Jacklin and Ingram give illustrated ballads, and give them very acceptably, both the singing and pictures being exceedingly good. This turn is almost always enthusiastically received. Lewis and Ryan will appear in a turn that is entirely new to Rochester, which is reported to be even funnier than the "Two Actors." The Howard Brothers are excellent dancers. Mlle. Chester's "Living picture" dog is one of the most astonishing trained dogs in the world. While posing in a setting, it is said that he remains so motionless that his breathing is scarcely perceptible. This is a strong bill and should prove a popular attraction.
