COOK OPERA HOUSE.
In order that the people of Rochester may not want for amusement during Christmas week, Manager Moore will offer one of the most attractive bills of the season at the Cook Opera House. The headline attraction is "the queen of all Irish comedienne," Maggie Cline, who has enjoyed a wonderful record of popularity and everybody always insists on hearing her sing her famous song, "Trow 'im Down, McCuskey." Although she has a big repertoire of new songs.
Another interesting turn on the list will be that presented by the Culver Racing Team, which consists of Tom Butler and Harry Elkes, two well-known racers, who race on home trainers. Billy Clifford is a noted monologist, singer and dancer, and a very able entertainer. Oscar Sisson and Miss Esther Wallace, two quiet, refined actors appear in a new sketch named "My Wife's Presents." Almost and Dumont, the musical Hussars play upon brass instruments. Johnson, Davenport and Lorella, "the football players and the farmer," give a spectacular acrobatic turn. The Vilona Sisters, all trained musicians, play operatic and other selections on the violin and piano. White and Simmonds are described as minstrel comedians. Trask and Gladden offer a singing and dancing turn.

This is a strong bill that should attract the amusement seekers. Matinee is given at the Cook every day in the year, except on the Sabbath.

BAKER THEATRE.
"The Dairy Farm" which will be the attraction at the Baker Theatre the first half of next week, with matinees on Tuesday and Christmas

Day, was first produced at one of New York's most popular theatres, where it ran for 100 consecutive nights; the Chicago engagement broke all records in that city, 133 performances being given. The engagement at the Baker will open with a grand souvenir performance on Monday evening, when every holder of a paid reserve seat coupon will be presented with a handsome souvenir.

The management of the Baker Theatre will present for the approbation of our theatregoers, the last three days of next week, the latest claimant for honors in the musical farce comedy fields, entitled, "Are You a Buffalo?" The book is by Harry B. Marshall and the lyrics composed by Walter Webb.
