OUR AGENT,

Mr. A. Herman will visit subscribers in Auburn, N. Y., next week.

AUBURN.

Rev. James Keenan, assistant pastor at the Immaculate Conception church, Ithaca, was in attendance at the Forty Hours Devotion at the Holy Family church during the past week.

The Holy Name society of the Holy Family church, held a special meeting last Sunday to take some action on the death of Michael Farrell, who was a faithful member since the society was organized.

Rev. Father Winters, of Rochester, preached an eloquent sermon last Wednesday evening at the Holy Family church.

Joseph Byrne, of William St., spent Sunday in Syracuse as the guest of his aunt, Mrs. James McLane.

James Farrell, of Garden St., who was hurt by falling off an elevator in D. M. Osborne and Co., is improving.

The Forty Hours Devotion closed last Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock with a solemn high mass. Rev. J. Keenan was celebrant. Rev. D. Flynn was deacon and Rev. Father Rosenbogan was sub-deacon. Rev. Father Kelly was master of ceremonies.

Through the management of James Hennessy the Pirates of Penzance was a success and a handsome sum was realized.

PENN YAN.

Mr. Edward Hurly, of Rushville, spent a couple of days here during the fore part of the week. He with his brother, John, expects to start in business on Exchange St. in Geneva. Their many friends here wish them success in their new undertaking.

The Forty Hours devotion will open here on Sunday, March 2, and it is hoped that it will be largely attended. Many visiting clergy from different places are expected.

T. S. Burns has moved into his new home on Benham St.

There is a large class of children under the kind instruction of the Sisters here preparing for their first holy communion.

Our new church under the direction of George Stryker is progressing rapidly and now with favorable weather the work will be rapidly pushed.

The Lenten services held here on Wednesday and Friday evenings are largely attended.

Michael E. Guider has recovered from his severe fall which he met with a couple of weeks ago and is now able to be at his duties and will be found with T. S. B. on Main St., where he will be pleased to see his many friends.

There was but one mass last Sunday at 8:30, last mass in Dundee at 11 o'clock.

HAMMONDSPORT.

Mr. Leahy, of Livonia, was a caller in town Wednesday.

Mrs. Lucy Carpenter returned to California on Monday after an extended visit at the home of Leo Mason.

Father Kennedy was in Frattsburg, Friday.

George Eckel, of Niagara, was home on a week's visit at his home here.

The sermon on Wednesday evening was preached by Rev. James B. Keenan of Ithaca.

Mr. Joseph McCormick, of Bath, was a caller in town this week.

Lake Kenka is frozen from Penn Yan to Hammondsport. The ice boats have made several trips from here to Bluff Point. Skating is enjoyed by a large crowd every evening. A large area of light has been erected so the skaters do not undergo any danger.

A meeting of the St. Vincent de Paul society was held at the home of M. Fridell last Thursday evening.

SHORTSVILLE.

Mrs. J. Connelly, who has been very sick is somewhat better.

Miss Mary Crowley, of Victor, is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. J. Driscoll.

SENECA FALLS.

A serious wreck occurred on the Auburn branch of the N. Y. C. and William J. Mackin was one of the passengers who escaped being injured.

As it was announced in last week's Journal that the Rev. Father O'Connor, rector of St. Patrick's church, Seneca Falls, was seriously ill at St. Agnes Sanatorium, Baltimore, Md. Another telegram was received Sunday morning stating that Father O'Connor was quiet better but little hopes are entertained for his recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McKeon, of Mynderse street, are rejoicing over the arrival of a son born Sunday.

The Rev. Owen Farron, of Avon, was in town Tuesday.

Miss Alice Rogan, of the Central ticket office spent last week at the home of her mother in Rochester.

The Rev. Father Dwyer, of St. Patrick's church, delivered a sermon Sunday evening in St. Mary's church, Waterloo.

The Father James M. McGlew died on February the 14th at St. Rose's church, at Chelsea, Mass., where he had been pastor for the past thirty years. Father McGlew will be remembered by some of the older residents of Seneca Falls. Father J. M. McGlew was rector of St. Patrick's church, Seneca Falls from December 1860 to April 1861, coming here as the successor of the Rev. Father McMullen, and being succeeded by Rev. Father McGowan. May his soul rest in peace.

The Rev. Father M. J. Wall, of Stanley, delivered an interesting and eloquent sermon in St. Patrick's church, Wednesday evening, at 7:45. Stations of the Cross were held Friday evening at 7:45.

CANANDAIGUA.

Through the generosity of the children's Library Society a set of Father Finn's books has recently been purchased.

The quarterly new diagram will be distributed next Sunday.

No deaths so far this month in the town. This speaks well for the industry of our citizens.

Hundreds of Millions of cans of Royal Baking Powder have been used in making bread, biscuit and cake, and every house-keeper using it has rested in perfect confidence that her food would be light, sweet, and above all, wholesome. "Royal" is a safeguard against alum, which comes in the cheaply made powders so often pushed upon the unwary purchaser. Caution your grocer never to send you any baking powder other than the "Royal."

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 100 WILLIAM ST., NEW YORK

Father Rosa, the eminent Vincentian, who conducted the mission here last fall will return to give a lecture in the Grand Opera house on the evening of the 17th. No doubt the reputation of the speaker and the patriotic and religious sentiment connected with St. Patrick will conspire to produce a crowded house.

The longest list of perfect pupils in St. Mary's school was read last Sunday twenty-eight. A record is kept of attendance, lessons and conduct.

The monthly envelope collection for the support of the school amounted last Sunday to $85.75.

The Holy Name society has recently purchased badges from Whitehead and Hoag and will have their reception in the near future.

CALEDONIA.

Mr. James Belleau died Sunday afternoon at the home of his son-in-law, John Kelly, age 86 years. The funeral was held Tuesday morning at St. Columba's church. Deceased is survived by his wife, two daughters, Mrs. M. J. Lee, Mrs. F. D. Woollett; two sons, Patrick, of Caledonia and Henry of Mumford.

The many friends of Mr. John P. Fitzgerald regret to learn that he will soon return with his family to Rochester where he has accepted a position as bookkeeper. For the past four years Mr. Fitzgerald has conducted the Home Laundry. He was a member of St. Columba's church and choir and the departure of himself and family is deeply regretted by all.

Rev. B. W. Gommenginger attended Forty Hours at Mt. Morris, Monday evening and at Brockport on Tuesday.

Miss Anna Cain, of LeRoy, spent Sunday with her sister Mrs. John Ball.

William Gurley, of Rochester, was a guest at St. Columba's rectory over Sunday.

LIMA.

Daniel Cummings died at the home of his brother Hugh in Livonia, on Feb. 2nd, aged thirty years. He was the fifth brother of his family to die in early manhood with few years between. The funeral was held at St. Rose's church and the interment here besides his kindred in the family lot.

James Tubbs was taken to the city hospital last week and underwent an operation with fairly good results. He is doing as well as the physicians expected and his recovery is anxiously looked for by his friends.

THE LAST IRISH WOLF.

Tradition Says He Was Killed in 1770 in the Wicklow Mountains. Ireland was much infested with wolves down to a period comparatively recent. That noble dog, the Irish wolfhound, has been bred from remote times for their destruction, says The Spectator. Lord William Russell

THE HOUND SPRANG ON HIS ENEMY, records in his diary that in 1596 he and Lady Russell went wolf hunting at Kilmunham, quite close to the capital. In 1710 a presentment was made in County Cork for destroying the beasts, and Macaulay quotes a poem published in 1719 to prove that they were quite common in Munster at that time.

A writer in the Dublin Penny Magazine was acquainted with an old man whose mother remembered that many wolves were slain in Wexford about 1730-40, and he cites a popular tradition that the last wolf was killed in the Wicklow mountains in 1770. The same writer narrates some interesting circumstances relating to the slaughter of the last wolves of Tyrone.

It appears that the people of those parts were much troubled by two wolves who committed great ravages upon their flocks. A reward was offered, and a noted hunter, Rory Carragh, sent for. He agreed to attempt the destruction of the beasts. There was a large stone built sheepfold which the marauders were accustomed to visit, and thither Carragh repaired at midnight, accompanied only by a boy 12 years of age and two wolf hounds.

"Now," said Carragh to the boy, "as the two wolves usually enter the opposite extremities of the sheepfold at the same time, I must leave you and one of the dogs to guard this one, while I go to the other. He steals with all the caution of a rat, nor will you hear him, but the dog will and positively will give him the first fall. If, therefore, you are not active when he is down to fling his neck to the ground with this spear, he will rise up and kill both you and the dog. So good night." "I'll do what I can," said the little boy as he took the spear from the wolf hunter's hand.

Carragh started for his own station, and the boy, entering the enclosure, crouched down within the gate with the dog beside him. The cold and darkness affected the child so much that soon, in spite of his danger, he dozed off into slumber. He was roused by the roar of the great dog as he bounded up on the wolf that was stealing by. The hound bit his enemy on the ground and so held him for an instant. Then the boy drove his spear with a good will through the wolf's throat just as Carragh returned, bearing the head of the other.

Str Arthur Sullivan's Successor. Professor Charles Villiers Stanford, who succeeds the late Sir Arthur Sullivan as the conductor of the Leeds musical festival, is a native of Dublin and has held the chair of music in the University of Cambridge since 1887. In 1883 he received his doctorate of music from Oxford and was afterward professor of composition in the Royal College of Music and conductor of the Bach choir. Among Dr. Stanford's works are an opera, "The Veiled Prophet," the libretto of which is drawn from Moore's "Lalla Rookh"; "An Irish Symphony," "The Voyage of Maeldune," "Fifty Irish Melodies," and old songs.

Church of St. Bridget. Early in June this year the picturesque town of Aragh will be en fete. A grand bazaar has been arranged for the purpose of completing the Church of St. Bridget, commenced in the summer of 1878 by the late Archbishop Reynolds. Very Rev. Canon O'Farrell is busy with the preliminary arrangements connected with the great fete, and he hopes to put forward a programme of amusements which will not fail to attract large patronage.

SHORT SERMONS.

An evil intention "perverts" the best actions and makes them sins. It is vanity to desire a long life and take but little pains about a good one. We all live in the midst of a paradise which might be ours, but which for most of us is hopelessly lost. Time is short; your obligations are infinite. Are your houses regulated, your children instructed, the afflicted relieved, the poor visited, the work of piety accomplished? They that deny a God destroy a man's nobility, for certainly man is of kin to the beasts by his body, and if he be not of kin to God by his spirit he is a base and ignoble creature. Do not for a moment deceive yourselves by thinking that venial sins are what are called little sins. There is no such thing as a little sin. Such sins displease God, and can any sin be small that displeases God?

WHEN SOMEONE PRAYS TO MARY.

There is no grief, however near, There is no shade of pain or fear, That will not quickly disappear, When someone prays to Mary.

The whispered plea from marble walls, The mournful cry from prison walls, Not one is lost, whoever calls, When someone prays to Mary.

Through dangers passing here and there, The hand of death seems everywhere; He needs it not who knows the care, And loving thought of Mary.

O happy heart, that has its nest Where care and sorrow never rest; Where charity's the only guest; And someone prays to Mary.

—Jennie M. Flynn.

TRUE FRIENDS.

Oh, friends, who brightened clouded hours, How fondly I recall, Encouragement from all; Through sorrow's tears there ever gleams, This ray of light Divine, My friends, you'er were true to me In days of "Auld Lang Syne."

How rough the mountain seemed to climb When all alone was I, But Oh! easy of ascent When friends, true friends stood nigh, Your kindly looks and loving words Made smooth this path of mine; God bless my friends, my own true friends, The friends of "Auld Lang Syne."
