

OUR IRISH LETTER

NEWS FROM ALL THE COUNTIES OF IRELAND.

What is Being Done by the People at Home—Various Items From Every Section of the Emerald Isle.

CONNAUGHT

GALWAY.—Mrs. Margaret Burke, 91 years, died March 10 at the extraordinary age of 91 years, deeply regretted.

In the British concentration camp called Bessie, in Orange River colony, died Dr. Frederick A. Madden, son of the late John Madden, Coughterard, Enteric fever caused death.

Great astonishment was felt by all who saw a man named Mannion fall from an upper window at Mr. Brennan's in Shop street, Galway, on March 5 to find that he reached the ground on his feet and was uninjured. He had a wonderful escape.

Very Rev. Father Dooley, P. P., Galway, blessed the new buildings at the Wood Quay, Galway, March 5 and named them St. Brennan's Terrace. The buildings comprise very fine three-story houses and shops, built by Messrs. Croonan and Fitzpatrick, Prospect Hill. The street at the back at Sacken, is named St. Brendan's avenue.

LEITRIM.—The Irish language class inaugurated in Borneo last year has made great progress under Mr. John Bohan, who has thrown himself into the movement with earnestness. It is hoped that the people of South Leitrim will soon arise from their apathy and fall into line with so good and so holy a cause.

The death of Mr. James O'Neil, brother of Mr. Alexander O'Neil, merchant, Longford, who was only 35 years old, happened on February 24 at Clonsilla. The number attending the funeral to Drumlish county, Longford, was the largest ever seen in the neighborhood, 170 vehicles being counted.

MAYO.—The Congested Districts Board stores in Claremorris were destroyed by fire recently, and almost £7000 worth of property was consumed.

Mr. John Dillon is to be one of the directors of Messrs. Dug & Co., general dealers, Ballinacorney. The other members of the board are Mrs. Deane and Mr. James Gilmore. The capital of the new limited company is £135,000 in 5400 shares of 25 each.

ROSCOMMON.—A Fine Example.—They know how to revive Irish industries. They work in that way does more good than a bundle of talk and resolutions. They would must have a guarantee with soap, starch, candles, sheetings, blue, blankets, etc. frizzes, flannels, tweed, etc., that all are of Irish manufacture. That is the only way to revive Irish factories and keep the people at home.

Mr. Peter Christie, Church street, Boyle, died March 11 at the early age of 48 years, deeply mourned. The funeral took place to Assvinn cemetery and was largely attended.

At the Roscommon Assizes on March 12 John Flaherty, of Cullmore near Strokestown, was charged with having caused the death of his father, Patrick Flaherty, on May 3, 1901. The prisoner was arranged on the charge at the Roscommon Summer Assizes in July, and at the Winter Assizes in Galway, and at each trial the jury disagreed. Flaherty looked pale and worn, but calm and collected, and did not betray the slightest emotion during the hearing of the evidence. The court was densely crowded during the hearing of the trial. Patrick Flaherty was shot in the face on the night mentioned when he was putting the mare in the stable after coming from Strokestown with his daughter Teresa.

SILIGO.—Mr. Edward O'Dowd, postman, Dooceville, died recently, aged 57 years, deeply regretted. During his last sickness he was attended by Rev. Father Gunning, Bunninadden. His funeral was large and representative.

A well attended meeting of the members of the Drumlease branch of the United Irish League was held lately at which Mr. John Travers, chairman, presided.

On Sunday, March 9, one of the largest and most enthusiastic meetings ever held in Cullcadda (County Sligo) took place in the chapel yard after Mass, for the purpose of establishing a branch of the Gaelic League. The whole congregation remained. On the motion of Mr. McGowan, N. T., seconded by Mr. J. Sheridan, a vote of thanks was passed to the Rev. Chairman and Messrs. O'Malley and Quigley, and the meeting terminated.

The priests of Ballymote having announced from the altar at the masses on Sunday, March 9, that a meeting would be held to found a branch of the Gaelic League, great numbers attended. On the motion of Mr. M. P. Quigley, seconded by Mr. J. Hannan, the Very Rev. Canon Loftus was moved to the chair. The Reverend chairman explained the objects for which the meeting had been convened, and his encouraging and patriotic remarks were received in so enthusiastic and appreciative a manner as to leave no room for doubt that the intelligent people of the parish of Ballymote are not going to be outstripped in supporting the movement which is bound to sweep the country from the centre of the sea, and re-establish an Irish nation. The following resolutions, proposed by Mr. Hannan and seconded by M. Davy, were passed with acclamation: "Resolved, that the meeting opening of this movement be held in the church of St. Peter and Paul, on the 15th inst. at 8 o'clock in the evening of the same day."

lishing an active branch of the Gaelic League, to be called the Ballymote branch, in our town by having Irish taught in the schools, and by generously contributing to the Irish Language Fund." "That we pledge ourselves to support the movement for the revival of our Irish industries by buying none except Irish manufactured goods, and wearing no clothing except such as will be manufactured in Ireland and made by Irish hands." "That we condemn and protest against the action of the Irish Intermediate Board in appointing a foreigner as examiner in Irish, to the exclusion of thoroughly competent Irishmen, and that we look upon such conduct as a national insult and an exhibition of that West Brillon shoneism disgrace."

CARLOW

CARLOW.—Mr. Peter Kelly died recently at Pollerton, the residence of his mother aged 32 years, deeply and widely regretted. Solemn Office and High Mass were celebrated in the church, Bennekerry, and were well attended by priests and laity.

On March 10, to mark their appreciation of his good qualities, and testify the esteem in which he is held, his friends in Carlow made to Mr. Dominick Cryan a presentation. The presentation was made in Mr. John Clowry's, Tullow street. Mr. Clowry occupied the chair. A number of toasts were proposed and responded to. Mr. Cryan, who was most popular in Carlow, is a member of a well-known Roscommon family, and the presentation was on the occasion of his leaving Carlow to join a brother in South Africa.

DUBLIN.—M. C. Oldfield, residing at No. 5 Hollybrook Park, Clontarf, aged 31 years, who lately returned from Liverpool, has been arrested, charged with having caused the death of his father during a struggle about a money allowance.

Rev. Dr. Donnelly, Bishop of Cash, has been appointed by the Holy See to the vacant Deanery of the Cathedral church of Dublin. Very Rev. Canon MacManus, St. Catherine's, has been appointed by the Archbishop to the Deanery of the Cathedral of St. Stephen's, and the Rev. Canon MacManus has been appointed vicar-general.

On March 9 a public meeting of the parishioners of St. Laurence O'Toole and their friends was held in the National Schoolrooms to raise funds for the enlargement of the school accommodation. On the motion of the Lord Mayor, Mr. T. Harrington, M. P., seconded by the High Sheriff, the chair was taken by the Archbishop.

The death of Mr. Walter Doolin, M. A., the eminent architect, happened lately at a comparatively early age, deeply regretted. At a comparatively early age he had won a place of distinction in his profession. By a series of beautiful specimens of church architecture, beginning with the Cathedral at Lismore, County Waterford, and culminating with the churches of Nenagh and Castlebar, he has left lasting monuments to his professional genius.

Always in the fullest sense a good Irishman he took an interest in the history and antiquities of his country. When a boy he was a member of the Dublin team of four in the All-Ireland rifle competitions. As a distinguished graduate in arts of the University of Dublin he was a resolute supporter of Catholic claims for higher education.

COOGAN.—March 10, at 93 Lower Mount street, Dublin, John Coogan, Doolin, at 11 Pembroke road, Walter G. Doolin, M. A., architect.

KELLY.—March 10, at 40 Kirwan street, Julia Kelly.

KIRWAN.—March 11, at 11 Brookfield terrace, Donnybrook, Kathleen Kirwan.

MORAN.—March 19, at Lower Mercer street, Michael Moran, of 5 Johnson's court, aged 52 years.

D'ARCY.—March 14, at 40 Sir John Rogerson's quay, Morgan D'Arcy, aged 81.

HALL.—March 13, at 2 Kenilworth Park, Haroldcross, Ellen Hall, senior.

CAMPBELL.—March 13, at 11 Eblana avenue, Kingston, Maria Campbell.

CONLAN.—March 13, James Conlan, of 26 Meath street.

BROPHY.—March 12, at Dowlingstown, Margaret Brophy.

CLINTON.—March 12, at 8 Old Mount Pleasant, Ranelagh, Elizabeth Clinton (Jizzie), aged 19.

TUITE.—March 12, at 36 Frankfort avenue, Rathgar, Thomas Tuite, brother of the late Rev. James Tuite, S. J., aged 68 years.

BIGH.—March 11, at 17 King's Inns street, Ella Bigh.

MAHER.—March 7, at 123 Capel street, Patrick Maher, aged 80 years.

POWER.—March 6, at 19 Upper Bridge street, Dublin, David Power, builder.

CONWAY.—March 4, at Gardner's place, Dublin, Mrs. Alicia Conway.

CORRY.—March 6, at the Private Hospital, 36 Eccles street, Dublin, Peter Corry, Wexford, aged 22 years.

DOWNALL.—March 6, Patrick Dowdall, 7 Bolton street, late of New street.

BYRNE.—March 7, at 24 Usher's island, Edward Byrne, who for fifty years was in the employ of Geo. Roe & Co., Thomas street.

KILDARE.—Mrs. Catherine Dobbin widow of Mr. Patrick Dobbin, of Timoline, died March 9, at the home of her daughter, in Moore, deeply regretted by her family and friends at home and in the United States.

Two interesting football matches were brought off at Kildare, March 9, between first and second teams representing that town, and first and second teams representing Ashy. They was victorious in first teams' contest, Kildare in the other.

KILKENNY.—Mother M. Cecilia Synnott, of St. Bridget's Convent, Gorebridge, died March 11, deeply mourned. Office and High Mass were attended by great numbers of clergy and laity.

Rev. P. Brennan presided at meeting of the Tullougher United Irish League on March 9 when considerable business of importance was transacted.

KINGS.—Thomas O'Reilly, son of John O'Reilly, Renenah, Edenderry, died March 11, in the Richmond Hospital. The remains were conveyed to Carrick for interment, great numbers attending.

The marriage of Mr. C. P. Kingston, secretary of the King's County Council, to a Clonmel lady, is announced to take place at the end of the Lenten season.

LONGFORD.—The members of the Granard branch of the United Irish League held a meeting in the Town Hall March 9.

LOUTH.—Mrs. Elizabeth Dowson of Chord Road, Drogheda, died March 12, deeply regretted by her family and friends at home and in the United States. The funeral to St. Peter's New cemetery was very numerously attended.

A boating fatality occurred on the River Boyne, near Mornington, March 9, by which Richard Rock, aged 19 years, and Thomas Munster, aged 19 years, were drowned. It appears that they in company with Bernard Rath, Patrick Crogan and Thomas Kavanagh, went into a boat, when it commenced to fill, and suddenly went down in the centre of the river. The last three named made for the shore and landed. The other two were drowned. The bodies have not yet been recovered. All belong to Drogheda.

MEATH.—At the patriarchal age of 90 years occurred the death of Mr. Edward Keefe, of Augher, deeply regretted. The funeral to the cemetery at Rathmoyle was very numerously attended.

Rev. James McGlew, pastor of Chelsea, Mass., who died recently, was aged 82 years and was a native of Navan. He pursued his studies in All Hallows' College, Dublin. On Sept 27 1844 he was ordained priest by Most Rev. Dr. Murray, Archbishop of Dublin. In 1849 he went on a mission to Hindustan, India, and in 1853 he came to the United States. He labored in various parts of what is now the Diocese of Rochester, N. Y., and then to Massachusetts. He was assigned to St. Patrick's church, Lowell, in 1865, subsequently going to Randolph and Avon.

During his stay in these places he built a church in Avon and purchased land for a cemetery in Randolph. He celebrated his golden jubilee on Sept. 27, 1898.

IRISH IN MEATH.—The Gaelic League organizer has made this report on the prospects of the Irish language in the National school districts mentioned: Kilsyre (female)—On rolls, 76, average attendance 56, principal teacher, Miss Raleigh, Irish not taught, as the teacher does not know the language, but will make every effort to learn as soon as opportunity offers. Carding, spinning, knitting and cooking taught in the school. Rev. Father Barry, P. P., is manager. Kilsyre (boys)—On rolls, 72, average attendance 50, principal teacher, Mr. Raleigh, Irish not taught, but teacher will learn at the first opportunity. On the day I visited Kilsyre schools I called on the Rev. Father Barry, P. P., manager of Kilsyre and Ballinlough schools, who informed me that he would leave the starting of Irish classes in the hands of the teachers as his own spare time was taken up with the industrial movement, however any move in the right direction would have his sanction. I called on Rev. W. Healy, P. P., Clonmel, manager of the Killallon, Clonmel, and Galinstown schools. Father Healy is in favor of the revival of the Irish tongue and promised to get a teacher as soon as possible to teach a night class in Clonmel. He stated that he was starting a Temperance Society in Killallon and expected every member would learn Irish.

QUEEN'S.—The Irish Class Committee of the Maryboro' Young Men's Society—Very Rev. Mr. Murphy, D. D., P. A. Meehan, chairman, Mark Walsh, chairman Town Commissioners, Patrick Kelly, honorary treasurer; and J. P. Dorris, honorary secretary—decided that during Irish language week, commencing on St. Patrick's Day, they would make a collection in aid of the Irish language movement, and invited the co-operation of J. J. Ald, P. Moran, Andrew Brady, James Ransbottom, Thomas O'Neill, Thomas Smyth, and P. J. O'Neill, in soliciting subscriptions.

WESTMEATH.—The death occurred on March 5 last of Mr. James Croughan, Mount street, Mullingar, after a comparatively brief illness. After Solemn Office and High Mass in St. Mary's, the remains were conveyed to Walshestown cemetery for interment, the funeral cortege testifying to the respect in which the deceased was held.

The Rev. James Murphy, P. P., Mullingar, arrived in Mountnugent, March 8, to make a collection in aid of the fund to erect a new Cathedral in Mullingar. Father Murphy was a curate in Mountnugent for years, so that Most Rev. Dr. Gaffney, who is a native of the parish, could not have made a better selection. On Sunday, at last Mass, Father Murphy made an eloquent appeal, and a good amount was subscribed.

Among recent deaths in the county were these: March 11, at Clonmel, Annie Skelly, sister of Rev. P. J. Skelly, C. C., College Hill, P. March 14, at Castletoina, G. Kate Kenny, March 11, at Martinstown, Crooked Wood, March 7, after a long and happy life of good will and charity toward his neighbors. Intimately associated with all the political movements of Ireland for sixty years, and an old campaigner of the days of '48 and '67, Mr. Daly was an authority on the phases of Irish political life. His loss will be especially regretted by the poor. The funeral left the parish chapel of Killybeg, and was conveyed to the Kilrumpet, and as his son is a member of the Ferryway Board of Guardians, that body was largely represented.

KERRY.—Mr. Denis O'Sullivan, merchant, Sheem died March 2, aged 80 years, deeply regretted by his family and numerous friends in Ireland and in the United States.

A large and representative meeting of the Kerry Teachers' Association was held in the Town Hall, Killarney, on March 8. Mr. P. Buckley B. A., T. C. D. occupied the chair.

Denis Curran died March 6 at Corrigour, near Cahirciveen, at the patriarchal age of 102 years. He was born on the 1st of March, 1800. He was of the respectable farming class, and brought up a family of sons and daughters at Clahaneinehan, but some years ago removed to the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Clifford at Corrigour. He was at the first cattle fair held in Cahirciveen, established by Daniel O'Connell, on Dec. 13, 1814, being then nearly fifteen years of age, and was always proud to speak of his attendance at the first fair held in the town of O'Connell. He took great pleasure in relating incidents which occurred during his life in connection with Ireland. He worked farm business until a short time before Christmas but was confined to bed for the last few weeks. He retained all his faculties to the end.

A meeting of the Committee of the Listowel Gaelic League was held in the Young Ireland Society rooms, March 8. Mr. D. J. Flavin presided.

LIMERICK.—The death of Mother Mary Patrick (Miss Berkerley) took place March 13 at the Presentation Convent, Limerick. The deceased was greatly beloved and esteemed by her friends and the community.

The mystery which surrounded the disappearance three weeks ago of Miss Bridget McDonnell from her home, near Adare, has been solved, her dead body having been washed ashore at Goleen, five miles from Killysart and one from Labasheeda. The body was found by a fisherman named Martin Moloney.

Died a Hero.—At the meeting of the Rathkeale Board of Guardians on March 5 Mr. P. O'L. Sullivan presided, and a large number of guardians were present. Mr. John Reidy proposed "that we hear with deep regret of the death of Mr. Thomas Naughton, a brave young soldier of the Irish Brigade who fell in South Africa fighting against English tyranny, and we direct our clerk to forward a copy of this resolution to Mr. Patrick Naughton." The resolution was passed in silence.

TIPPERARY.—Very Rev. Dean Kinalme and the Nationalists of Cashel have subscribed two hundred dollars to the Irish Parliamentary Fund.

Cardinal Vaughan, Archbishop of Westminster, London, has just appointed Rev. Richard Galvan rector of Holycross, Parsonsgreen, London, S. W. Of all the rectors in England he is the youngest. He is a native of Carrick-on-Suir. Four years ago he was ordained in Maynooth.

Mother M. Clare (Frewen) of the Presentation Convent, Cashel, died on March 10, deeply regretted. Mother Clare was born in the Glen of Aherlow, near Tipperary, and sprang from a highly respected family. Her brother (Mr. Robert Frewen) still resides in Aherlow. Deceased entered the convent forty years ago, and ever since she has shown herself to be one of God's most faithful servants, while her amiable and gentle disposition will be always remembered by those who knew the deceased lady.

The annual meeting of the members and supporters of the Temperance Hall, Catherine street, was held lately. Most Rev. Dr. Sheehan, Bishop of Waterford and Lismore, presided.

WATERFORD.—The death of Mrs.

WEXFORD.—A number of ladies assembled in the Gaelic Room at the Thelwell, New Ross, March 9, and decided to earnestly support the Gaelic revival by establishing classes in Irish history, language and music. Several inspiring addresses were delivered by prominent members of the Gaelic League Committee.

WICKLOW.—Three hundred men are now employed in the Wicklow quarries which were formerly worked by Mr. Parnell, but are now in the hands of a company. Trade was never so brisk as it is just now in the works.

A discovery of a unique and interesting character, said one of our exchanges of late date, was made lately near Arklow by James Byrne, who resides near the Woodenbridge. While looking for rabbits Byrne endeavored to catch one by inserting his arm into a burrow. In the operation, he considerably disturbed the earth, and the striking of coins astonished him. The sound of money diverted his attention from the rabbit, and having torn away some of the clay at the mouth of the burrow he unearthed a great number of coins. Some were silver and others copper, but all were of ancient date. Included among them were six shilling pieces. Byrne secured as many of the best coins as he could manage to slow away into his cap and left the coppers behind. He kept secret the location of his discovery.

CLARE.—The death occurred at Fahanuaughta near Ennistymon, lately, of Mrs. Donnellan, at the age of 102 years. Deceased was active and in possession of all her faculties up to a short time before her death.

Rev. T. Lee, of St. John's Parish, Limerick, on March 5, delivered a most instructive lecture on the life and labors of the late Eugene O'Curry, the famous Irish scholar.

The death of James Casak, of Clonony, a well-known Gael occurred in the hospital, Tulla, March 2. Though only 22 years he was one of the best players of a wonderful game in the Match Clare vs. Limerick, last October, and in other matches since. The funeral to Clonony churchyard was very large and representative. The members of the Clonony Hurling club carried the coffin to the grave. The members of the Clonony United Irish League marched next, and were followed by the G. A. Club, of Tulla, and a long procession of cars. The grave was decorated by Miss Lily Singleton, of Clonony.

Golden Jubilee.—The golden jubilee of the Rev. J. Cahir, pastor of Kilmurry-Ibrickane, was celebrated Feb. 26, in the parish church of St. Mary's, Mullagh, it being the fiftyth anniversary of Father Cahir's ordination. A gold chalice and paten were presented to him. He pursued his theological studies at the Irish College, Paris, and was ordained on Feb. 18, 1852. A St. Ignace Mass of thanksgiving was celebrated before a very large congregation. On the altar steps the presentation took place. The chalice of extra lace was manufactured by Messrs. Isane & Gunning Dublin and is a splendid specimen of Irish art and manufacture. It is chased and highly jeweled, representing the Sacred Heart with a raised town in the centre, while the paten has a figure beautifully executed of the Saviour.

The words "Presented to the Rev. J. Cahir, P. P. Kilmurry-Ibrickane by the parishioners on the Golden Jubilee of his priesthood, are on the foot of the chalice. The chalice is a gift of one presented to Most Rev. Dr. Croke, Archbishop of Cashel. Dr. J. K. Healy in making the presentation, said: "Reverend Dear Father, the great honor has been conferred on me of presenting this gold chalice and paten on the occasion of your golden jubilee as a slight token of the esteem and affection in which we hold you." Father Cahir thanked the parishioners for this beautiful and costly gift. He should never forget their kindness. His work was now almost done, and there was little for him while God spared him amongst them only to pray for them, and that he would do. Father Cahir's first curacy was at Monava, near Nenagh, in 1852. He went from thence to Kilmurry-McMahon in 1853, and in 1859 was appointed to the curacy of the parish of which he is now pastor. He was C. C. in Milton Malabar in 1865, from which he was promoted parish priest of Kilmacanogue, County Tipperary. Then later on to the important parish of Killysart, where he was until 1876, when he was once more sent to Kilmurry-Ibrickane on promotion as pastor.

CORK.—The death on March 10 of Mr. John Fox, first-class Supervisor of Inland Revenue in Cork, occasioned much regret among his friends in the city. He was ill for a very brief period only, and his demise at his residence, Janemount, Sunday's Well, was unexpected. Mr. Fox was many years in one service, and enjoyed the esteem of those with whom he came in contact.

Mr. Denis Donovan, owner of a trucking mill at Inchinogotagh, near Skibbereen, while engaged lately in cleaning the machinery, was accidentally caught, and taken around several times, sustaining injuries and fractures to his limbs. He was removed to the hospital, where he was attended by Drs. Jennings and Burke, and his position is considered very critical; however, he is progressing favorably, considering the nature of his injuries.

Members of the Council of County Cork Gaelic League held a meeting at 41 South Mall, Cork, recently. Mr. T. Hallissey Canovee, presided.

Mr. James Daly, one of the most respectable inhabitants of the village of Kilworth, was called to his last rest at Kilworth, after a long and happy life of good will and charity toward his

WATERFORD.—The death of Mrs.

Mary Flavin, wife of Mr. John Flavin, Clashmore, happened on March 8, deeply regretted. Solemn services were held in the local church. The funeral was very numerously attended.

ULSTER

ANTRIM.—The body of a woman was washed ashore March 11 on the North Twin Island, Belfast, and was conveyed to the City Mortuary, where it was subsequently identified by Hanna Poland as that of her mother, Catharine Poland. She left 69 Abyssinia street on Monday morning for the purpose of attending 9 o'clock mass in St. Paul's church, and as she did not return her friends were coarsely and anxiously waiting for her. Nothing is known of her movements from that time up to the recovery of the body under such melancholy circumstances, and there is no evidence to show how she got into the water.

On March 10 the remains of the late Mrs. Mulryne, wife of Mr. Patrick Mulryne, North Queen street, Belfast, were removed for interment in Milltown cemetery. The cortege was exceedingly large.
