

[Copyrighted by the Author, 1901.]

Synopsis of Previous Chapters.

(Continued from last week.)

"Why not favor them with one of your Latin hymns?" asked the manager. She looked at him and shook her head.

"Please do not mention such a thing."

How proud would Mrs. Eaton have been could she have seen her daughter this evening, as, with a grand dignity wholly unlike the humility she displayed in her Cecilia, she received the congratulations and praise of many a high and wealthy stranger. Cecilia to-day Cecilia had been looking over a pile of newspaper clippings which told how much she had been appreciated in various cities they had visited.

To Cecelia, listening with breath, every word seemed loud enough to be heard by all the world, she herself growing weak. She had the power to stop him, neither could she answer at once. Could he see her face Allyn might have

(To be continued.)

and parish work. For further information address the
William J. McAdam, S. P. M.
57th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

With the acquisition of the new and magnificent organ in the Cathedral here may please our readers to know also of the organist who is to preside over it—Prof. Eugene Bonn. After following the profession of music teacher for some time in Sandusky, Ohio, he returned to Germany again in 1873 to study in the conservatory at Munich, Bavaria for two years. Prof. Joseph Rheinberger was his teacher for organ and counterpoint. In 1875 when the then private royal music school was to become a state school a great concert was arranged for the Bavarian ministry. Prof. Bonn stood at the head of his claim that year and was appointed to play a solo number for the organ on the occasion. So well did he acquit himself of his task that Prof. Blumberg was his friend as well as teacher ever after that. He is the present possessor of several postals and a very important letter on church music from this great master.

At the Ohio music teachers' convention at Columbus, Ohio, in 1983, Prof. Bonn was elected chairman of the organ department as a result of the brilliant rendition of Chopin's 2nd Sonata in the organ concert. A now celebrated musician, J. B. Bonn, of Cleveland, Ohio, was among those organists who took part. For those did not serve as chairman of the department as he soon left again for Germany to study organ construction. Prof. Schwartz, of Munich. In the fall of 1988 he began his career as organist of St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York City. He is now completing his fourteenth year

Prof. Bonn takes great pride in the Cathedral choir. His praise for the zeal and faithfulness of the Indian gentlemen composing it is well merited. There is no better amateur choir in the land. The rendition of the church music from Palestine to Bethlehem has justly aroused the jealousy of professional singers and vocal soloists, but when it is considered how much they save the parish by voluntary enthusiastic service, it is not possible to carry on the expenses of the parish schools at the judgment and clearer understanding of the situation will turn this point into unbounded and just praise and work done by the Cathedral choir.

Knights of Columbus

The second degree was conferred upon a class of forty-one candidates last evening. Lunch was served and the degree work.

The K. of C. annual picnic will be held at Sea Breeze next week Thursday. The committee are preparing an elaborate program for the day's outing.

Rochester Delegation
The state convention of the O. W. W. Women's Benefactor League at Saratoga Thursday. The branches of the organization presented and it probably Rochester women will be among one of the state officers. Among Rochester delegates are Mrs. Whitman, Mrs. L. W. Miller, Catherine Ranber, Mrs. Helen H. Mrs. Addie Krebs, Mrs. M. M. macher, Mrs. Elizabeth J. Smith, Zwerlein, Mrs. Catherine, Mrs. Meyer, Mrs. A. Brown, Mrs. Mary May Baker, O'Neill, M. Jennie McCall, and Effie. The effort will be made to have a convention held in this city next

Our collection will sell on northern, who are in a hurry.
Journal, next week.
the money ready when we

Rev. 1974

(To be continued.)