Only two correct answers were received to the puzzle pictures last week out of a large number of letters. The hidden pictures were a little harder than usual and we suppose our boys and girls found some difficulty in locating them. We would advise our junior readers to try again. If at first you do not succeed, try again, should be their motto.

The names of these two who were successful are as follows: Helen Wolf, 481 Clinton Ave., N. Willie J. Young, 187 Lewis St.

Key to last week's puzzles are: No. 1—Turn picture so left side is down. Head of first man is between tree and boy's arm, nose at his elbow. Second man is over girl's head, his face in the foliage of the tree. For third man turn right side of picture down. Face is between boy and girl, the nose at boy's shoulder.

No. 3—Turn right side of picture down. Hidden boy's head is in foliage of middle trees, his body extending to tree at right of picture. Turn left side of picture down to find the mother. Her head is over chimney of chateau, body formed by girl's hat. Invert picture to find warden. His head is directly in front of girl's waist.

BASE BALL.

Standing of the Clubs to Friday A. M.

Table with columns: Club, Won, Lost, PerC. Rows include Immaculates, Corpus Christi, Holy Apostles, St. Bridget's, St. Boniface, St. Mary's.

Scheduled for Next Week. Tuesday, Corpus Christi vs. Holy Apostle Thursday, St. Boniface vs. St. Bridget's. Saturday, St. Mary vs. Immaculate Conception.

BAKER THEATRE.

Next week at the Baker Theatre will be given an elaborate production of "Reaping the Whirlwind". This melo-drama is the one which has done most toward establishing the reputation of its author, Mr. Owen Davis.

This play had its New York production at the Star Theatre on Sept. 17th, 1900 and was highly approved of by both audience and critics. The scene of the play is in France during the Franco-Prussian war.
