The funeral took place from the church on Monday morning at nine o'clock.

The reception given by the Ladies Aux. last Sunday afternoon was a very enjoyable event and the rooms were thronged with visitors all through the afternoon. The society has been doing earnest work during the past year, notably during the fair and at Christmas, and it seemed as if in recognition of this fact an extra large number of the congregation turned out to greet them.

The rooms were tastefully decorated with flowers and evergreens. From a large table daintily arranged and lighted with wax candles, a delicious beverage was served, the secret of whose mixing is known only to the young ladies. Music was supplied by Misses Isabel and Loretta Shaffer assisted by Mr. Nagel. Solos by Miss Amelia Zegewitz and recitations by Miss Katherine Burns also contributed greatly to the enjoyment of the occasion.

The officers of the society are: Pres., Miss Josephine Hoffman, vice-pres., Miss Elizabeth Otto; treas., Miss Louise Eitel. These ladies and those who assisted them did all in their power to promote the comfort and entertainment of all visitors and succeeded admirably in their efforts.

Key to last week's puzzles:

No. 1.—First robber is in the mountains to the left and above the girl. Turn right side of picture down. Second robber is directly beneath Westittles' feet. Old woman is in mountain to right of boy in line with his elbow.

No. 2.—Turn right side of picture down. Head of guide is above girl, his face in the foliage of the tree she grasps.

No. 3.—Invert picture. Attendant is in crotch near base of lowest "brother," on the same level as girl's hand.

No. 4.—Turn left side of picture down. First man is at feet of girl, his chin outlined by boy's jacket. Other two are in mountains in upper left hand corner of picture.
