Rose A. Dolan, one of the oldest subscribers of the Catholic Journal, having subscribed for the first issue and continued up to the present time, was buried from St. Bridget's church on Tuesday morning. She resided in Rochester for 20 years and during that time she made many lasting friendships and her winning personality insured for her a cordial welcome wherever she went. Miss Dolan was born in Ireland in 1853 and while a girl in her teens she removed to England and from there to the home of her aunt in Canada, finally settling in Rochester until 1896, when she returned to her native land visiting England, Wales and France, where she was about to sail for again when she was stricken down by death. She was a woman of generous and sympathetic nature. In an unobtrusive way she never failed to make life's pathway easier for those about her, and her memory will be fondly cherished by those who knew and understood her best.

Too short we had her with us

'Twas like a summer day,

Bright and beautiful sunshine

Too soon has passed away.
