

The Drug Store.

In an association of businesses or stores, such as this, the Drug department too often consists of a few toilet preparations and perhaps some patent medicines.

If you have that idea of this Drug department, you are entirely unfamiliar with it and your notion of its scope should be immediately corrected for our own good and ours.

Our Drug department is a complete, up-to-date drug store in charge of thoroughly capable pharmacists. It has not only a complete list of patent medicines and the most extensive line of toilet preparations you'll find in the city, but it has a prescription department in which you can place the most implicit confidence.

In sundries too, bound to save you money the same as on other lines. Take this list of Rubber Goods.

- Bulb syringe, with two hard rubber pipes, 25c.
 - Bulb syringe, with three hard rubber pipes, neatly packed in wooden case, 50c article, for 38c.
 - Pure gum bulb syringes, with four hard rubber pipes, 75c.

Five Minute Sermon

The False Prophet.
The word prophet means a person who being inspired by God, announces future events and foretells what will take place in the remotest times in regard to the people and religion by the immutable will of the Lord. But the name was also given to all good and holy men who, in the name of God, taught religion to the people; who corrected, advised, and consoled them unto eternal life, as circumstances required.

As plants are known by their fruit, so also are false prophets known by their works. Thorns will not bring forth grapes, nor can you gather figs from thistles. In the same manner a corrupt heart cannot produce good actions; and if a hypocrite does something now and then that is good in itself, you will in a short time discover the motive of his actions. A corrupt heart will strive to conceal itself, but its hypocrisy is revealed by its actions. The style of dress, conversation, recreation, amusements, friendships, etc. plainly show the true condition of heart.

A good tree cannot bring forth bad fruit, and a bad tree cannot bring forth good fruit. The same is the case with the heart of man. An humble, patient, modest, and devout person, a person fearing God, will, as a rule, not commit sins against those beautiful virtues, unless suddenly surprised by human frailty. But a proud, dissolute, and avaricious person will fall at the slightest occasion and show his true self, no matter how hard he tries to conceal it.

NO DOCTOR'S BILLS.

Physicians in Sweden Take What They Can Get for Service.

Do you pay doctors' bills? Some persons don't. Do you have an idea that the medicine men are in the same category with street railway companies and therefore to be "beaten" in season and out of season? Do not object to getting a bill from your physician, and object on general principles? Then go to Sweden. That's the place for you. That's the place where the doctors cease from troubling and the poor debtor is at rest. No doctors' bills go in Sweden. Who wouldn't be a Swede?

When you are ill in Sweden and require the services of a physician, all you have to do is to send for him. He is likely to be an efficient man and courteous to a degree. Your needs will be ministered to and between the times of feeling your pulse and taking your temperature he won't slip one of his profession cards in your hand and remind you that he charges $10 a visit. Nothing is said of payment, and your doctor looks after you faithfully until you have recovered. When you feel like liquidating the obligation you'll find that it is a case of write your own ticket.

If you have been holding a good office prior to your trip to Sweden, or have struck it rich in sugar, you may fill out your check for a handsome sum. The money will be accepted and no comment made. If you have been writing on space for some years or have picked the horse races wrong end first, you may send a small donation to the doctor, and it will be just as unemotionally received.

The Swedish doctor on his native heath tends the sick and make no rates. His wealthy patients pay him handsomely, his poorer patients give what they can afford; and the extremely poor give nothing at all. All get the same treatment. The system appears to have its advantages, but there are grave doubts as to the practicability of its adoption in America. It might resolve itself into similarity with the payment of taxes on property, the principles of which are so well known that a feature is made of the fact that certain rich men honestly pay in proportion to their resources.

It used to be that the doctors in the Scottish Highlands operated on a similar principle to that of the Swedish medicos. Scottish caution must, however, have finally stamped out the practice, for in the middle of the present century the custom was abandoned. Prior to that time the doctors had collected their dues only once a year. This was on a market day and when all the farmers had assembled the doctors would go around getting from the better class of patients $25 or $50 each, and from the poorer farmers as little as $1 apiece for the year's services.—New York Herald.

Lightning on Washington Monument.

One of the best evidences of the value of lightning rods up to date has been afforded by the Washington monument. It is capped by a small four sided pyramid of aluminum, which metal, so cheap to-day, was very costly at the time of the building of the greatest obelisk that the world has ever known. This aluminum tip is connected with the ground by four copper rods which go down deep into the earth. On April 5, 1885, five immense bolts of electricity were seen to flash between the monument and a thundercloud overhanging in the course of twenty minutes. In other words, the monument was struck fiercely five times, but it suffered no damage whatever. On June 15 of the same year a more tremendous assault was made upon the monument from the heavens, and the result was a fracture of one of the topmost stones. The crack still remains to show what nature can do in the way of an electrical shock, but the elightness of the damage is evidence of man's power to protect himself from such attacks. The obelisk is ideally located for attracting electrical assaults from the skies, and yet, while many times hit, it has suffered only once, and that time to a trifling extent.—Boston Transcript.

For Boys and Girls.

I should like every boy and girl to remember never to shout in a house. Never call to persons upstairs or in the next room; if you wish to speak to them go to them. Always be kind and polite to servants if you would have them be so to you. When told to do or not to do a thing by father or mother never object, but obey cheerfully. You may tell of your own faults and misdoings, but not of those of your brothers or sisters. Certainly clean your shoes before entering the house. Be punctual at every meal. Never sit down at the table with soiled hands or tumbled hair. Never interrupt any conversation, but wait patiently your turn to speak. Never reserve your good manners for company; but be equally polite at home and abroad. Let your best friend be your mother.—Scottish American.

Decrease of Marble Importation.

The importation of marble to the United States has almost ceased. It is only now and then that a cargo arrives, while a few years ago a fleet of sailing vessels brought many cargoes annually from the famous Carrara quarries in Italy to Philadelphia. Marble buildings seem to be becoming things of the past, and the tombstone-makers find little demand for marble tombs, slabs, or monuments. Granite has taken the place of marble everywhere, even in the cemeteries where marble shafts and slabs were formerly the only proper things. Granite, unlike marble, does not require very frequent cleaning, and looks well without being touched up for years. It also admits of a high polish, and does not show the marks of rust by contact with metal, as marble does.
