MRS. DAY'S DOINGS.

The Young Husband Kept None of His Business From His Little Wife.
"Well, dear," said Mrs. McBride on her husband's return from his office the first day after his coming home from his wedding tour, "what did you do to-day?"

"In reply he told the dearest little wife in the world all the matters which had occupied his attention since he kissed him good-bye after breakfast and watched him turn the corner on his way down town.

"At 10 a man called in reference to examining title for a piece of property. Think I can work up a bill of $100 for this case.

"Returned to the office at 1:15, gave directions to typewriter and then left for the court house, where I eloquently defended a young man who was accused of smashing windows. Proved an alibi for the prisoner and secured his release. Fees in the case $21.

"Returned to office at 4 and drew up defense in the malicious libel affair. This occupied until 4:45, when I dictated answers to the letters which had arrived during the day. Typewriter to finish the letters and mail them as she goes home.

"Expect to reach home at 5:30 and to be asked for an account of my doings at 5:55, when this schedule will be submitted.

"No, madam," he replied, "my name is Harris.

A Method of Measurement.
"There is such a thing as becoming too much devoted to the bicycle," said the young woman, thoughtfully.

SHE BOUGHT THE PICTURE.

Not Wholly Satisfactory, but the Details Seemed to Please Her.
She had on what they call "half mourning," to signify that six months had passed since her husband was laid away. She had stopped to look at some pictures displayed by a second-hand dealer on Grant avenue, and he stepped out to say:

"Sell you that beautiful steel engraving and carved frame for only $2, ma'am—just as good as new, and never cost less than ten."

"Two dollars is too much," she said as she looked more closely and exhibited more interest.

"Lock der door, Jim, an' keep de perloos out; die fight is a goin' ter be a record breaker"—Life.

A man with a small valise and a persuasive voice invaded a house on the west side the other day and introduced himself as follows:

"No, madam, now this work, as I was saying, contains directions for doing all kinds of needlework, all descriptions of—"

"Well, it does beat me! If I'd met you anywhere on the street I should have been just as sure you were Aaron Plunkett as I am that I'm standing here.

"I've tried that, too. You ought to have seen Sime Powelson laugh at a lot of candy I made once by following directions in a book! I can make as good molasses candy as anybody, but when I want the fancy kind I always go and buy 'em. It's the cheapest and best way in the long run."

A Gentleman from Boston stepped into a San Francisco hotel, a week or two ago, and seeing nobody but colored porters, said to one of them, while looking about for some white official to whom he could make known his errand.

HE SPOILED THE STORY.

The Proofreader Who Thought Mark Twain Had Seen an Alrabb.
It is a Denver newspaper tradition that the funniest bit of journalistic work ever done by Mark Twain was strangled by a too friendly proofreader.

"It was funny, Mark read it over and laughed until he cried. But the next morning when he eagerly scanned the paper he could not find his work. In an obscure corner he saw a two-line item stating that 'the Alcazar saloon was opened with appropriate festivities last night.' That was all.

"I've earned it," was the reply. "I saved your job for you last night. Maybe you don't know how the old man here feels about such things, but he won't have it if he finds it out. He's fired three men since I've been here—just that way."

"Yes," said Mr. Goozle to Mr. Goozle, to whom he was explaining the benefits of fraternal insurance societies.

"When one of us dies we all follow the lifeless clay to its last resting place and moisten the grave with our tears. And then the practical part of the Brotherhood come into play, Angelina, for we reach into our pockets and gladly contribute a paltry sum, the large total of which relieves the widow and orphans of our loved and lost brother from the pangs of want. Yes, indeed, Angelina, we are like a band of true brothers."

"Oh, blank dash the dog blamed old daggery blanked society!" he exclaimed. "The gold sweat-! old thing has doubled its assessments this month! Why, dash blank it, Angelina, fourteen of the gosh jiggered sons of satan have died this month, and I have to pay the bamboozled old concern four dollars and twenty-eight cents!" N. Y. Journal.

A well-known judge, noted for his tendency to explain things to hisjuries expressed in a recent case his own ideas with such force that he was surprised the jurors thought of leaving the box. They did leave it, however, and were out hours, inquiring the trouble, the judge was told one of the twelve was standing out against the eleven. He summoned the jury and rebuked the recalcitrant sharply.

On one occasion, when John Kemble played Hamlet in the country, the gentleman who played Guildenstern rather fancied himself as a musician. Hamlet asks him: "Will you play up on this pipe?" "My Lord, I cannot."

"I understand you have joined the literary brotherhood," "Yes," replied Lovelace; "I am now writing for a living." And he dashed off another begging letter to his father.

BRELEASANT AND KIND

TO EVERYBODY

If you feel cranky and out of sorts look to your Kidneys, Stomach, Liver and Bowels. Diseases of these organs causes nine tenths of all the mean feelings in this world. If your kidneys are not acting properly or are breaking down from Bright's Disease, there is only one remedy that will build them up and restore them to a healthy condition; that is, Mrs. B. French's Crown Kidney Cure.

MRS. B. FRENCH who has invented more articles useful to man and more meritorious medicines to cure his ills than any other man or woman.

It is the only cure for indigestion. Don't take artificial digestants; they simply relieve. Mrs. B. French's Crown Stomach and Liver Cure is the greatest summer tonic and blood purifier. It produces a beautiful clear complexion. For the blood taints and Scrofula use Mrs. B. French's Crown Blood Remedy. It is better than a trip to Hot Springs.
