COOK OPERA HOUSE.

One of the strongest bills of vaudeville of the season is scheduled for presentation next week at Cook Opera House. Molntyre and Heath, the famous blackface comedians, head the list. This team has always been immensely popular here. A capital monologue act will be given by Frank Bush. Clarice Vance is the most popular singer of coon songs that ever appeared in vaudeville in Rochester. Ziska and King give a pleasant mixture of magic and comedy; Bean and Hamilton are sensational barrel jugglers; Bimm Bomm Brrr give a clever musical novelty, and Pat Rooney and Emma Frances eccentric acrobatic dancers. This bill will be presented every day next week, with a matinee daily.

BAKER THEATRE.

Amusement patrons of Rochester will be pleased to learn that the new and thrilling domestic drama "The Child Wife" which has created such a furor in other cities will be at the Baker Theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Sept. 21, 22, 23, matinees daily.

MOINTYRE AND HEATH at the Cook Opera House.

NEWSPAPER WAIFS.

Corn—Love is a strange thing. Clara—Oh, I don't think so. I've been engaged seven times.—Yonkers Statesman.

"Say, boy, what did you kick that dog for?" "He's mad." "No, he isn't mad, either." "Well, if any one should kick me I'd be mad."—Truth.

Definition—"Faith," said the little boy after a week's study, "faith is believing something that you know can't be true."—Indianapolis Journal.

"I notice that some people claim that a doctor's whiskers may carry disease germs." "Why don't the doctors boil their whiskers?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Ruling Passion—"The marriage of the star and the leading lady has been declared off, I hear." "Yes, they couldn't agree as to whose name should be first on the wedding invitations."—Puck.

Bacon—None of the women will speak to Penman since he wrote his last book. Egbert—Why is that? "Why, didn't you hear the name of it? 'Women of All Ages.'"—Yonkers Statesman.

His Escape—He—Did you know that our minister once had a narrow escape from the Fiji Islanders? She—How? He—He was on the point of going out among them as a missionary, when he received a call from a congregation in Boston.—Puck.

"From this moment we part for ever!" he hissed. She turned upon him haughtily, regal even in the hour of her humiliation. "No, Fitzmaurice Maurice-Maurice," she answered. "I am accustomed to exact a week's notice from all of my husbands."—Detroit Tribune.

"Truly," mused the Sultan, "944 queens would make a full house." "I wonder what his game is now?" muttered the Grand Vizier. But at that moment the postman came with a number of ultimata from the great Christian Powers, and the conversation naturally sought other channels.—Detroit Journal.

Fuddy—I hear that Rosbus is going on the stage. In what line of business is he to appear? Duddy—Oh, first alone, he will only take small parts such as Richard III., Othello, and Hamlet; but in course of time he hopes to be able to tackle something larger—something in the farce-comedy line or burlesque opera.—Boston Transcript.

The great interest aroused throughout the city in anticipation of "The Kilties" the great Canadian Band to the Baker Theatre, Sunday evening, Sept. 27th proves that when a first class attraction is provided the people of Rochester show their appreciation in no mistakable manner.

National Theatre.

Two strong attractions are booked at the National Theatre for next week. For the early part of the week the attraction will be "The Cardinal," a strong drama which was written by Louis M. Parker for the famous English actor, Edward S. Willard. For the latter part of the week is announced the great melodramatic success, "The Factory Girl." As a labor champion it has already won its way to the hearts of the masses. There will be matinees Thursday and Saturday.

How to Rise Early. Thompson and Simms lived opposite each other in a narrow street. They were going on a fishing excursion the other day, and as they wanted to be sure to wake in time to catch the early train, they ran a bit of clothes line across the street in at the second story windows, and each tied an end to his leg, so that if one awoke the other would immediately feel a pull. The scheme was an excellent one, and we know of no reason why, under ordinary circumstances, it should not have worked well. But about five o'clock that morning some laborers assembled in front of Simms' for the purpose of erecting a telegraph pole. When the hole was dug they began to put the pole upon end. But, unfortunately, it slipped down with tremendous force upon the clothes line. Mrs. Simms was very much surprised to see Henry go over the foot of the bed and shoot feet foremost out of the window, but even she was not more amazed than Mrs. Thompson was when Archibald performed the same feat. They met in the middle of the street, clustering as it were, round the pole, but each with a broken leg. They wake themselves now with alarm clocks. It is safer and less exciting.

How to Rise Early.

Miss Dutcher's Waterloo. At the Omaha exposition, in the press building, there is a book in charge of Miss Dutcher, intended for the signatures exclusively of newspaper men and women. A few days ago a young man walked into the building and, after looking around, seated himself at the table before the register and reached for a pen. With newspaper instinct Miss Dutcher spotted him as not being a member of the profession, and in order to avoid offending him, said, before he could write: "Please put the name of your paper after your signature."

The gentleman nodded his head in acquiescence and wrote with a flourish: "John Jones, Leader, Cleveland, O."

When he arose Miss Dutcher explained by saying that she had trouble in preventing those who were not engaged in the newspaper business from signing the register. "Huh!" ejaculated the gentleman. "I ain't a newspaper man. You said write the name of my paper and I did. I always read the Leader. I run on the Lake Shore road.—Omaha World-Herald.

The Moon Man.

A number of persons were talking about telescopes, and each professed to have looked through the "largest in the world." One after another told of the powerful effect of the respective telescopes. At last a quiet man said mildly, "I once looked through a telescope. I don't know as it was the largest in the world; I hope it wasn't. But it brought the moon so near that we could see the man in it gesticulating wildly and crying out: 'Don't shoot! Don't shoot!' The old drifter thought it was a big omelette that we were peering at him." The quiet man smiled, and so did all the rest.

Then He Felt Cheep.

"So you have decided that they are not married? Why?" "She—He put down his catchet in order to snuff her while she stopped snuff the cat."
