

IRISH LETTER

NEWS FROM ALL THE COUNTIES OF IRELAND.

What is Being Done by the People at Home—Various Items From Every Section of the Emerald Isle.

Connaught

GALWAY.—The reports about the crops from all parts of the county are of the gloomiest kind. From the middle of July up to the middle of September of a century the crops have not been in so critical a condition.

The annual bazaar for the Convent of Mercy, Clarendon, took place in the convent grounds on Aug. 31. In the afternoon a concert which was well attended, was held in the school room.

LEITRIM.—A great demonstration, the rain fell in torrents continuously, and the wind storms were disastrous in their fury. During the past week will be held by the United Irish League in Ballinamore, Sunday, Oct. 1, when speeches will be delivered by Messrs. James P. Farrell, Denis Kilbride and John O'Donnell, members of the Nationalist parliamentary party.

MAYO.—Farmers and others engaged in agricultural pursuits in Mayo never since the year of the famine had more reason to consider themselves living under a cloud of suspense and anxiety bordering on the disastrous than they do at the present moment. Owing to the unceasing rain of the past weeks, farmers were unable to leave the crops, and enormous quantities of hay, oats and wheat are ruined. It is nothing uncommon to see in the low lands acres of wheat, oats and potatoes covered with water.

ROSCOMMON.—The Christian Brothers are opening a school in Castleroa. A school and residence for the brothers will immediately be erected in St. Patrick street; in the meantime a house has been secured for them temporarily. The well-known educational abilities of the Christian brothers insured for them a warm welcome in Castleroa.

On Sept. 2 the sub-sheriff of the County Roscommon, accompanied by a force of policemen and bailiffs, assembled in Corasallagh, Parish of Lisacra, to carry out evictions on the O'Grady estate. The evicting party halted at the house of John Doherty, who is in England, and whose wife and two young children live on a three-acre farm. Most of the farm is bogland of very bad quality, and for it Doherty is charged the outrageous rent of $5 an acre. Immediately the police force drew up in front of the house a great crowd of women assembled—the men of the district are in England—and they gave hearty cheers. After waiting at Doherty's house from 11 o'clock till after one, the sheriff withdrew, as the agent of the estate was not present. Three other families with Mrs. Doherty are under notice of eviction, and several more have six months' notice, nearly all of which have expired.

A splendid specimen of the Irish priest passed to his reward on Wednesday, (Aug. 28, in the person of the Rev. Martin Davis, of Cotehall. The sad event took place at the residence of his friends at Lennaria, Lanesboro', at an advanced age, amid scenes of general sorrow. Deceased was for a great number of years parish priest of Ballyfarin, Dysart and Four Roads, and by his traits of character earned the respect of all, irrespective of creed or class. Of late years he resided at Cotehall with his friend, the Very Rev. Canon Kelly, P. P., and shortly after the death of the latter he retired from active duty and went to reside with his friends near Lanesboro'. His popularity was unbounded in Cotehall, where open-hearted generosity will remain a monument to him. On Thursday the remains were removed to Ballyleague Catholic church, and on Friday morning solemn requiem mass was offered for the repose of his soul. The remains were interred in the church grounds.

SLIGO.—At a local government inquiry held lately into a scheme for laborers' cottages in Sligo Union, it was stated that one of the applicants, an evicted tenant, has been living with his wife and five children for past ten years in a hole which he burrowed in the mountain side.

Mr. James McDonagh, Loughbow, died Aug. 26, deeply mourned. In the Land League agitation Mr. McDonagh took an active part. During Foster's Coercion Act, he was arrested as a "suspect" and confined in prison nine months without trial. The first portion of his term was spent in Monaghan jail, from which he was transferred to Enniskillen. Afterward he was conditionally released, and he continued his labors for the cause of the people. Subsequently he was elected as the representative of Killadon on the board of guardians of Boyle Union. He gave a large part of his time to the cause of the people, and great regret is felt by his early demise. His remains were interred in the family burying ground of Ballinadon on Friday, and the long line of vehicles, which numbered 100, and the immense number of pedestrians which formed part of the funeral procession, testified to the respect in which he was held.

WICK.—The conditions surrounding the death of Mr. W. Lowry to be stated in the Sligo Union (Illustrated News) have been so elaborated as to the esteem in which the deceased was held. The following were the chief mourners: Mrs. J. McDonagh (wife); Mary Jane, Maggie and B. The grounds at the front of the mansion were fitted up in a style suitable for the occasion. The little ones' amusement was provided for in every way, and they enjoyed themselves. After refreshments the evening was devoted to all kinds of sports. Flat races, obstacle races, sack races and other games were carried out, while others played football. The boating on the Barrow was a special attraction. At the conclusion of the races prizes were distributed by the Earl of Drogheda. Lady Beatrice Moore distributed prizes to the successful school children.

The requiem office and high mass for the repose of his soul were sung at the parish church, Goresbridge on August 23. The funeral took place immediately after and was attended by great numbers.

WICK.—The conditions surrounding the death of Mr. W. Lowry to be stated in the Sligo Union (Illustrated News) have been so elaborated as to the government and its ——— at all times and in all places and under every kind of circumstances. They prove that the aliens in power did as they liked with the laws in the past when dealing with the Irish; but that time is over. Following up the refusal of the local Government Board to sanction the appointment of Mr. William Lowry to the office of clerk of the Birr Union, a series of side issues have been raised which make the position more complicated. Mr. Lowry, while a member and chairman of the board, was, on a Coercion Act prosecution, convicted on two counts and sentenced to five months' imprisonment, two of these with hard labor, which fact, it was understood, disqualified him from acting as a member of any public board. County Court Judge Curran, in deciding the appeal, admitted that, and purposely imposed on Mr. O'Donnell, M. P., in order that he might continue in office. In Mr. Lowry's case the judge refused to remit. Now the Local Government Board holds that the imposition of hard labor involves no disqualification, and that Mr. Lowry is a guardian still, and ipso facto must resign that office before he becomes a paid officer. As resignation needs six months' notice, the guardians are approaching the Local Government Board with the view to obtaining their sanction to an arrangement by which the resignation notice can now be antedated by half a year, so as to allow Mr. Lowry, acting temporarily, to have his appointment confirmed. His election was unanimous at a full board of seventy-eight members.

WICKLOW.—A report on the condition of the crops in Wicklow, dated Arklow, Aug. 29, stated: "For the past two months not more than four whole days' fine weather has been experienced in this district. The result of the incessant rain, which has fallen so copiously as to flood the lands, has been the almost total destruction of the crops in low-lying plains, rendering the prospects of the farmers of the most gloomy character."

The Very Rev. L. Farrelly, Aghrim, was the victim of a serious accident on Aug. 29. He was driving a Greenacre for the purpose of clearing a confession and connection with a report in the parish, when the bellyband of the harness gave way, and the trap heeling back, he was thrown on the road. His face was badly cut and bruised, and he was severely shaken. Surgeon Mcardie and Dr. Taylor, Rathfrum, attended to him. Last report stated that he was doing well.

Forty years ago he left Ireland for the United States.

On the lower panels the inscriptions are in Gaelic on two panels, and in French and English on the others. The upper panel contains the portraits of Allen, Larkin and O'Brien, and a crownless harp with a wreath of shamrock. The inscription upon the one panel reads: "Erected in the year 1903, by a Committee of Kilrush Nationalists from subscriptions received from Nationalists from Irishmen the world over, to the memory of the Manchester martyrs, Allen, Larkin and O'Brien, who were murdered by a tyrannical government of Britain on the 23d of November, 1867, for their rescue of Kelly and Desley, the Fenian chiefs, from the prison van at Manchester. God save Ireland." On another panel, in Gaelic and English, are the words: "Over the plot in which their calcined remains are lying in the prison yard no stone stands inscribed with their names, no emblem to symbolize their religion or their nationality; but to that gloomy spot the heart of the Irish people will ever turn with affectionate remembrance, and the day will never come when in this land that bore them the brave men whose ashes repose within will be forgotten." The monument will stand twenty-four feet high and measure at the base nine feet square, and be built throughout of Irish limestone.

The deceased did not return and his friends believed that he had gone to England. However, he was seen on the Ballyconnell road some time in the month of July and was not since heard of.
