Last Thursday was the feast of St. Agnes, patroness of St. Agnes Alter Society. A high mass was offered up during which the members of the association received holy communion. Praise of the recent play given by the Ladies Auxiliary is still heard on all sides. Many persons seemed to imagine that a play put on entirely latine was inevitably doomed to failure. Those who thought so have certainly been agreeably disappointed by the clever and artistic performance of Father Kenzel's historical masterpiece, "Claudia—The Daughter of Pilate." Even at this late day the scribe takes great pleasure in adding his mite of praise to that immense amount of commendation given by the press to Father Kenzel C. S. R., the author, to Father Kessel who rehearsed the company and to the performers who did so much toward making the play a success. Here's hoping that we may soon see a repetition of this play.
