COOK OPERA HOUSE.

E. H. Southern's first romantic success at the Lyceum Theatre, New York, was "The Prisoner of Zenda," a dramatization of Anthony Hope's brilliant romantic novel of the same name. The play is as fascinating to watch as the story is to read. This will give Bert Lytell, the new leading man, a splendid opportunity as he will assume the dual role of Rudolph and the King.

National Theatre.

It is probable that no stock company ever gained so much popularity in such a short time as the National Theatre Stock Company during the first week of the summer season. For the second week the comedy "Love Finds a Way" has been selected. Matinees on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday.

BAKER THEATRE.

There is no lack of atmosphere in "The Cowboy and the Lady" which will be presented at the Baker Theatre all next week by the Davis-Boyle Stock Company. It is redolent of the breezy West and it is worthy of general favor. Some how Clyde Fitch has the genuine touch, the affluence that makes things go. Writing purely American plays, he puts into them not only the virility of the scene, but deft and delicate elements that are refined and ample. Matinees Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.
