

FATHER KOENIC'S NERVE TONIC
It Saved Her Life.

Staunton, Ill., Jan. 1903.

My wife, forty-seven years old, was sick since about two years, so that she became nearly insane. Several physicians treated her, but without success. This cost about $500. She was then since about six months in a hospital, when Pastor Koenic's Nerve Tonic was recommended to me, which I gave her, and it cured her entirely, and I believe it saved her life.

R. Tenert.

Mrs. Hetz, of Dunkirk, N. Y., writes: "I thank God for the good which Pastor Koenic's Nerve Tonic does me. I was treated by four doctors and was eight weeks in a hospital, but it does me no good. I took but four bottles of the Tonic, which cured me."

FREE A Valuable Book on Nervous Diseases and a Sample bottle to any address. Poor patients also get the medicine free. Prepared by the Rev. Father Koenic, of Fort Wayne, Ind., since 1870, and now by the KOENIG MED. CO., Chicago, Ill., 100 Lake Street.

Sold by Druggists at $1 per Bottle, 6 for $5. Large Size, $1.75; 6 Bottles for $9.

American, All Rights
A countryman registered at a hotel in Kansas City the other day. He did not explain on what "plan" he purposed to become a guest.

"European or American?" asked the clerk.

The guest looked surprised. "American," he said emphatically. "Born and raised up here in Platte county. I don't look like no foreigner, do I?"

Circassian Beauty
Painting the eyes and eyelids is considered a great aid to the fascination of the female orbs. A Circassian is to be really lovely must, in addition to being very corpulent, have golden hair and jet black lashes. Kohl is used by the Persian and Armenian women to lengthen their eyes. The basar women and nautch girls of most eastern countries dye their finger nails with henna, and where they wish to be thought great ladies they allow their finger nails to grow to an immense length and keep them in finely wrought gold sheaths.

A Curious Tale
This curious tale of the Venerable Bede is told in the medieval "Golden Legend." One day, when he was old and blind, the desire to preach came upon him. An attendant led him to a spot where he faced a heap of stones, and Bede, believing that a human audience was before him, delivered an eloquent sermon. At the end, it is generally recorded, the stones cried "Amen!" so doubt to save Bede's feelings.

Headstrong
Mrs. Homer—Don't you think your husband is rather headstrong for an invalid?
Mrs. Neighbor—Yes, and the doctor is to blame for it too. Mrs. Homer—Indeed! And why, pray?
Mrs. Neighbor—He won't allow him to take any nourishment but goat's milk.

An Evident Alternative
"She married him in spite of great opposition, didn't she?"
"Yes. If her marriage doesn't turn out well she'll only have herself to blame."
"Good gracious! Why? What's to prevent her blaming him?"

Love's Labor's Lost
Poetries—Have you read Shakespeare's "Love's Labour's Lost"?
Clytem—No, but I've taken a girl to the theater and had her talk to the man next her all through the show.

The worst men often give the best advice. Our thoughts are better sometimes than our deeds.—Balfour.

Odd Art Criticisms
A young woman of great, perhaps too great, sensibility according to the Luncheon Advertiser begged to be excused from visiting a picture gallery which lived in an old-fashioned house where pictures of a certain period were in evidence. "There is an engraving of a blacksmith's shop in the dining room," said she hysterically. "You can't expect me to eat my dinner there, I smell the hooft."

A similar criticism came from one who suffered, not from overindulgence, but from something quite different. She was a woman of recently acquired wealth, who went into an art gallery and asked for a painting of a certain size. "I have just what you want," said the dealer. He showed her a beautiful animal painting, but she looked at it for a few minutes and then shook her head. "It won't do," she said. "I want this picture for my drawing room." "But it's a beautiful thing," ventured the dealer. "Not for a drawing room," announced the woman conclusively; "you couldn't have a cow in a drawing room."

Puzzles From the Greek
If two are a few, why not three; if three, why not four, and by a gradually advancing increment of number why not 10,000 or any other number? Or, again, if the loss of a single hair does not make a man bald, why should the loss of two, of three, and so on, and in ferentially the loss of all?

If, then, no addition or subtraction of a unit can transform a small number of wheat grains into a heap or a full head of hair into a bald head, how is it possible that either transition should ever be accomplished?

Take a grain of millet out of a bushel and let it fall on the ground, and it makes no noise. Take every grain in succession of 10,000, let the same happen, and no sound is heard. Then collect all the grains back into the bushel and pour it out, and the result is a great noise. How, asks Zeno, can 10,000 noiseless processes make one full of noise?

Trespassing
According to the common law of England there can be no theft of things which form part of or are attached to the soil, and there is no statute or penalty against the gathering of wild flowers in a field or wood. Most people at some time or other have paused at the fearsome legend, "Trespassers Will Be Prosecuted," printed on the menacing board which lawyers have described as a "wooden liar," for, as a matter of fact, the mere walking across another man's field is no more a criminal offense than to walk along the highroad. If the trespasser does no actual damage there is no ground for prosecution, with any hope of obtaining more than merely nominal damages, and none but a born litigant would dream of taking action. London Globe.

Frayed Cuffs
Among the minor arts of life of which we have lately given some instances is one which is sadly neglected. It relates to the treatment of shirt cuffs that show the first protest against the laundry's handling. The laundress is cruel, but the man who pares his shirt cuffs with scissors beaps folly upon brutality. With the first touch of steel the cuff is ruined. Light a match and pass it round the frayed edges (do not burn your wrist). The cleansing fire will remove the dross and leave intact the pure gloss of the cuff. A cuff treated with fire will last laundry generations longer than the cuff treated with steel.—London Chronicle.

Advertising and Success
Try to name the things in trade that are great sellers and yet are not advertised. You will not get far.—Boston Herald.

Our clear headed contemporary is right. The great successes of the commercial world are good things well advertised. There is nothing like "printer's ink" to turn a merchant's dimes into dollars. And there are such skill and power of interesting description shown by the advertisers of today that the columns devoted to their announcements are not only full of information, but are mostly readable and entertaining.—New York Herald.

No Rain Could Keep Him Away
Kathlene—It's little ye love me, or ye wud never stay away from me as ye did last evening 'jst because av a wee bit o' rain. Dudee Mike—Sure it wor a pourin' down foods, mavourneen, but it wor not th' rain that kep' me away from th' lough av yr' bivelyn eyes. Kathlene—An' wot wor it? Dudee Mike—It wor th' lack av an umbrella.—New York Weekly.

Poets and Irresponsibility
Poets are wayward creatures, largely irresponsible for their actions, or, at all events, provided with such a curiously sensitive and inflammable organization that we feel it would be unjust to judge them by ordinary standards.—London Telegraph.

Inherited
"Your daughter's music is improving," said the professor, "but when she runs the scales I have to watch her pretty closely."
"Just like her father," said Mrs. Nurtich; "he made his money in the grocery line."

Picking Pockets
"Picking pockets," said the reformer to the thief, "must be a difficult and precarious business."
"It is," agreed the pickpocket. "It is, until you get your hand in."

Settled
Meeks—The man who tries to change a woman's views is a fool. Weeks—How do you know? Meeks—My wife told me so.

AUBURN.
The lawn festival for the benefit of the Auburn asylum was a great success for the short time that was allotted to the different committees in which to get ready for the event. The large lawn of the asylum grounds was tastefully decorated with electric lamps and lanterns which added greatly to the scene. The amount will reach over $500 and is from the residents of Cayuga County only. The asylum districts takes in Tompkins and Onondaga counties, but they did nothing much to make the affair a success. The outside counties should do something towards maintaining the poor orphan children of the district and it is hoped when the event occurs again a large crowd of outsiders will contribute to the benefit of the asylum.

At Groton a lecture on "The Story Beautiful" was given by Father Mac-Corry and it was a great success. A special left Auburn at 7:30 p. m. with about 175 Auburnians. A large sum was raised for the church.
