

Changed My House from Darkness into Sunshine.

Mr. J. Crogan, of Somerville, Mass., 23 Dane Avenue, writes as above in regard to the effect with Father Koenig's Nerve Tonic had on St. Vito's Dance, with which his daughter was afflicted, and after a total week the Tonic restored her completely to good health.

Mrs. A. McCormick, 114 Fielder St., San Francisco, Cal., praises Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic very highly. She used several bottles of it for nervousness and dizziness and general debility. Took almost every kind of patent medicine which was recommended to her, but the Tonic cured them all. She thinks that she would have been dead if it had not been for the Tonic.

FREE A Valuable Book on Nervous Diseases and a Sample Bottle to any address. Prepared by the Rev. Father Koenig, of West Wayne, Ind., since 1876, and now by the KOENIG MED. CO., Chicago, Ill., 100 LaSalle Street. Sold by Druggists at $1 per Bottle, 4 for $4. Large Size, $1.75; 6 Bottles for $9.

Forty Hours.

The devotion of the "Forty Hours," will be held in the churches of the diocese of Rochester as follows: November 19—St. Patrick's, Danville

AUBURN.

The election on Tuesday was a signal victory for Catholic young men of the city, who did a great work in electing the following candidates for city offices: Joseph Hanlon, city clerk; Frank Steigwald, James Shayer, James Anderson, John Ginnity, Jerry Quill, supervisors and Anthony Magier, Charles Hollman as aldermen. The young men who were victorious in their fight are to be congratulated.

The fair for the benefit of the Catholic church in Groton will open on Tuesday night and continue until Thursday night. The fair promises to surpass anything ever given in the village. There will be several contests the principle one being for a diamond ring. Father Moran, the pastor, is working hard for the success of the affair.

The attendance at the St. Edward's mission is increasing and the church is filled to the doors at the high mass on Sunday mornings. The Sunday school of the mission is conducted in the afternoon by Father Fitzsimons.

A retreat is to be given to the members of the St. Aloysius church. There will be several preachers in attendance at the exercises and special services will be held for the working people of this large parish.

ITHACA

The Children of Mary will hold a meeting in parish hall Sunday, the Juniors will meet at 8 o'clock in the afternoon and the Seniors at 7:30 in the evening.

The funeral of Jane McNamara was held from the church Monday morning at 9 o'clock. Rev. Fathers Winters officiated.

The death of Patrick Leary occurred Wednesday morning at the family home in Plain St., from pneumonia. Mr. Leary is survived by his wife, one daughter and three sons. The funeral was held Friday morning at 9 o'clock from the church.

WILLARD

Mass was celebrated at the hospital on Sunday last, Mr. Hendrick officiated.

Mr. Hendrick had been absent for some time on account of illness and we were pleased to see him among us again and thankful to know that he had entirely recovered.

There will be a regular meeting of Branch 377, L. C. B. A. on Nov. 14.

Mrs. Patrick Ryan is visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Duffy.

The Misses Mary Rielly and Mary Ryan spent Wednesday in Geneva.

Miss Mary Donly is spending a month with friends in Syracuse.

CANANDAIGUA

Prayers were said Sunday for Mrs. William McMahon of Canandaigua, and for the mother of Rev. Joseph Graham, Albany.

The Holy Name and men of the parish will receive holy communion next Sunday.

Therequiem this week were for Mrs. Ann Quigley, Monday; Al Soule, Tuesday; Mrs. E. Rogers, Thursday.

The C. Y. M. A. social last Thursday evening netted $30.

The November subscription will be taken up next Sunday. Notwithstanding Mrs. Thompson's recent kindness, there are manifold obligations pressing upon us which call for even an increase of generosity, if possible, on the part of the good people of the parish.

The carpenters at the new church are busy taking down the scaffolding and will be ready to see some of the oak floor this week. The DeWitt company have put up a new relief sample station, and The Rose of New York is putting in three stained glass windows.

Friday evening of next week a concert will be given at Bemis hall by Mr. Jamie Chase, Leo Piccoli, Mr. Marvins Barr, baritone, Miss Helen Marie Rumsey, reader and Mr. Henri Appy, violinist—some of the best talent in Rochester.

NATIONAL THEATRE.

Messrs. Wells, Dunne & Harlan, those masters of musical comedy successes will present their best production "Nancy Brown," with Mary Marble in the title role, at the National Theatre next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday matinees.

Charles E. Blaney's startling detective story, "The Child Slaves of New York," will be seen at the National Theatre, Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week. As a play it is decidedly original, as the story begins with the rise of the curtain on the prologue, and the auditor is unable to form a conclusion as to the ultimate outcome until the curtain falls on the startling climax of the last act.

BAKER THEATRE

A production that probably interests more people in more different ways than any that has yet been made is that announced by the Moore Stock Company for next week, a careful and correct presentation of Shakespeare's "Merchant of Venice." The successes this company has already made in a series of widely contrasted plays is common knowledge and the selection of a Shakespearean play at this time is opportune. The stage version of the play that will be used is from the prompt book of the late Edwin Booth, arranged to suit modern ideas in a way that has proven very successful with other stock companies. It is arranged without division into acts, being presented in six scenes, doing away with the objectionable change of scene which occurs so frequently in the original. The play will be presented all next week with matinees on Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday.

To-morrow night the first of a series of popular Sunday night concerts will be given at the Baker.

Cook Opera House.

The bill of vaudeville to be presented next week at the Cook Opera House will be headed by Sis Hassen Ben Ali's Tootoonian Anze. A dozen dusky sons of the desert will perform a long program of sensational gymnastic feats. Bert Cootie the famous English comedian, will present "A Lamb on Wall Street." Dogs fixed up to look like alligators, lions, leopards, tigers and other fierce animals. This is said to be a very amusing act, especially pleasing to the children. Snyder and Buckley, the funny German comedians, will give the act in which the funny German, Blatz, is eternally searching for a drink. The Italian Trio of singers; Geo. W. Day, a monologist, and Chassano, making shadow pictures with his feet, will present entertaining acts. The kinetograph show new moving pictures. Matinees are given daily. A concert will be held to-morrow evening.

AWAKEN, HEART!

By S. E. Hampton.

Good morning Spring! The good you bring— Resurrecting Earth's dead treasures; Filling overflowing measures— Is wondrous thing!

On Winter's tomb The flowers bloom; And cold, damp, dreary days no more Bring want and woe to humble door, And darkened room.

The busy bee Hums merrily; Hovering o'er each opening flower, And shading every idle hour Passed thoughtlessly.

The mating birds— Sweet singing birds— Whistling soft and low and clear, From Southland come for nesting here, O, happy birds.

Awaken, heart!— My slumbering heart— See God's divinest gifts unroll, Then be the garden of my soul Where Faith may start.

The Child of Today.

I think that many people are beginning to regret the fact that a really childish child is becoming something of a rarity. There always have been, and no doubt will continue to be, those children of abnormal mental development known as prodigies. But this year they have been before the public in astonishing numbers, either as musicians, poets, artists or preachers, and perhaps by very reason of being overdone the craze for prodigies will die a natural death. For, as some one has remarked, the concert platform applause, which in some cases has almost developed into hysteria, late hours, and the long months and years of practice, must necessarily prove deleterious to the later life of these "infant phenomena."

The same writer also enlarges on the social rounds of fashionable children old before their time. There, orate suppers, with in some instances champagne, as the various festivities which combine to make modern children old before their time. There can be no doubt that the late hours, little sleep, and an absence of healthy outdoor life, are all phases to which children are growing accustomed in too many instances, though there are many people whose children—and royalty's in the front rank—lead natural and simple lives. For in the main children infinitely prefer simplicity of regime.

Before Formosa passed into Japanese hands, 20,000 Chinese-coolies were imported every year during the tea picking season. The number now is less than 6,000, the Japanese employing their own coolies.

STERN CODE OF THE HINDUS.

Ideal of Truthfulness Held High and Carefully Practiced.

Absolute self-mastery is the ideal of a Hindu, writes Swami Abhedananda in Good Housekeeping. Every man and woman in India struggles hard to accomplish it by practicing austerities, fasting and various kinds of devotional exercises. The householder is not supposed to indulge in the desires of the flesh. He should practice moderation in eating and drinking. He should hold the ideal of simple living and practice it in his daily life. The Hindu men and women are not allowed to drink liquors, and the higher the social rank the more rigorous becomes the law of self-restraint.

The majority of the Hindus live strictly upon vegetarian diet, and do not eat animal flesh. They do not kill animals for food, and they train their children to practice this virtue of non-killing. They do not believe that lower animals are created to sustain human life; but, on the contrary, they hold that in the process of evolution the life of the lower animal is as important as that of the human being.

There are many families in India whose ideal is to sacrifice everything for the sake of truth, because they believe that the eternal truth cannot be realized by one who is not absolutely truthful.

Feathers on Hire.

Ostrich plumes are as much of a necessity to the London coster girl on her outings as are the pearl buttons to her masculine companion, and the big trimmed hats with their drooping feathers are familiar in all gatherings of this class. Many of the girls cannot afford to keep their money tied up in useless plumes, and there thrives a brisk industry in the hiring of these feathers. The loan of a single plume for a day costs but 1s., or for 4s. a gorgeous trio may be had for an outing, to be returned promptly the next morning. Weather conditions determine the terms somewhat, since a wet, foggy day will take the curl out of the feathers and make recurring necessary, for which "Arriet" has to pay an extra 1s. On a bank holiday some shops rent out several hundred plumes, while on other occasions there is a steady trade with young women who wish to adorn themselves for an outing.—London Tit-Bits.

Basket Egg, French Novelty.

Baskets the shape of an egg represent novelty in Easter souvenir line for little folks, and the small boy or girl who to-day received one of these wicker or straw receptacles with a tiny doll, a miniature train of cars or toy animal concealed therein may feel certain that he or she has the latest thing in tokens of the day. The idea is a French one and the baskets come in a number of pretty shades and combinations.

A Filmfam Explained.

Senator Depew was explaining to a clergyman the slang term "to filmfam."

"To filmfam," he said, "is to confuse a man's mind to such a degree that he actually consents to, and concurs in, his own cheating."

"Now, permit me to give you an illustration of filmfam."

"A boy goes to a grocer and asks for a pint of molasses."

"Put the molasses, sir," he says, "in this ptocher."

"The grocer draws the molasses in a pint measure, pours it into the ptocher and hands it to the boy."

"But the boy, looking at the measure, exclaims:

"See here, you haven't given me all my molasses. There's some still sticking to the bottom of the measure."

"Oh, that's all right, sony," says the grocer easily. "There was some in the measure before."

"Thereupon the filmfammed boy goes off content."

First Aid to the Injured.

On a rock strewn beach on the Cornish coast the fury of a violent storm was just abating. A vessel had gone to pieces on the rocks, and after a display of much heroism on the part of the villagers all the crew and passengers had been saved, with the exception of one man. He had been washed ashore apparently drowned, and the new curate knelt at his side on the beach, endeavoring to restore his circulation.

"My friends," he said, turning to the villagers, "how do you usually proceed in these cases?"

"As one man the simple folk replied, "Search his pockets."—Exchange.

Terrible Tragedy.

A cry of horror burst from the vast assemblage. Thousands of willing hands would have averted the catastrophe if possible, but everybody realised that nothing could be done. Strong men groaned in anguish, and fair women looked on with pale cheeks and glistening eyes.

What had happened? Was it a horrible accident? Worse than that!

Oh, far worse! The man at the bat had struck out, leaving three men on bases, and the home team had lost the game.—Chicago Tribune.

Concerning Seasickness.

Two Congressmen, discussing the discomforts of travel, happened to branch off on to the subject of seasickness. One of them said:

"Talk about seasickness; the fellow that traveled with me on my last European trip beat anything I ever met in all my experience before. I tried all sorts of remedies on him, but without avail. He kept repeating, 'Oh, I am so sick—I am so sick.'"

"Finally I cried out, 'Can't you keep anything on your stomach?'"

"Only my hands, Tom; only my hands."—Harper's Weekly.

TOO HIGH FOR A START.

Embarrassing Situation Relieved by a Ready Man.

N. O. Goodwin, the comedian enjoys telling of an amusing incident at the performance of a burlesque in which in the old days he was a principal performer.

It seems that a young woman, well known in Buffalo for her amateur work, had been given an opportunity to prove her claim to availability on the professional stage. She was billed to render a song, the refrain of which was, "The autumn days have come; ten thousand leaves are falling." The aspirant for professional honors was in so extreme a state of excitement that she took too high a key, "Ten thousand—she screamed, and then stopped short, for want of breath.

"At this critical juncture," observes Goodwin, "some irresponsible 'god' in the gallery, perhaps an auctioneer by calling, shouted in a stentorian tone:

"Start it at five thousand, old girl! Start it at five thousand!"

To wash light cambrics and prints, dissolve a tablespoonful of alum in enough lukewarm water to rinse a dress. Dip the dress into it, taking care to wet thoroughly every part of it, and then wring it out. Have warm not hot, suds ready and wash the dress quickly, rinse it in cold water. White castle soap is best for colored cottons. Have the starch ready, cooled a little; rinse the dress in it, wring it out and hang it wrong side out to dry where the wind will strike it rather than the sun. When dry, iron directly. Prints should never be sprinkled, but, if too dry, they should be ironed under a damp cloth. It is better to wash them when the ironing can be done at once.
