Lady Butler, who was recently staying with her husband, General Sir William Butler, at the Railway hotel, Muiranny, presented Father Varden, Muiranny, with a water color drawing of Clew bay, which she made during her visit, and gave the reverend gentleman permission to have it raffied for the fund for the erection of the new church. Tickets were bought not only by the people of the districts, but by tourists, including many distinguished people from al. parts of the three kingdoms, while exiled friends in the United States were generous purchasers. The result of the raffle, which took place at the Ballway hotel, was awaited with much interest. The winning number was 424, drawn by the twoyear-old child of a local shopkeeper, and the name on the duplicate was "The Right Hon. John Atkinson, M. P., Attorney General For Ireland," who, during his recent tour with the chief secretary, purchased some tickets. The drawing realized $500.
