EASTER HYMN

O lustrous morn., with thy efulgent rays,
Our hearts go forth in grateful songs of praise
Unto the light that glows,
That dissipates the shades of night,
As from the vaulted sky gleam so bright
O'er earth a radiance throws;

While nature, with restoring spirit, lends,
Her soul unto the hour, wherever blends
A grand awakening time,
The voice of joy resounds from east to west,
For all with great reviving power are blest,
Within the glorious shine.

O, Easter morn., that dawns with visions bright
Of resurrected life, that doth our souls enlight
And gives a hope that cheers
Us over onward, as we journey through
Those paths so strewn with cypress and yew,
O'er-watered with our tears.

We hail thee and triumphantly we sing
Of light and life and Christ, the conquering King
Who rose on this blest morn.,
Subduing death and sin, and opened wide
The grave where lay our Lord, the Crucified,
Ere sheen did earth adorn.

With cheerful voice we join the organ's peal,
Rejoicing as in humble prayer we kneel,
That Christ from tomb did rise—
That for our sakes He lives again to save
And e'er will lead me through the darkness grave
Unto sweet paradise.

We banish dismal thoughts, Great joy dispels
The gloom and He to-day no longer dwells
Where sorrow doth abound;
Now with angelic hosts we chanting sing
Of risen Christ, our Saviour, Lord and King,
And happiness new found.
Emmaline A. Wilson.

Computing the Date of Easter.
The exact date is determined from the following conditions:

First, Easter must be celebrated on a Sunday; second, this Sunday must follow the fourteenth day of the paschal moon, so that if the fourteenth of the paschal moon falls on a Sunday, then Easter must be celebrated on the Sunday following; third, the paschal moon is that of which the fourteenth day falls on, or next follows, the day of the vernal equinox; fourth, the equinox is fixed invariably in the calendar on March 21.

From these conditions it follows that the paschal full moon, or the fourteenth of the paschal moon, cannot happen before March 21, and that Easter consequently cannot happen before March 22. If the fourteenth of the moon falls on the twenty-first, the new moon must fall on the eighth; for twenty-one minus thirteen equals eight; and the paschal new moon cannot happen before the eighth.

If the new moon were to fall on the seventh, then the full moon would arrive on the twentieth, or the day before the equinox. The following moon would be the paschal moon. But the fourteenth of this moon falls at the latest on April 18 or twenty-nine days after the March 20; for by reason of the double exact that occurs on April 4 and 5, this lunation has only twenty-nine days. Now, if in this case, taken as illustration, April 18 is Sunday, then Easter must be celebrated on the following Sunday, or April 25. Hence, Easter Sunday cannot fall earlier than March 22 or later than April 25.

In 1886 it fell on the latest possible date, April 25, and it will not again fall on that date until 1943, which will be the only year in the twentieth century when it will happen so late.

In 1818 it fell on March 22, the earliest possible date, and not again so early during the century will be in 1918, when it will happen on March 22. Twice more during this century will it fall on April 23—in 1916 and 2000.

Date of Russian Easter.

Sometimes the Russian Easter corresponds with that feast in the Western Church, sometimes it falls a week later. The chief reason is this: In the Eastern Catholic Church the rule is that Easter shall neither precede nor coincide with the Jewish Passover, but must follow it, whereas the Western Church pays no attention to this point.

Rochester Trust and Safe Deposit Co.

The Oldest and Largest Trust Company in the State Outside of Greater New York

The new home of the Rochester Trust and Safe Deposit Co., South West corner of Main and Exchange Streets, adds another building to the growing list of those which house, practically upon the entrance floor, a single institution in a structure of monumental character and of artistic importance. It would be difficult, perhaps, to overestimate the value to Rochester of such a building.

It raises the whole standard of building and of design, and forms a central point of interest to every one that sees it.

In an announcement of this kind it would be impossible to adequately describe the many modern conveniences in this banking institution, and we therefore invite your attention to a more complete description in detail, in an article entitled "Notes on the Rochester Trust and Safe Deposit Co.," published in another part of this paper.

The Officers and Directors of the Rochester Trust & Safe Deposit Company, of Rochester, N. Y., beg to announce the removal of the company to its new building, corner Main Street West and Exchange Street, where they will receive with pleasure the patrons of the company and their friends.
