At Cliff Haven

Fourth Week at Champlain Assembly

(Written for The Journal)

The past week has been a memorable period at Cliff Haven. Events of more than ordinary importance have crowded each day and each hour. A particular feature of the week has been the large number of distinguished visitors in attendance. Chief among them may be mentioned the Bishop of Buffalo, Rt. Rev. Charles H. Colton, D. D.; the president of Fordham University, Rev. Daniel J. Quinn, S. J.; the well-known Catholic poet, John Jerome Rooney, of New York city, and his wife, who as Miss Marie Collins enjoyed the reputation of being one of the most gifted dramatic readers on the American platform; Frank Keenan, the actor who scored so pronounced a success last year in the Bolasco production of the Girl of the Golden West; Rev. Robert Schwickerath, S. J., the eminent clergyman who has recently been brought into prominence by his scholarly and able defence of Jesuit education, and Rt. Rev. Magr. M. J. Lavelle, V. G., and Rev. D. J. McMahon, D. D., of New York City, two former presidents of the Catholic Summer School. This week has brought a number of men eager to study the workings of the School. The middle west is represented by Rev. E. J. Blackwell and Prof. N. G. Rohan of Milwaukee, who have come to gain ideas for a similar institution in their part of the country. A fine old Irish scholar and gentleman, Rev. T. L. O'Mahoney, D. D., of Dublin, Ireland, is also here to observe that he may later tell his countrymen about the far-famed institution at Cliff Haven. These are but a few of the gifted men and women who have come recently; there are so many others who have been here since the opening of the session that the gathering is large and representative of all the learned and technical professions.

It was fitting therefore, that at the suggestion of the Rev. President, Dr. John Talbot Smith, weekly recitals at which only men and women of unusual talent and distinction should entertain, were instituted. The first of these occurred this week, and was so pronounced a success that another will be given within a few days. A talk brimful of enthusiasm and great hope for the future of Catholic education, by the eminent Jesuit, Father Quinn. A brief Chopin recital by the director of the Philadelphia Musical Academy, Camille Zeckwer, Mrs. D., and dramatic readings from Macbeth and some of the modern comedies by Frank Keenan, the actor, made up a program that kept a packed auditorium in rapt attention.

The non-professional side of life also receives its stimulus weekly on Saturday evenings, when amateur theatricals are the vogue. The last performance was a brilliant success. "A Bunch of Roses", a clever little comedy was presented by a capable cast consisting of Mrs. Clara Barnes of Boston, Miss Beatrice Lynch and Miss Mary Quinlan of Syracuse, Miss Cathryn Hoffmann of Corning, Mr. William Leonard of Brooklyn, Mrs. Philip Schwartz and Mr. Harold Ross of New York City, and Mr. Howard Greene of Boston.

Irish History and Catholic Education were the themes developed by able lecturers during this week in the auditorium. The first was discussed by Charles Johnston, the son of a famous member of Parliament and the author of a recent successful book "The Story of Ireland." Another author who has recently won fame, Rev. Robert Schwickerath, S. J., of Boston, lectured in the evenings. He took up the second topic, discussing it particularly in regard to the Catholic ideals of the education of women. Both lecturers made a decidedly favorable impression on this their first visit to Cliff Haven.

Federation Convention.

Slight Changes in its Program

Next Sunday, July 29, the Fifth Nat. Convention of the American Federation of Catholic Societies will be opened at Buffalo, N. Y. The opening services will be conducted at St. Joseph's Cathedral at 10:30 a. m. by Rt. Rev. Chas. H. Colton, D. D., in the presence of a large assembly of prelates and priests and delegates representing no less than one million and a half of Catholic citizens of all nationalities. The Rt. Rev. J. F. R. Canavin, D. D., Bishop of Pittsburg will preach the sermon.

During the convention sessions all the important questions of the day such as "Divorce," "Socialism," "The School Question," "Indian Schools," "Libraries," etc. will be discussed and prominent speakers have been invited to deliver addresses on these subjects. It is to be regretted that the Hon. Bourke Cockran, on account of illness, will be unable to deliver his address on "Catholic Citizenship" at the Monday evening Mass Meeting at Convention Hall, however, the Rev. Francis Clement Kelley, the energetic president of the Church Extension Society, has kindly consented to fill the vacancy and will lecture on "The Dream of Equality." Other speakers will be Hon. Judge D. J. Konefick of the Supreme Court, Hon. Nicholas Gonner of Dubuque, Iowa, and Hon. Thos. B. Minahan, National President.

One of the main subjects to be discussed by the convention will be the advisability of uniting with the Federation the work of the "Volksverein" whose object is the re-establishment of christian order in society through the means as proposed by Windthorst, namely by a campaign of education. This work is greatly favored by His Holiness Pius X. If the "Volksverein" plan is adopted the scope of the Federation will be greatly enlarged and it is expected that in due course of time the Federation will embrace every Catholic citizen in the United States.

The Buffalo Committee announces that the musical programme at the Sunday afternoon mass meeting will be rendered by the male choir of St. Ann and St. Boniface churches, and at the mass meeting Monday evening the choir of the church of the Seven Dolors will sing. A grand Social Gathering has been arranged for the delegates on Wednesday (instead of a Boat Ride) at "The Villa," Main & Jefferson Sts.

President Roosevelt and Congress

A Review of Legislation of General and Particular Interest to Catholics at the last Session of Congress.

(Special to The Journal.)

Washington, D. C., July 17, 1906.

THE TARIFF

It was expected of President Roosevelt from many quarters that he would send a message to Congress favoring a revision of the tariff schedules. While there is no question about the President's position in favor of a revision of some of the schedules that are too high, it would have been impossible for him to undertake this at the last session of Congress. The rate bill, and innumerable other questions pertaining to the regulation of the trusts and the curbing of the money power engaged his full attention. If he had undertaken too much, by adding tariff revision to his list of immediate reforms, he would have failed in all. Besides, the country was prosperous, and no very urgent demands for revision had been made. Still, there is no doubt in the minds of those who know the President that tariff revision will come when his other plans of reform in behalf of the people have been disposed of, and that the Regulation of the Railroad Rates will be followed by a regulation of the Tariff Rates.

THE NATIONAL AMENDMENT

In addition to continuing the allowance of the tribal funds, amounting to $98,000, Congress also passed the national amendment to the Indian Appropriation Bill, allowing certain reservations to the Catholic Indians who attend our mission schools. This gives them about $80,000 in addition to the above sum.

CONNECTION TO ST. IGNATIUS MISSION

With the opening of the Indian Reservations an allotment in severalty to the Indians would necessarily follow. The Jesuit Fathers, who had labored so successfully among the Flathead Indians, would then lose the land upon which their property was located. A bill was introduced and passed to give to the Fathers of the Flathead Reservation a right to the land amounting to 1,100 acres.

APPROPRIATION FOR PROVIDENCE HOSPITAL

A bill was introduced and passed appropriating $10,000 for Providence Hospital of this city, in charge of the Sisters of Charity. Mr. Beckwith, of Wisconsin, is the Chairman of the district committee. This appropriation followed another for $20,000 for a contagious annex to the same hospital made a short time ago.

STATUS TO COMMODORE JOHN BARRY

Continuing its policy of justice to Catholics Congress passed a bill providing for the erection of a statue to that great Irish Catholic patriot Commodore John Barry, father of the American Navy. The Irish World, of New York City, deserves great credit for the able and enthusiastic manner in which it supported the measure, and the great store of historical information on the subject which it published in columns of that institution, but always interesting paper.

APPOINTMENTS OF CATHOLICS

Just as Congress was fair and just in passing these and minor bills of importance to Catholics, so the administration was liberal in the way of appointments. Not that any man was appointed because he was a Catholic, but rather, that the fact of his being a Catholic did not, as heretofore, stand in the way

Among the many appointments Catholics made, I will mention a few of the most prominent:

Hon. Charles Joseph Benson, Secretary of the Navy

James F. Smith, Governor-General of the Philippines Islands.

Lawrence O. Murray, Asst. Secretary, Department of Commerce and Labor.

W. A. DeLoach, Judge of the Supreme Court of Washington, D. C.

Thomas J. Sullivan, Director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing.

Joseph E. Ralph, Asst. Director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing.

Hon. Charles B. Nell, Catholic University, Commissioner of Labor.

Michael J. Karwis, Postmaster, Southern District, New York.

Wm. Michael Byrne, Asst. U. S. District Atty., New York City.

E. J. Wynne, U. S. Consul General to London.

THE CONGRESSIONAL ELECTIONS

There is some talk here about the possibility of the election of a Democratic House this fall. An event could be more ill-timed. It would be an avowed disapproval of the president's course, and have a tendency to check, if not defeat, his plans. If ever a President needed a House of his own party, President Roosevelt needs it now, and what is more, deserves it. It has been in a great many sections of the country, and have heard the promises of the people regarding the President. Every man, be he a democrat or republican, be he from the North, the South, the East or West, feels that the President, President, represents his interests, his policies, in other words, represents the people.

And during the four years of term as President the people of the United States will have every opportunity to show their approval of his work in their hands. I tender him an unequalled endorsement, and that is by far the best this fall a Congress of his party, sending back to Washington the man who have stood him so nobly, thus fulfilling their solemn duty to the people.

In view of the foregoing, I mean I may be justified in saying that if any Congress of the United States deserves the approval and endorsement of the people, it is the present one. It is in the consideration of the bill affecting the general interests of the country, and the people, that I forget to mention the bill of Mr. L. SOMMERS.
